MAINE SENATE SEAT CAPTURED BY REPUBLICAN

Arthur R. Gould Is Elected by More Than 50,000 Majority Despite Many Charges.

REDMAN PLANNING ELECTION CONTEST

Ku Klux Klan Figured in Election, Opposing Winner; Light Vote Cast in State.

Portland, Me., November 29.—(AP)—Retention of republican control of the United States senate was assured by the election today of Arthur R. Gould, republican, by a majority of approximately 50,000 over Fulton J. Redman, democrat, as senator from Maine. He will complete the term of the late Senator Bert M. Fernald, expiring in 1931.

The total vote was only a little more than half that cast in the state election in September. Chairman Dan W. Cony, of the democratic state committee, conceded Gould's election early in the evening.

Gould Carries Cities.

Gould carried every city. In 1924, running against Senator Fernald, Redman carried the cities of Biddeford, Lewiston, Old Town, Waterville and Westbrook. Fernald's majority in that election was 51,355.

The Ku Klux Klan figured in the campaign when one of its leading members filed charges that Gould had exceeded the legal limit in his primary campaign expenditures. Governor Ralph O. Brewster, republican, backed these charges. After a hearing the secretary of state threw them out on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Gould supporters accused the governor of seeking klan support for his rumored candidacy for the senate two years hence. The governor took occasion to deny that he was a member of the klan.

Mr. Gould is president of the Aroostock Valley railroad. In 1921-23 he served in the state senate, his only previous public office.

Mr. Redman is a lawyer with offices in Ellsworth and New York. He has served one term in the state house of representatives.

CONTEST IS PLANNED BY FULTON REDMAN.

Ellsworth, Me., November 29.—(AP) Fulton J. Redman, defeated democratic candidate for United States senator, declared tonight that he had just begun to fight and would take the contest over the election of Arthur B. Gould of Presque Isle, his republican opponent, to Washington.

"The late election," said Mr. Redman, "shows the futility of waging a campaign against a solid phalanx of newspapers, few of which have presented anything but one side of the case, and some indulging in the most flagrant misrepresentation.

"I am not deterred by the whitewash of a hostile press, by attorneys who adroitly keep out evidence on the ground that it will incriminate and degrade the primary campaign managers of my opposent or even by the cloak of Senator Butler."

REPUBLICANS JUBILANT OVER GOULD'S VICTORY.

Washington, November 29.—(AP)—Election of Arthur R. Gould, republican, to the United States senate from Maine, was received with unveiled enthusiasm tonight in republican circles here, where, since the congressional elections four weeks ago, eyes had been turned on the northeastern state to break the 47-47 membership tie between republicans and democrats.

With the Maine vacancy filled by another republican, the 70th congress will begin next year with a republican majority of only one in the senate and a much more comfortable republican margin in the house.

The senate line-up now reads: Republicans 48; democrats 47; farmer-labor, 1.

Increase of $3,700 Voted in Salaries Of County Workers

Two Workers Added to Clerk's Office and Nine Employees Get Boosts in Pay.

COMMISSION SEES BIG CASH SAVING

No Allusion Made to Grand Jury's Recommendation for 10 Per Cent Payroll Cut.

Approval of salary schedules for county officials and their assistants submitted to the commission by the heads of various departments, which called for an aggregate increase of $3,700 for 1927 was voted Monday afternoon by the Fulton county commission in special executive session.

Election of officers originally scheduled to be held Monday afternoon was postponed by the commission until the January meeting.

The salary schedule as adopted is practically the same in effect in 1926, with the exception of nine changes in salaries of court attaches.

Heads of the various departments will continue to receive $12,000 per year each, these being Sheriff James I. Lowry, Solicitor General John A. Boykin, whose salary is fixed by the legislature; Roy Dorsey, solicitor of the criminal court of Atlanta; W. S. Richardson, tax collector; W. H. Abbott, tax receiver; Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, ordinary, and Tom C. Miller, clerk of superior court.

Additional salaries to be paid new workers consisted of $2,400, which will be paid at the rate of $1,200 a year each to Miss Eleanor Maud and Mrs. H. K. Sturdivant, who were voted employment as clerks in the office of the clerk of superior court.

Salary Increases.

T. E. Suttles, chief deputy of the tax collector's office, was raised from $5,000 to $6,000 per year; Miss Nora Townley, a clerk in the same office, from $1,800 to $2,400 annually; W. G. Smith, deputy sheriff, from $2,400 to $2,700 per year; Patrick H. Calhoun, clerk in the ordinary's office, from $2,700 to $3,000 annually; J. L. Poindexter, of the clerk's office, from $1,500 to $1,800; and Mrs. H. L. Griff, Miss Sue North, Miss Gertrude Russell and Mrs. A. V. Overshiner, of the clerk's office, from $1,200 to $1,500 per year.

No allusion was made by the commission to the recommendations of the October and November grand juries which urged 10 per cent reduction in salaries of county officials and their assistants.

Big Saving Seen.

A report was made to the effect that a $162,341.93 cash saving had been made by the commission in the operation of county affairs for twelve months ending September 30, 1926, the fiscal year. The fiscal year is the first year of operation under the salary system since abolishion of the old fee system.

CARROLL RETURNS; IS "ALL FED UP" WITH STAGE BATHS

New York, November 29.—(AP)—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, returned on the Levinthan today "all fed up" with stage baths.

Carroll is under sentence of a year and a day in connection with a stage "bathtub party" in his theater in which a show girl was reported to have bathed in a tub of champagne.

The theatrical man was given court permission to go abroad on business pending hearing of his appeal. He said today that in Paris he attended the Moulin Rouge with his wife and witnessed "a series of historic baths." He said that Roman and Greek bathing customs were depicted on the stage and this was followed by a take-off on his own "party."

Carroll said his wife wanted him to rise and take a bow, but that he felt "so demoralized" he just slunk down in his seat.

"I was all fed up with that sort of thing," he said.

GRADY PAY WARD MOVE APPROVED BY CIVIC LEADERS

City and County Must Raise $300,000 To Obtain $100,000 Gift by Jacob Elsas.

ONE YEAR REMAINS TO OBTAIN FUNDS

Unless City and County Meet Stipulations Offer Will Be Withdrawn in One Year.

Leading civic organizations of Atlanta Monday gave unqualified support to the movement now under way to meet stipulations which will make available a gift of $100,000 by Jacob Elsas, prominent Atlanta business man, to be used as a part of a fund to build and equip a pay ward at Grady hospital. Mr. Elsas announced two years ago he would give $100,000 for this purpose if the city and county would give $300,000.

Under stipulations the money to be raised by the city and county must be obtained within three years after the promise of the gift was made, and this gives the city and county authorities less than one year to comply with the terms.

Among officers of local organizations who approved a plan under which the city and county would make substantial appropriations soon to begin the work, were W. D. Hoffman, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, and Syd Tiller, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

The purpose of the pay ward will be to serve people of moderate incomes who are not able to pay for hospital services for periods of long duration in local hospitals, yet who do not care to enter Grady hospital or send members of their family to Grady hospital as charity patients.

Mr. Hoffman declared that the addition of a pay ward to Grady hospital, properly managed, would prove to be of vast benefit to people of moderate incomes.

"The offer of Mr. Elsas is truly a generous one and the authorities should meet stipulations which will make it available," he said.

Mrs. Rambo said the gift of Mr. Elsas is a generous one and that city and county authorities should take definite action to meet the terms which will give the city the pay ward. Mrs. Rambo said it would serve a large part of the population of the city and that establishment of such a ward would appeal to all the women of the city.

Mr. Tiller said he knows of nothing the city needs more at this time than a pay ward at Grady hospital.

"The city and county authorities by all means should take the action necessary to make the gift of Mr. Elsas available for the pay ward," he said.

3 Girls Held, Two Stabbed, In Knife Fight

Sisters in Hospital After Women Battle With Knives Over Toy Fan.

Two sisters, Annie and Bessie Bowen, of 110 Estoria street, both employees of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills, were treated at Grady hospital late Monday afternoon for knife wounds on the arms and about the face, received, they told doctors, when attacked by three women as they were leaving the mill gates just after work hours Monday afternoon.

Soon after the altercation Monday afternoon police arrested three young women, Lula Bryson, 22, and her 19-year-old sister, Annie Bryson, and Ada Lou Wallace, 17, all of 158 Berean avenue, on charges of disorderly conduct and stabbing.

The Bryson sisters admit using knifes, according to police, and stated that they were defending themselves from the Bowen girls, who also had knifes, they said.

The Bryson girls claim that a young man, whose name was furnished police, grabbed Lula Bryson and attempted to hold her for the Bowen girls to cut her, and they were only using the knives in self-defense.

The trouble is said to have started over the disappearance of a toy fan, which, Lula Bryson stated, the Bowen sister accused her of taking.

Trouble had been brewing between the participants during the day and the stabbing Monday afternoon was the aftermath of a fight said to have taken place in the mill during the afternoon, where all of them were employed, according to information given to police.

SIMPSON PLANS TO ASK COURT FOR MISTRIAL

Action Will Be Based on Letter From Hotel Owner Charging Jury Is Prejudiced.

SAYS NINE JURORS FAVOR ACQUITTAL

BY GRACE ROBINSON.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Somerville, N. J., November 29.—A mistrial loomed in the Hall-Mills murder case today following receipt by the court of a letter charging that prejudice exists in the jury. The document was signed by Gilbert Van Dorn, owner of the Colonial Hotel, where the jurors are lodged.

Special Prosecutor Simpson said tonight he would ask for a dismissal of the case at the close of court tomorrow, or Wednesday morning at the latest, provided he has been able by that time to gather affidavits supporting Van Dorn's charge.

"I wrote that letter because I did not want it said that Somerset county is a place where justice could not be obtained," said Van Dorn tonight. "I wouldn't take the stand for $10,000, but if the judges want me to tell my story I shall do so. As I am the third largest taxpayer in Somerset county I think I have a right to be heard.

Nine to Three for Acquittal.

"Long before the evidence was in the jurymen discussed the case violently and so loudly I could not help hearing their opinions. Three were for conviction and the other nine for acquittal."

It was pointed out tonight that the letter was only one circumstance in a long chain of strange happenings that Simpson's aides are investigating. These include telephone calls received by the jurors and holiday visitors entertained by them at their lodgings.

For days the prosecutions' cohorts have asserted that two jurors were apparently sleeping during the sensational testimony of Jane Gibson, the woman pig farmer, given from a sick bed in the courtroom.

Authorship of the letter was at first attributed to Willie Viola, proprietor of a restaurant where the jurymen eat their evening meal. Viola, however, denied any knowledge of the communication, and Van Dorn then came forward as the author.

Move Unprecedented.

Legal experts point out that such a move on the part of the prosecution is almost unprecedented. A move for dismissal of a case is generally made by the defense. If granted a mistrial, Senator Simpson probably would apply for a foreign jury such as he unsuccessfully sought at Trenton before the supreme court when the preliminary steps leading to the present trial were taken.

These indications that the whole show may be brought to a close with-

U. S. DESTROYERS RUSH TO HANKOW IN CHINESE CRISIS

Foreign Settlements Reported Paralyzed; British Marines Land To Protect Nationals.

AMERICANS SEND FOOD SUPPLIES

Consuls Also Ask Naval Protection in Fukien, Near Shanghai as Northern Forces Collapse.

BY JOHN POWELL.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Shanghai, November 29.—Two American destroyers departed from Shanghai for Hankow tonight upon urgent orders from American Consul Lockhard at Hankow, owing to the menacing situation resulting from the general strike and anti-foreign agitation which is completely paralyzing the foreign settlements, even preventing food supplies from reaching the foreigners.

The head offices here of American, British and Japanese firms are dispatching food supplies to Hankow today. Reports from Hankow tonight state British marines have landed to prevent violence to British interests as a consequence of the general strike tying up all factories, newspapers and business houses.

A serious situation also is developing in Fukien province south of Shanghai, due to the collapse of the northern forces and threatened looting of the town of Foochow, containing important American missionary interests. The American, British and Japanese consuls at Foochow held a conference this morning asking for naval protection.

The situation in Shanghai is quiet pending a clash hereabouts between the Fengtien and Koumintang armies, who are now racing in this direction, each trying to forestall the other in the occupation of the Shanghai district.

Fengtien troops, under General Chang Chun Chang, are arriving at Nanking, north of Shanghai, while Cantonese troops under General Chang Kai-Shek are advancing from the south via Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces.

The Chinese public in the lower Yangtze area is strongly opposed to the Fentein occupation, demanding that General Chang Tso-Lin withdraw his troops and also demanding that the powers prevent loans to Pekin.

The whole of central China is suffering from a salt famine, due to the control of the coastal salt works by the Fengtien forces, preventing shipment inland.

The British are seriously concerned over the growing anti-Britishism throughout north China. The local British press is publishing an editorial

Nobility Fights Weddings

:: OBJECT TO BEING SOLD TO SOCIAL LIGHTS ::

On 'Bargain-Shelf' Basis

BY RALPH HEINZEN.

Paris, November 29.—Strong-willed young scions of European nobility are objecting to what they term the American bargain counter for marriage. They want to marry when and whom they please, and object to being auctioned off to daughters of American society women seeking prestige.

Just as it became apparent in the recent action of the Sacra Romana Rota that some American society girls are forced against their wish to marry titles, so too are eligible young noblemen handled by their families, often financialy impoverished, as an asset likely to build up again the family fortune.

These youths are given a thorough education in the ways of a man of the world, trained in equitation, polo, bridge, dancing, languages and parlor conversation, all in preparation for the day when they can be offered in marriage to a wealthy daughter of America.

From their 16th year on they are carefully guarded. Their friendships are vised, and an especially close tab is kept on their women acquaintances.

When the youth is of marriageable age a family council decides upon a plan of campaign, and not infrequently, the family will "pool" its finances to allow the youth to mix in with the most exclusive circles in which move also the American society women, hungry for social powers, and their daughters.

There are today, in Paris, on the auction table, several hundred youths of varying stages of nobility and of many nationalities. At present the trend seems to be towards the Russian nobility. This is perhaps explainable by the fact that while the highest French rank, available at present, is count, there are dozens of Russian princes and dukes available for a sum ranging from a flat purchase price of $3,000,000 to a trust fund offering an annual revenue of $200,000, made out in the husband's name for life.

U. S. COUNSEL WIN VICTORY AT TRIAL OF FALL, DOHENY

Court Admits Testimony Taken in Senate Quiz as Evidence; Jurors Hear Reading.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, November 29.—The tense drama of the senate investigation was missing today as government counsel read in carefully modulated tones to the placid youthful jury in the Fall-Doheny case the story of the California oil leases, "Little Black Bag" and $100,000 loan and all, that created a national sensation nearly three years ago.

The story was read to the jury after the decision of Justice Adolph Hoebling, delivered at opening of the court, allowing admission of the senate investigation proceedings, a victory for the government.

It took nearly all day to read the testimony, defense counsel insisting that the portions telling of the employmetn by Doheny of William G. McAdoo and other sections be given to the jury, and time was left only for hearing two witnesses in identification of the check and note for the $100,000 loan made to Doheny by Fall.

Night Sessions.

After today's proceedings, it was decided to hold night sessions beginning Tuesday night in order to speed up the trial and get it finished before Christmas. Wilton J. Lambert, of defense counsel, expressed the opinion that the trial would be cut short considerably by admission of the senate investigation's testimony, as it would make it unnecessary for the government to call numerous witnesses to build up this part of its case.

Fall was present today as the story was read, sitting languidly at the end of the long table with his counsel.

Doheny was there, following the testimony line by line.

But the clash of personality was lacking, except to those who had watched the persistent Senator Walsh of Montana as he quizzed the oil mag-

ALLEN ANNOUNCES AS INDEPENDENT

Will Run Against Party Nominee for Council; T. C. Morris Withdraws From Race.

Cecil G. Allen announced Monday night that he would be an independent candidate for alderman from the second ward in Wednesday's regular city election. Earlier in the day T. C. Morris, defeated for renomination to council from the fifth ward, withdrew as an independent "in the interest of harmony," and a full slate of nominees were scheduled to be elected without a single opponent.

Mr. Allen, councilman from the second ward, was defeated by three votes in the city primary by Dr. P. L. Moon, in the aldermanic contest. He contested the result and the matter was taken before the Fulton grand jury, which body recommended a recount.

The city democratic executive committee refused to comply with the recommendations and a mandamus absolute was argued before Judge John D. Humphries, in which Mr. Allen sought to compel the committee

GORE DECISION TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER BY JUDGE

Saturday or Monday Is Date Set When Judge Park Will Give Decision on Injunction.

Gray, Ga., November 29.—(AP)—After hearing of an injunction plea here today seeking to stay the execution of Mel M. Gore, Buckhead barber, under death sentence for participation in the murder of W. H. Cheek, Atlanta grocer, Judge James B. Park, of the Cemulgee circuit, announced that he would withhold his decision until Saturday afternoon or not later than Monday.

Judge Park on last Thursday granted a temporary injunction preventing Gore from being electrocuted last Friday, the contention of Gore's attorneys being that the electrocution law specifies that a warden must be the executioner, and that there is no legal warden at the state farm. Judge Park set today as the time when he would hear arguments on the injunction.

Three Wardens.

Judge T. E. Patterson, of the state prison commission, and Ed A. Stephens, assistant solicitor general of the Atlanta circuit, argued that there are three legal wardens at the state farm, either of whom would be qualified to electrocute prisoners.

Gore was represented by Reuben A. Garland, Louis S. Maritzer and Linton S. James.

The petitioners for Gore claimed that Superintendent Dunnaway, superintendent of the state farm had no authority to execute the sentence having never been elected warden by the prison commission and contended that in his present capacity of superintendent and warden of the male prison camp at the state farm to execute Gore would be illegal and unconstitutional.

Representatives of the prison commission on the other hand, denied that there was no warden and that to execute the terms of the sentence would be illegal. They submitted a demurrer to the injunction granting a temporary stay of the execution of the Buckhead barber.

The petitioners contended further that there had been no warden of the state penitentiary since 1924, after the special act was passed providing for the electrocution of prisoners. The attorneys granted that Dunnaway was warden of the male prison camp at the state farm, but argued that there were also two other wardens at the farm, and that the law provided that "the warden of the state penitentiary" carry out the execution, with the aid of two assistants.

Judge Plans Action.

Before hearing the arguments, Judge Park made it clear to both sides that he had granted the temporary injunction after a thorough investigation and that it was not his intention to interfere with the law or the sentence pronounced by the Fulton county superior court. After investigation, he told counsel for both sides, he had come to the conclusion there was in reality some doubt as to whether a warden of the state penitentiary really existed and that under these circumstances to proceed with the execution would be illegal.

R. E. Davidson, of Greensboro, chairman of the prison commission board, and Mr. Dunnaway, of the state prison farm, were present at the hearing.

$350,000 FIRE LOSS AT LUMBER PLANT

THREE-YEAR DRIVE WILL BE HEADED BY WM. CANDLER

WIDE APPROVAL OF PLAN SHOWN

Body Will Begin Immediately To Raise Fund for Publicity; Former Subscribers Come In.

Because of the success of Atlanta's $250,000 national advertising campaign, plans were formed Monday to raise $1,000,000 here to be expended over a period of three years in carrying on this work on a greater scale, it was announced following an enthusiastic meeting of the board of directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce held Monday. The campaign is to begin immediately, the same officers who waged the previous successful fight for funds to be in charge, and the $1,000,000 will be raised between now and December 18, according to the program, and because of assurances of support given by leading business interests of the city.

Success of the $250,000 expenditure in national advertising was so spontaneous and so tangible in dollars and cents that the business leaders at the meeting Monday expressed unanimous approval of the plan to quadruple the sum heretofore raised for this purpose, which has been expended through the industrial bureau of the chamber of commerce.

William Candler, chairman of the committee which was successful one year ago in raising the $250,000, again will lead the campaign committee and will be aided by the same leaders who helped in that movement.

Commission Is Picked.

One million dollars, to be subscribed over a period of three years and invested over the same period in national advertising, is the goal of the campaign. This idea has been approved by a large number of the largest contributors to the first campaign fund, who have volunteered to subscribe substantial amounts far in excess of their first subscriptions.

The same men who have so successfully carried on the advertising for Atlanta for the past ten months will stick on the job for three years, it was announced, assuring investors in advertising that the same principles will be adhered to.

This commission will consist of Ivan E. Allen, W. R. C. Smith, William Candler, Frank Adair, Frank H. Neely, George M. Hope, H. Lane Young and the chairman of the finance committee of city council, who

Royal Rumanian Succession

Holds Varied Possibilities

(Editor's Note—Thomas Cadett, of The London Times, is the holder of the Walter Hines Page newspaper fellowship, and is spending a year in America under the terms of the fellowship. He has temporarily joined the staff of The Constitution. Mr. Cadett has served on the staffs of The San Francisco Chronicle and The Chicago Daily News. BY THOMAS CADETT.

The Balkans are running true to type. Ever since the balance of European power has depended upon the attitude of the southeastern states they have shown a proper appreciation of the fact by acting as storm - centers par excellence.

The world war may or may not have limited their power of embroiling larger and relatively more important powers, but they themselves are still far from quiet. So it is that the mere question of dynastic succession to the supposedly moribund King Ferdinand of Rumania is attended with many possibilities, some of them dangerous, though fortunately the danger seems limited immediately to Rumanian affairs alone.

Any discussion of the present state of affairs, dependent as it must be upon the meager news that has so far filtered through, can only be along general lines; and, for the same reason, nothing more authoritative than conjecture is possible. But the question of a successor to King Ferdinand offers certain obvious alternatives.

Prince Carol's Status.

There is Prince Carol, who is still Prince Carol in spite of the matrimonial and other indiscretions that led to his being exiled and "struck off the rolls," so to speak; his popularity with the army and many of the peasants, of whom Rumania is largely composed, may encourage an attempt to seize the throne that would undoubtedly have been his if his behavior had been more orthodox. And there is Queen Marie, a vivid personality, with not only the example of Queen Victoria before her, but also undoubtedly with much of her grandmother's intelligence and ability.

As far as Queen Marie is concerned, if Prince Carol remains out of the picture and the normal rules of succession are observed, she will presumably act as regent for the 5-year-old son of Prince Carol, Prince Michael, whose rights have in no way been affected by the removal of his father. Whether she acts alone or as a member of a regency council seems, as yet, problematical, but on every score a regency of one rather than an unwieldy body of four or five people would seem more advisable.

Power For Marie.

If this should prove to be the case, it may well be that, after a quarter of a century, Victoria's granddaughter will succeed to a measure of power considerably exceeding that of the

FERDINAND AGAIN REPORTED DEAD

Queen Marie Receives Reassuring Message

S. S. Berengaria—(AP)—Queen Marie, now only a short distance from France, received a radiogram from King Ferdinand this afternoon reading: "Condition improving."

The Berengaria is due at Cherbourg at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, November 29. (AP)—Reports have been in circulation here today that King Ferdinand of Rumania is dead. These reports apparently originated from several sources, but they have not been officially confirmed, nor have any details been received establishing their authenticity.

The death of King Ferdinand of Rumania has been reported several times from various capitals. The Allegemeine Zeitung of Vienna has published an unconfirmed report from Bucharest that Ferdinand died on Saturday.

The explanation given for the secrecy maintained was that it was considered advisable not to disclose the facts of the king's death pending Queen Marie's return.

Flags were said to have been half staffed and theaters and stores closed Saturday at Klausenburg, in Transylvania, former Hungarian city, but now part of Rumania.

CENSORSHIP DECLARED ON BUCHAREST PAPERS.

Vienna, November 29.—Newspapers in Bucharest containing any reference to King Ferdinan's condition or the succession to the throne will be confiscated, according to the Telkomp News agency's corresponent in the Rumanian capital.

Managing editors and proprietors of all newspapers were summoned to the ministry of the interior to receive the edict of the government, the agency says.

PARIS MEETING MAY FIX CAROL'S FATE.

Paris, November 29.—(AP)—Queen Marie at sea and former Crown Prince Carol at Neuilly are the chief figures in the Rumanian situation; their expected meeting in Paris may shape the future history of the country.

King Ferdinand at Bucharest, latest reports say, has continued to improve. His serious condition is admitted; yet Rumanian government officials declare he is not in imminent danger of death.

The lull is giving the political sages an opportunity to speculate on weighty decisions, if any, which may be taken by the royal mother toward her wayward son. Carol is keeping his own counsel, and refuses to be enticed into a declaration of his attitude in the dynastic crisis.

Carol, it is true, renounced his rights to the throne, but his supporters believe that a minor aspect which can be changed legally or illegally, by peaceful persuasion or revolutionary force. What the former crown prince thinks, he has not yet said.

COPELAND QUITS RANKS OF PROHIS

New York, November 29.—(AP)—United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, democrat, hitherto listed politically as a dry, announced tonight that henceforth he would espouse the cause of modification.

"The referendum vote in the state last month on the wet and dry question," he said, "was a popular mandate, and was binding upon myself and every other representative in congress from the state."

Senator Copeland, who is a physician in private life, was asked if he thought 4 per cent beer intoxicating.

"I don't think so," he replied. "I am getting scientific data together in the preparation of a bill that will embody my judgment of modification. I have been in communication with the best scientific minds in the country. I expect that my bill, or possibly one like it, will be introduced in the short session beginning next week."

Senator Copeland said, however, that he thought there was very small chance of effecting modification on the Volstead act at this time, expressing the belief that a long process of education would be necessary before this can be brought about.

WHITE STAR FLEET SALE IS CONFIRMED

New York, November 29.—(Special.)—Cable advices received today by the New York office of the Royal Mail Steam Packet company confirm the purchase by the Royal Mail from the International Mercantile Marine company of the White Star line, which for many years has occupied a leading position in the trans-Atlantic passenger carrying trade.

The Royal Mail through this purchase adds nearly 500,000 tons of shipping to its fleet and brings under its flag such trans-Atlantic liners as the Majestic, the Olympic and the Homeric.

The fleet controlled by the Royal Mail exceeded 2,100,000 tons prior to the purchase and with the acquisition of the White Star line this figure will now be increased to 2,600,000 tons.

The following points are covered from the United States and Canada: Europe, east and west coast of South America, west coast of Africa, Bermuda, West Indies and in addition de luxe cruises are operated from New York to the West Indies, Mediterranean, South America and south and east Africa.

Offensive Laws Inspired By Wilson When President, Mexican Editorial Says

Capital Paper Asserts Former President Was in Favor of Socialist Republic in South.

Mexico City, November 29.—(AP)—President Wilson not only expressed a desire to come to Mexico to establish Mexican socialism constitutionally, Excelsior declares today, but he can be considered the real author of article 27 of the Mexican constitution, against which the American state department has made representations.

These declarations are made in an editorial replying to Washington dispatches saying that the state department records contained no statement by Mr. Wilson that he wished to see a socialist republic in Mexico, as asserted by Excelsior in an editorial Saturday.

On May 24, 1914, Excelsior says, the Saturday Evening Post printed an interview with Mr. Wilson in which he made several statements regarding Mexico, and which was used by Carlos Pereyra in his book, "Wilson's Crime." Quoting Pereyra's translation, the paper says Mr. Wilson declared: "Mexico's fight has been a fight for land: consequently we are going to settle the agrarian question, following by example the steps of New Zealand."

The paper asserts that in New Zealand all laws regarding land ownership are contained within socialistic formula, limiting not only the amount of land an individual can own but also the time of ownership through a renewable lease. This, it holds, establishes the truth of its statement that Mr. Wilson favored a socialistic republic in Mexico.

VIEWS OF WILSON GIVEN BY BLYTHE.

Philadelphia, November 29.—(AP)—The interview with President Wilson referred to editorially by the Mexico City Excelsior today, was published in the Saturday Evening Post of May 23, 1914, and was written by Samuel G. Blythe.

The conversation was held on April 27, 1914, Mr. Blythe wrote, "only a few hours after word had come that Huerta would accept the offer of mediation made by the representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile," in the trouble then existing.

Mr. Blythe quoted President Wilson as saying:

Wilson Is Quoted.

"It is a curious thing that every demand for establishment of order in Mexico takes into consideration, not order for the benefit of the people of Mexico, the great mass of the population, but order for the benefit of the old-time regime, for the aristocrats, for the vested interests, for the men who are responsible for this very condition of disorder. No one asks for order because order will help the masses of the people to get a portion of their rights and their land; but all demand it so that the great owners of property, the overlords, the hidalgos, the men who have exploited that rich country for their own selfish purposes, shall be able to continue their processes undisturbed by the protests of the people from whom their wealth and power have been obtained.

"The dangers that beset the republic are held to be the individual and corporate troubles of these men, not the aggregated injustices that have been heaped on this vastly greater section of the population that is now struggling to recover by force what has always been theirs by right.

"Old Order Is Dead."

"Then want order—the old order; but I say to you that the old order is dead. It is my part, as I see it, to aid in composing those differences so far as I may be able, that the new order, which will have its foundation on human liberty and human rights, shall prevail."

Mr. Blythe wrote that as a result of his conversation with Mr. Wilson, he could state the conclusion that the policy of the president including "a settlement of the agrarian land question by constitutional means—such as that followed in New Zealand, for example—will be insisted on."

Mr. Wilson was not directly quoted in the reference to New Zealand and there was no other mention of that country in the article.

Mr. Blythe asked Mr. Wilson whether in the event of successful mediation, offered at that time, his plans for the settlement of Mexico would be carried out.

Wants Wrongs Righted.

President Wilson was quoted in reply as follows:

"I hope so, for it's not my intention, having begun this enterprise, to turn back—unless I am forced to do so—until I have assurances that the great and crying wrongs the people have endured are in process of satisfactory adjustment. Of course it would not do for us to insist on an exact procedure for the partition of the land, for example, for that would set us up in the position of dictators, which we are not and never shall be; but it is not our intention to cease in our friendly offices until we are assured that all these matters are on their way to successful settlement.

"It is a great and complicated question, but I have every hope that a suitable solution will be found, and that the day will come when the Mexican people will be put in full possession of the land, the liberty and the peaceful prosperity that are rightfully theirs."

BISHOP'S CRUSADE WILL BEGIN TODAY

New York, November 29.—(AP)—Prayer services will be held tomorrow in all Episcopal churches throughout the country for the success of the "bishops' crusade," a nation-wide movement beginning January 6 against the "license of the times" and "to reawaken the entire membership of the church to their Christian obligations."

National headquarters will be opened in Washington and meetings and conferences will be conducted by 200 church leaders during January and February at strategic points throughout the country to the end that every listed member of the church be urged to renew the pledges he made at confirmation.

In an announcement outlining the purpose of the movement the committee on evangelism of the Protestant Episcopal church says that the fundamentals of the existing social order are threatened by an age in which "license has come to take the place of liberty and the well-ordered disciplines of domestic and social life are not only disregarded but defied."

The Christian church faces a serious situation, the commission holds, inasmuch as "its authority is challenged, and the very fundamental things upon which its fabric rests called in question. An age that is filled with speculations and doubt calls for a fresh and persistent affirmation of the great imperatives of our Christian faith."

Acceptance of "the heroic Gospel" rather than a "comfortable Gospel" will be urged in the crusade, says the commission, which believes that a "futile piety" is responsible for "much of the failure and impotence of the church, menaced by a type of Christian practice that lays claim to the refinements and respectability which professed allegiance to the church affords but that assumes no obligations to adhere to the high claims of an active, articulate faith."

$30,000 ROBBERY AT BANK FOILED

Miami, Fla., November 29.—A plot to rob the City National bank, in the heart of the downtown business district, was frustrated shortly after noon today.

Bank detectives arrested an unidentified messenger at the window of John Dunn, a paying teller in the bank, after the man had shoved in a note demanding $30,000. The messenger was said to have admitted his participation in the plot, and led officers to Royal Palm park nearby, where he pointed out Steven Logan Jennings, 25, Atlanta, Ga., a former newspaperman in several southeastern cities, as the man who had given him the note. Jennings, nattily attired, was taken in custody without resistance. He was said by police to have admitted his guilt.

A short while later, with Jennings and the messenger in jail, police returned and arrested Dunn, who later was released.

The note presented by the messenger follows:

"Read quickly. Hand over $30,000 in big bills, or my two buddies who are standing at each end of the bank will blow the place to ——. Keep quiet and wait on your customers for five minutes for they won't leave until then. Your money is insured so don't be a fool and risk your life and all the rest."

The message was unsigned.

A man named Steve Jennings, well known among local reporters, worked on Atlanta afternoon newspapers for many months. He had also worked on newspapers in Florida and several southern states. He recently was married to a Florida girl.

In this event Councilman Pennington will be named alderman for the unexpired term and Alderman Loehr as councilman.

Mr. Morris quit the race Monday following a conference with his attorney, Louis A. Burton. He stated that he was advised to quit in the interest of harmony in the democratic ranks.

The defeated nominee declared that although he fells that he was illegally and unfairly deprived of the nomination, he is willing to quit the contest to keep harmony in the party and preserve the primary system in the city.

Paris May Name Famous Author U.S. Ambassador

Paris, November 29.—France may choose one of her most prominent authors as ambassador to the United States, it was learned at the foreign office when an official referred to Paul Claudel, present envoy to Tokio, as the most likely choice to succeed former Ambassador Henri Berenger.

Claudel became a prominent member of the social and diplomatic life in Tokio soon after his arrival there several years ago. He was widely known among Japanese scholars and older members of the diplomatic corps. A Claudel play, presented at one of the Tokio theaters soon after the ambassador's arrival, was given in the nature of a welcome to him by the Tokio foreign community.

DALTON MAN DIES OF BULLET WOUNDS

Dalton, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—Joe Wallace, well known young man, died early today in the hospital here from the wounds said to have been inflicted by Lee Whitson, Sunday afternoon, while out riding with two young women companions. Wallace, in his dying statement, stated that he did not know why Whitson shot him, but it is stated that the version of the occurance related by the girls indicated that an altercation arose between Whitson and Wallace.

After bringing Wallace to the hospital here, Whitson, it is said, took an automobile and disappeared. It is stated that the car has been located in Cleveland, Tenn., but Whitson has not been apprehended.

The young men belong to good families here and were close friends. Wallace was shot four times and an unsuccessful operation was performed in an effort to save his life.

Friends of Whitson claim that he shot in self-defense, but Wallace in his dying statement claimed that he was shot without provocation.

take S.S.S. and be PROUD of a CLEAR SKIN

DOES YOUR MIRROR reveal a soft, clear, ruddy skin, free from imperfections, that is such a joy to every woman? Or are you embarrassed with blemishes, pimples, little eruptions, acne, blackheads and other unsightly and disfiguring handicaps?

Your skin is in reality your passport, and if your mirror reveals a blemished, unsightly complexion, it is time to begin at once to correct this annoying condition. When the blood becomes infected with humors or impurities, the circulation cannot supply rich nutrition to the skin, but instead it deposits the acrid impurities with which it is contaminated into the sensitive fibres and tissues. This causes irritation or inflammation which splits or breaks the outer cuticle, while the tissues beneath ulcerate, become inflamed, break out into pimples, and cause other unsightly irritations.

Just as Long as the Blood Remains Pure, the Skin Will Be Free From Eruptions

But when the blood becomes affected with humors, its nourishing and healthful properties are lost, and its humor-laden condition causes inflammation of the delicate tissue and fibres of the pores and glands. You have but to realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of all skin disorders is in the blood. Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and therefore cannot be reached by a treatment that is strictly local, but is deep down in the blood supply.

S.S.S. Has a Proved Record of Over 100 Years as the World's Best Blood Medicine

Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it clears the system and makes those so-called skin disorders impossible to exist. S.S.S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh which is also important to beauty. It will fill out your hollow cheeks, put the "ruby" of health in your cheeks and the sparkle in your eyes. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been beautifying complexions and giving women physical charm. That is why S.S.S. is accepted as the greatest of all blood cleansers and body builders. "SERVING THE SOUTH FOR MORE THAN SIXTY YEARS"

Keeping Pace With Atlanta

ATLANTA and her suburbs have a population today of 317,000, according to the estimate of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, based upon the telephones in service.

That shows a remarkable growth within the past year. It is a healthy, substantial growth, because it was not based upon "boom" conditions.

When the Atlanta and Lowry National was born, in 1865, the town had perhaps 10,000 inhabitants and the the telephone was not dreamed of. The city has developed with swift strides—but not more swiftly, more steadily, than the bank which has kept pace with it.

Always the Atlanta and Lowry has welcomed new citizens, new industries. Throughout the years it has helped to provide for worthy enterprises the capital which is the life blood of business.

Today, with the largest invested capital and surplus of any bank in the South; under governmental supervision as a national bank; with three offices for the convenience of its customers, the Atlanta and Lowry invites these new Atlantans to become its friends and patrons.

to follow the grand jury recommendations. The action was denied on the grounds that the Fulton superior court lacked jurisdiction.

Previously Mr. Allen had been noncommittal and only decided late Monday night to enter the race as a "protest against primary irregularities, upon a platform of principle to protect the sacredness of our suffrage," he said.

Allen Outlines Position.

"The purity of our ballot box should not be desecrated in such an autocratic manner and with so flagrant a disregard for the will of voters who have a right to express their choice and a right to expect that it be counted as voted," Mr. Allen said. "I am fighting for a principle, for protection of our voting system, in the interest of the primary law in so far as keeping it clean and a medium for true expression of our citizens regarding their officeholders. That I won in the primary I have no doubt, otherwise I would abide the result. My only recourse now is to go before the people of Atlanta."

Council Monday afternoon ratified the voters' lists, a catalogue of qualified voters containing 23,347 votes. Predictions were that less than 1,500 would visit the polls Wediesday.

Council also accepted resignations of Councilman R. F. Pennington and Alderman T. H. Loehr, of the first Both these men have been nominated for alderman and councilman, respectively, and in accordance with advice of City Attorney James L. Mason, resigned their posts to meet a technicality of law which prohibits a man holding two elective offices at the same time.

Meeting Monday.

It is expected that their names will be placed in nomination to fill the posts to which they will be elected Wednesday by Sam Wardlaw, third member of the first ward's delegation in council. This will come before council at its meeting next Monday.

Important Supreme Court
:: GEORGIA RAIL EQUIPMENT LAW IS HELD VOID ::
Decisions Are Announced

Washington, November 29.—(AP)—States are prohibited from prescribing equipment for railroad locomotives operating within their borders, the supreme court declared today in cases from Wisconsin and Georgia.

Holding that the field was exclusively occupied by the federal government under the boiler inspection act, the court overturned a Georgia law requiring locomotives to have automatic fire box doors, and a Wisconsin regulation prescribing curtain equipment for locomotive cabs.

The appeal of E. A. Edenfield, attacking his conviction in southern Georgia on the charge of violating the Volstead act by manufacturing intoxicating liquor was today set for hearing on January 17, next, upon the insistence of the government that it be expedited.

North Carolina lost in the supreme court today when the imposition of its inheritance tax upon an estate held in trust in another state was set aside, and the decision of the lower court reversed.

Theodosia Haynes Taylor and others while residing in North Carolina placed certain property then in the custody of the Springfield, Mass., Safe and Deposit company in trust for the benefit of her husband and child. When she died her will was probated in Burke county, North Carolina, and the tax was imposed by the state.

It was contended in the lower courts that the property was outside North Carolina and that the state havign contributed nothing to the inheritance of the property had no right to tax it.

DECISION FORESEEN, DECLARES NAPIER.

Decision of the United States supreme court in setting aside Georgia's automatic firebox door law as invalid was anticipated, Attorney General George M. Napier said Monday night, by reason of the complication which the case presented at the time of the hearing before the federal court.

"The crucial point was whether the boiler inspection act, conferring upon the interstate commerce commission the power to have inspection made of locomotive boilers and their appurtenances prevented the various states from passing laws requiring protective devices intended primarily for the welfare of the engine crew," the attorney general said.

It was contended at the hearing, he pointed out, that the automotic firebox door is an appliance which provides comfort to the engineer and fireman, as compared to the old-fashioned hinged door which must be opened by hand whenever coal is shoveled into the firebox.

"Now that the supreme court has held that the federal boiler inspection act included the entire field pertaining to locomotives and precludes the various states from legislating on the subject, it would seem," Mr. Napier declared, "that the interstate commerce commission will require locomotives to be equipped with automotic doors to the fireboxes. The chief inspector has already repeatedly recommended that such doors be attached to the fireboxes of locomotives.

"Since the court has settled the question as to which authority, state or federal, controls, the brotherhoods will no doubt take up the question of having these appliances ordered for locomotives because they mean so much for the welfare, comfort and indeed, safety of the engine men. It is, therefore, considered valuable that the United States supreme court has reached a definite opinion on the subject."

$1,000,000 CITY AD CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

may serve in each year of this commission's existence.

Phillip H. Alston will again be legal counsel; B. S. Barker, secretary, and Harry H. Johnson, of the Atlanta & Lowry National bank, treasurer.

Candler To Head "Army."

The American Cities bureau, headed by Dan McFarlane, who directed the campaign last year, will again be in charge of raising the fund, but instead of $250,000 for one year, the subscribers will be asked for $1,000,000 over a three-year period.

William Candler, chairman of the $250,000 campaign last year, which was over-subscribed within the time limit, has again consented to head the "army" which will go after subscriptions. He will name his organization within a few days.

W. R. C. Smith, under whose direction as president of the chamber of commerce the "Advertise Atlanta" idea was put over, has been one of the most active spirits in setting the second campaign in motion. He and Ivan Allen, Frank Adair and several others have discussed the forthcoming campaign far into the night during the past week, gone into every phase of the situation, and feel confident that it will prove a big success.

Statement Issued.

At the close of the meeting of the board of directors the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon, President W. D. Hoffman gave out the following statement:

"Results of the first 10 months of advertising Atlanta in national magazines and newspapers speak for themselves. The figures, showing 136 new concerns brought to Atlanta, employing 4,630 persons, and with annual pay rolls of more than $7,000,000, were published in the Atlanta newspapers and all around the country, several days ago. Editorial comment has been made by newspapers all over the country. The Atlanta advertising campaign has proved a distinct success.

"Certainly, when it is realized that results of advertising are cumulative in their character; that advertising of any product, any commodity, any community, must be continuous to achieve the greatest benefits, it can be understood that Atlanta could not afford to have a break in her program of advertising. It must go straight ahead. Therefore, the directors of the chamber of commerce have enthusiastically agreed that the advertising should go on without interruption.

"This made it necessary for the campaign for funds to begin at once. In all the discussions relative to the amount to be raised and invested, there has been only one idea—to invest more instead of less. It was agreed, also, that not less than a three-year campaign should be undertaken. That will save annual 'drives' and enable the Forward Atlanta commission to plan ahead, and the mere fact that Atlanta has big enough ideas to go after a million-dollar advertising fund will bring the city publicity of enormous value.

"We felt that the public which subscribed to the first fund, has confidence in the men who administered it, and we are glad to say that they have consented to serve again, for the most part. It was deemed inadvisable to form such a large body as the first commission. It was unwieldy, and as is usually the case, only a small group did the actual work. The new commission, therefore, will have only eight members, besides its legal counsel, secretary and treasurer.

"This commission will serve for the entire three years, thus assuring a well-defined and consistent policy."

The resolutions adopted by the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce follow:

"Be it resolved that the membership of the future forward Atlanta commission could best be accomplished by a committee of eight members together with a counsel, a secretary and a treasurer, these three to be ex-officio members of the forward Atlanta commission.

"Be it further resolved that any vacancies in the above commission that may occur prior to the completion of the advertising campaign of three years shall be filled by the remaining members of the forward Atlanta commission, with the approval of the directors of the chamber of commerce, and Personnel of Commission.

"Be it further resolved that this commission consist of the following: Ivan Allen, W. R. C. Smith, William Candler, Frank Adair, Frank H. Neely, George M. Hope, H. Lane Young, chairman of the finance committee of city council for each of the years during the life of the commission; secretary of the commission, B. S. Barker; legal counsel, Philip H. Alston; treasurer, H. H. Johnson.

"Be it further resolved that the president of the chamber of commerce appoint an advisory board of 15 members of which the mayor of the city of Atlanta is to be the chairman, said committee to represent the various commercial interests and organizations of the city of Atlanta.

"Be it further resolved that the forward Atlanta commission, as above appointed, is hereby authorized to proceed at once with a campaign for raising $1,000,000, to be expended during three years, as above stated."

INCREASE IS VOTED FOR COUNTY WORKERS

earned by the city court of Atlanta under the leadership of Solicitor Dorsey, this being the largest net income from any of the departments, it was reported. A deficit of $21,878.96 was pointed out in the report from operation of the solicitor general's office. However, it was pointed out, the latter department has no great source of revenue, the majority of its cases being felonies, which usually carry imprisonment sentences instead of fines. This department, it is stated, defrays all expense of extradition of prisoners from the county and in returning alleged criminals to face justice.

In several instances the board discussed equalization of certain salaries of county attaches, but finally adopted a blanket policy of approving the schedules submitted by heads of the departments. The only incident in which an equalization in salaries was made was noted in the recommendations of T. C. Miller, clerk of the superior court, in regard to the salaries of two of his clerks, the salary of one having been reduced from $225 per month to $200 and the $25 so saved added to the salary of another clerk who was being paid $175 per month.

Figures of Audit.

The following is the audit submitted to the commission showing a summary of the gross fees, expenses, net earnings and net costs, of the heads of the various departments who formerly were paid through the fee system, for twelve months ending September 30, 1926:

America To Lead Fight for Peace, Daniels Asserts

Macon, Ga., November 29.—(AP)—A prediction that America would some day "rise to great heights and America in peace fight for peace as in 1917 it fought for victory in war," was made here tonight by Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson, in a lecture at Wesleyan college on "passing the buck."

Mr. Daniels spoke particularly of the Wilson administration, with which he was so closely connected.

At the outset he stated that it was entirely too soon as yet to get anything like clear perspective of the world war as most of its characters were living yet.

"And not only is the question, who brought on the war, the cause for much shifting of responsibility, but in later years, who has kept us out of peace.

"To Paris, after the close of actual warfare, went representatives of the great nations of the earth. Around the table at the peace party there sat the most distinguished group of statesmen ever assembled, I believe."

Mr. Daniels then told of a visit he made to Woodrow Wilson during the last few weeks of the president's life. He said that he was talking with the president about the situation in America—how the people had seemed to forget peace and the principles for which the war had been fought as a sea of jazz and frivolity engulfed them.

The president, he said, turned to him and said: "Never doubt what we have believed in and what we have fought for will come to pass—and it may come in a better way than we had planned it."

FARMERS OF SOUTH GET LITTLE HELP.

Macon, Ga., November 29.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, who was here tonight to deliver a lecture, said in an interview before his lecture that he was glad the judge in the Fall-Doheny trial in Washington, had admitted the Doheny evidence.

He branded as a "great crime" the leasing of the naval oil reserves by the former secretary of the interior.

In regard to politics, he said that the democrats have a good chance to win the next national election.

He predicted that Calvin Coolidge will be renominated by the republicans, "because he suits to a 'T' people who don't want anything done."

"Big business is very well pleased with the president," he continued. "Big business has more control than when Mark Hanna was at the helm."

As to aid for the farmers of the south he said "all the government has done is to give them bulletins and bunk."

RUMANIAN SUCCESSION IS CAUSE OF WORRY

"great queen," although, of course, there can be no comparison in importance between the two countries. Politically, the Balkan states are something more than twenty-five years behind the times, and the regency of Rumania would offer a degree of personal control to the queen that the British monarchy did not enjoy even in Victoria's time, still less today. A regency is, in fact, a temporary assumption of regal power by one person or persons on behalf of another who is not yet capable of exercising it. While it obtains, it is a power qualified only to the extent that the normal power of the throne is limited. A regency carries with it the double responsibility of administration and the handing over intact of a heritage. With Queen Victoria's example before her, there is no reason to suppose that Queen Marie would fail to exercise a benevolent stewardship on behalf of her grandson.

It is, however, the international aspect of Balkan complexities that chiefly interests the rest of the world. With Germany temporarily out of the way, Russia assumes a new and sinister significance. For all its superficially ardent condemnation of imperialism, the bolshevist regime is ever alert to opportunities of creating trouble in the rest of the world, partly with the idea of seizing such neighboring land as it may—Bessarabia, for example—and partly because by the very nature of bolshevism, its ultimate survival, if it is possible at all, can only occur if enough of the rest of the world is affected.

Moreover, even the slightest study of European affairs within the last half century shows that Balkan political ailments are infectious to the last degree. Within the comparatively small area covered by Rumania, Bulgaria and Serbia alone, there is more jealousy, bitterness and rivalry than the rest of Europe, imperfect though it is, could ever produce. "Trouble in the Balkans" is, indeed, the one safe prophecy that makers of prophetic almanacs may still sleep lightly upon.

WAGONER INDICTED BY SUMTER JURY ON FRAUD CHARGE

Americus, Ga., November 29.—(AP)—Robert Wagoner, who came here a few days ago for the purpose of buying pecans, was indicted today on a charge of fraud in connection with a worthless cashier's check he is alleged to have given in payment of a delivery of nuts.

Wagoner is alleged to have secured a quantity of pecans from Lawson Stapleton after paying him with a certified check on a Boston bank, which turned out to be worthless. Before the check was returned, however, several hundred pounds of the nuts had been shipped to the Southland Pecan company, at Columbus.

Wagoner asserted today that he is a victim of circumstances. He was arrested in Columbus Saturday night while driving an automobile which belonged to an Atlanta "U-Drive-It" concern. The automobile was returned to Atlanta by its owners.

Wagoner's case will probably come up before the Sumter county superior court Tuesday or Wednesday. He is also wanted in Bullock county, where three warrants have been sworn out against him.

Convict Invents Lock.

Kingston, Ont.—Norman "Red" Ryan, has turned the genius that made him a noted outlaw, into inventive channels. He has devised a "thief-proof" lock for mailbags which the government probably will adopt. His invention, it is said, lightens the weight of postal bags by three-quarters of a pound through doing away with ropes, straps and steel bars.

Old 'Constitution Express'

IDEAL XMAS GIFT IS YOURS FREE

Winners Return for More

The wise ones are coming back!

"Once we find a good thing," they say, "we stick to it."

Which is by way of introduction to the statement that Monday saw half a dozen or more persons who last year won "Constitution Express" wagons for youthful Christmas celebrants, back on the job to win still more "Constitution Express" wagons.

"I won a 'Constitution Express' last December," one man said, "and my boy is still having the time of his young life with it. It's the most wonderful play wagon I've ever seen. You simply can't tear one up nor break it down. It's the last word in sturdiness and durability.

"I've another youngster who wants a 'Constitution Express,' and I'm going to win him on the basis of the offer you made in Sunday's paper."

Perhaps you didn't see the generous announcement of a public offer of "Constitution Express" wagons in the Sunday morning issue of this paper. If not, you have only to turn to a full page advertisement in this issue which will give you full details of the proposition.

The service you render in return for a "Constitution Express" is both easy and pleasant. It isn't necessary to describe it here; just turn to the full page ad and you can find all about it.

And when you've performed your part—oh, boy! how happy that boy or girl of yours will be when old Santa brings a "Constitution Express" or when you make a direct girt of it.

It's the prettiest, the swiftest, the strongest, the most durable thing in its line you've ever seen. Finished in bright colors, it's equipped with roller-bearings and baloon tires, innovations in their line. It's loaded with health and muscle-building and sunshine and the out-of-doors for that kiddie of yours—the best playmate he or she ever had.

Don't take for granted all that's said in praise of "The Constitution Express." Come down to The Constitution building and inspect the wagon; then you'll know it's the finest thing in its class you've ever laid eyes on.

Christmas will soon be here, and there's some young ster you can make happy.

Here's the big opportunity.

MANY GEORGIANS GET INVITATIONS TO GOTHAM AFFAIR

Many Georgians have been invited to attend the 41st annual banquet of the New York Southern society, which will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria on Wednesday night, December 8.

Former Atlantans prominent in the society are Robert Adamson, president, and Judge William Harman Black, of the supreme court of New York, who is a member of the dinner committee. Among speakers will be United States Senator Walte. F. eorge, of Georgia, and Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English at Vanderbilt university, who is author of "The Advancing South." Eugene Stetson, also a former Georgian, is a member of the speakers' committee.

The Dixie dinner-dance on February 21, and the annual charity ball, March 25, at the Hotel Roosevelt, and the annual meeting of the society on April 21, are other activities to follow the banquet affair.

WELFARE BOARD VISITS STATE JAILS

For the first time since the state board of public welfare has been established the jail inspection department of the board has been able to visit every jail in Georgia during the fiscal year, it was announced Monday.

"One hundred per cent of the county jails have been visited by the state board of public welfare during 1926," it was announced by Hugh N. Fuller, assistant secretary of the board.

"This means that members of our staff or a representative of the department has visited every one of the county jails in the 161 counties of the state at least once and that by December 31 there will be available for every county a report on the condition of its jail with recommendations for any needed change.

"In many cases the jail of a particular county has been visited as many as two, three, four and even more times during the year in order to obtain necessary information upon which a fair and constructive report could be based as well as to enable the department to assist the county in carrying through its plans for improvement," further states Mr. Fuller. "Most of these reports have already been forwarded to the county commissioners, sheriffs, superior court judges and grand juries and the remaining few are being prepared and will be forwarded before the end of the year.

"Much of the constructive work done in the Georgia jails has been due to the untiring efforts of committees of local citizens who have accepted the recommendations regarding the jail as the goal of their efforts and have prevailed upon forward thinking county officials to place these recommendations into effect.

"Taken as a whole, 1926 finds the jails of Georgia far cleaner and safer places to be confined while awaiting trial than they were in 1920."

CAGLE WOULD SUCCEED TO STATE BANK POST

The governor has no authority to appoint a successor to T. R. Bennett until the next legisiture meets in event that Mr. Bennett submits his resignation as state superintendent of banks, it was learned at the capitol Monday.

Recently Mr. Bennett expressed a desire to tender his resignation in a letter to Governor Clifford Walker in which he gave poor health as the reason for his retirement.

It was pointed out at the capitol Monday that the law provides that the assistant superintendent of banks shall succeed the superintendent in event the superintendent retires between sessions of the legislature. During the legislature the governor can make an appointment subject to approval of the state senate.

J. E. Cagle is present assistant superintendent and if Mr. Bennet retires and he assumes the duties of the office he will draw the same salary paid the superintendent.

Lester, official of both the local chapter of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War and of the United Spanish War Veterans' camp in Atlanta.

In making announcement of the meeting, Captain Lester stated that while he was to a great extent interested in the rehabilitation program and adequate hospitalization of disabled veterans of the world war, at the same time he was not unmindful of matters which vitally affect veterans of the Spanish-American war. Captain Lester is a veteran of both conflicts.

Veterans of all wars, including those who took part in the war between the states, are cordially invited to attend the meeting at which will be discussed ways and means of solving the problems of disabled war veterans, war risk insurance and many other matters of vital interest to the veterans.

MAY BROS. AUCTION

ATLANTA VALUES UP $10,000,000

Taxable values of real and personal property in the city of Atlanta will show an increase of $10,000,000 in 1927 over those of 1926, according to an estimate Monday by the city board of tax assessors.

Half this amount is in personal property while the remainder is in real estate. The value of all property is carried on the books as of January 31 of the year in which ad valorem taxation is made, and it is possible that a slight increase in this figure may be made when the board again surveys the city soon after the first of the year.

Assessed valuation of personal property in 1923 was $90,000,000, but the city council finance committee estimated it at $5,000,000 more, and in accordance with estimates Monday of W. A. Hancock, senior member of the board of assessors, the finance committee's appraisal may be fully realized.

Mr. Hancock stated that he believes that the taxable values estimated at the first of the year by the finance committee is a fair valuation, and that the board does not contemplate raising the assessment above that estimate.

Almost all increase in real property is the direct result of improvements on the property, denoting a healthful and prosperous city, it was declared.

"When I first came into office 10 years ago the assessed value of real estate was about $170,000,000," Mr. Hancock said. "There has been a steady increase until the value in 1927 will be more than $100,000,000 in excess of this figure.

"The office has made even greater strides in bringing to the tax books personal property subject to taxation. Ten years ago, $47,700,000 represented the assessed value of personalty. This year the assessed value was practically doubled."

Y. M. C. A. BIBLE CLUB WILL MEET TONIGHT

An added attraction this week will be the singing by Powell Lee, director of music at the Baptist Tabernacle, with Mrs. Lee at the piano.

GREGORY MASON, NOTED EXPLORER, ARRIVES TODAY

Gregory Mason, leader of the Mason-Spinden expedition to Yucatan, will arrive at the Biltmore hotel today for his lecture the evening of December 3 before the Agnes Scott college of Decatur, on "the Lost Cities of Yucatan," illustrated with motion pictures and lantern slides.

Mr. Mason is the author of "Green Gold of Yucatan" which describes adventures of American explorers in Yucatan and was the inspiration of his own trip to that country last spring with Dr. Herbert J. Spinden of Harvard, Ludlow Griscom of the American Museum of Natural History, Ogden T. McClurg, late Chicago publisher and sportsman, and Francis Whiting, of Darien, Conn., yachtsman.

The Mason-Spinden expedition discovered seven new species of birds, seven ruined cities, and much new light on the science and history of the ancient Mayas.

PUBLIC SERVICE BODY OPENS RATE HEARING

The state public service commission Monday began a hearing of a petition filed by the Georgia Cotton Seed Crushers' association to revise rates on cotton seed in Georgia. Representatives of the crushers and representatives of the carriers appeared before the commission to submit evidence in the case and because of the voluminous testimony it was expected that the hearing would be continued through Tuesday.

Calvin W. Parker, of Waycross, recently elected as a member of the commission as successor to the late James D. Price, occupied a seat with the commission for the first time Monday.

James A. Perry, chairman of the commission, announced that a hearing of a petition of the Shearhouse railroad operated between Hagan and Egypt, Ga., to discontinue two trains between Hagan and Egypt, Ga. scheduled for Monday, has been postponed. The postponement was ordered because of the death of J. N. Shearhouse, owner of the road, who died two days after he filed his petition with the commission.

FACTS

This is one of the reasons why there are more Frigidaires in use than all other electric refrigerators combined. Additional reasons are covered in other advertisements.

Note how the overlapping front of the Frigidaire freezing tray completely covers the opening in the freezing compartment, providing a seal which assures lower inside temperatures and quicker freezing.

ONE reason for Frigidaire's overwhelming popularity is the fact that it freezes more ice, by actual weight, than other electric refrigerators of the same size.

The Frigidaire freezing trays are self-sealing. The white enameled fronts of the ice trays completely overlap the tray openings, thus sealing the intense cold of the frost coil within the freezing compartment. Frigidaire freezes ice quickly and solidly, regardless of room temperatures.

Long ago, Frigidaire discarded the brine tank in favor of the more efficient frost coil. The frost coil assures simpler, quicker temperature control, which is so accurate and stable that it never has to be adjusted once it has been properly set.

Frigidaire is superior in ice-freezing capacity, food storage space, low operating cost and quiet operation. Frigidaire offers unequaled sturdiness of construction and beauty of design. Frigidaire offers a permanent and thoroughly trained and established service organization. It is the only electric refrigerator guaranteed by General Motors.

WHILE your sons and daughters spend the winter school months in steam-heated classrooms, 3133 sun-browned children in Coral Gables are pursuing their studies in classrooms wide open to the sunshine and warmth of the only American Tropics. Outside of study hours, while your sons and daughters brave the chill rigors of wintry winds, of alternate freezings and thaws, the children in Coral Gables are growing sturdy in summer sunshine—in the swimming pools, tennis courts and playing fields.

You can escape winter without cheating your children — send them to school in Coral Gables. There are nine educational institutions, from kindergarten to university, where your children can secure instruction under the guidance of educators of the highest academic standing and experience. Here you and your children will find congenial friends from your own home state, for Coral Gables' population is a veritable cross-section of American citizenship. More than thirty states are represented among the newcomers, whose sons and daughters are this year for the first time numbered among the school population of Coral Gables.

Among the private schools in Coral Gables are several of renown. St. Joseph's Academy, a branch of the famous old St. Augustine school for girls and young women. The Coral Gables Military Academy, whose popularity has required the doubling of its facilities. The Montmare School for Girls, a branch of the school of the same name of Lake Placid, N. Y.

The Coral Gables Elementary Schools are considered the finest in Dade County. On its 15-acre campus the first three buildings of the Ponce de Leon High School group are completed and in use. Four more are planned. The excellence of these public schools is well indicated by their growth. 657 new pupils are enrolled this year who were registered elsewhere last term. 281 of these are from other states. In the high school alone are over 100 newcomers from northern states.

The new University of Miami, opened on October 15th, has long been planned as a great educational center for southern United States and Latin-America. Already 980 students are enrolled. A faculty of distinction has been further enriched through the good-will of America's great universities. Several have loaned this new seat of learning some of their foremost educators.

All winter long in Coral Gables you can enjoy golf, swimming, tennis, boating, riding, racing, and the charming dances and social functions of the country clubs with only the palms and tropic skies overhead. Here are spiritual and cultural as well as physical enjoyment — and your children can pursue their studies in a climate of unrivaled healthfulness.

--There is a wide range of accommodations and prices in hotels, apartments and homes. For further information, write direct to Dept. AC-2, Coral Gables Corporation, Coral Gables, Fla. Your nearest railroad or steamship agent will welcome your consulting him.

AND STILL ANOTHER!

The senate committee, headed by Senator Reed, of Missouri, charged with the investigation of alleged corruption by excessive use of funds to secure senatorial nominations, has another job on its hands. The fact is, it has been working overtime to keep up.

The charge is now made that Senator Butler, whose spectacular but unsuccessful race for reelection—abetted by the president—created nation-wide interest, spent $239,789 in the primary campaign for renomination. In fact it is alleged that Butler filed a schedule of expenses totaling that amount. If that is true, then just how high the actual sums spent reached is problematical. "Staggering" is the charge of the attorney for the Liberal Civic League of Massachusetts, who brought the matter to Chairman Reed's attention.

If it is true that Senator Butler, who is the president's closest political friend and adviser, and who managed his campaign in 1924, and who is at present chairman of the national republican committee, is guilty of spending approximately a quarter of a million for primary renomination, the republican party will have another scandal on its hands that will be more sensational, by reason of its environs, than the Vare and the Smith scandals.

Again the charge was recently made—but subsequently dropped as of official record in Maine—that Arthur R. Gould, the republican candidate for the seat formerly held by the late Senator Fernald, of Maine, used money in excess of statutory limitations, and the charge was made by no less a personage than Governor Brewster, of that state. The latter is also a republican.

The special senatorial election in Maine was held Monday.

It had also been charged that Gould bribed conservatives in New Brunswick in 1910. Chief Justice McKeown, of New Brunswick, was quoted to the effect that a contribution of $100,000 of the railroad projectors with whom Gould was associated constituted an act of bribery. Gould defended that action by calling it a campaign contribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle, discussing this alleged affair of 16 years ago, said:

"Mr. Gould's own recital of the features of this donation is marked by a frankness worthy of a better cause. As quoted in dispatches from Portland he says that payment was made by his associates, though without his knowledge; that it was made in accord with an assessment laid on the railroad enterprise by New Brunswick conservatives then in power, and that the railroad had to pay or to forego hope of a government guarantee at the rate of $25,000 a mile on its bonds."

All of which gives one an insight into the little matter of "government guarantees" and how they were sometimes secured as far back as 1910.

At any rate, the republican party is up against a defensive that will keep it pretty well occupied for the next two years. That the primary system has been seriously menaced by these evidences of auction block campaigning is to be regretted.

Our whole governmental structure is based upon unobstructed autonomy, which must mean the purity of the ballot.

RADIO LEGISLATION.

Congress should enact wise and comprehensive radio legislation. The situation as it exists today is chaotic. Hundreds of new broadcasting stations are being rushed to completion before any proposed legislation can be passed. And these take in everything from propaganda to pulpit.

We need fewer stations. No one should have a prior claim. Stations should be used for legitimate educational and entertainment purposes. They should not be used for commercial purposes, for propaganda, quack schemes and not even for political or sectarian debates and controversies.

There should be a radio commission to assign wave lengths and control the stations in the sense that the interstate commerce commission has federal jurisdiction over the railroads. Regulation, however, should be only of a constructive nature.

The truth is radio—the greatest scientific accomplishment of the generation—is suffering from an evident tendency to usurp on the part of religious, political and commercial quackery.

HONOR DR. HARDMAN.

Dr. L. G. Hardman, governor-elect of Georgia, will be the honor guest at a notable dinner to be given at Hotel Roosevelt, in New York, this evening. It will be a banquet tendered by the Georgia society, and its president, Supreme Court Justice William H. Black, will be toastmaster.

Among those to be honored besides Governor-elect L. G. Hardman are Senators George and Harris, of Georgia; General James H. McRae, commanding the Department of the East; George Foster Peabody, Bedell Parker and James F. Allen. Mayor James J. Walker will be one of the guests.

The Georgia society is one of the oldest of the state societies in New York and its membership includes many Georgians, prominent in that city. It was formed in 1899 by David Robinson, formerly of Savannah, together with Mr. Peabody, Louis H. Mercer, Joseph Fried, formerly of Macon, and ten others residing in New York.

It has served a splendid purpose in keeping the spirit of brotherhood and comradeship alive among the native sons of this state who have found broader opportunities in the great American metropolis.

HOOVER'S DEPARTMENT.

The annual report of Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce reflects an optimism that is heartening. Of economic conditions throughout the country as a whole for the fiscal year ending June 30, last, he says:

"The fiscal year 1925-26 has been one never surpassed in our history in the volume of production and consumption, in the physical quantity of exports and imports, and in the rate of wages. There has been practically no unemployment. Further progress has been made in the efficiency of management and labor and in scientific research and invention. As in the preceding year, there were a few points where conditions were less satisfactory, as in the New England textile industry, two or three sections of the agricultural industry and the bituminous coal industry. On the whole, however, the country was able to maintain the highest standard of living in its history, a standard far above that in most other countries of the world at this or any other time. This represents a remarkable recovery from the great losses incurred by the nation in the world war."

In this connection it may be said that no department in the federal government is rendering such a distinctive service of real value to all the people as that department administered by Secretary Hoover. His great ability as an engineer, builder, organizer, conservationist and economist, is felt in the manifold branches of service that have now been concentrated under his supervision. And much of the prosperity, and of the new high records of achievement referred to in his report, have been advanced and otherwise materially helped through the activities of the department of commerce.

A few years ago this branch of government service was of little value and of little public interest. In it had been dumped the census bureau, and a foreign trade statistical bureau, and a few other such clerical activities. But when Secretary Hoover took charge of the department of commerce in 1921 things began to happen. Conservation was taken up scientifically as one of the foremost activities—the elimination of wastes in everything, and particularly in industry, in the handling of natural resources, in the handling of one's time. The extension of export trade, the opening up of foreign markets, the finding of foreign markets for American products not heretofore exported, was made a major activity. Trade envoys now travel the world as the official representatives of the department of commerce.

Radio control, the safety of streets and highways, the enlargement of statistical services and their direct application to various businesses, the strengthening of efficiency in all lines of economic endeavor—these and scores of other useful activities gradually became features of the department's service.

In the meantime—to his credit—Secretary Hoover has divorced himself and his department entirely from politics. He has made it function for all the people. Party affairs do not in any way enter into it, even in appointments. He has gone out for and secured efficient people regardless of their political faiths.

Recompense.

I.
I only see you now and then,
As walk we through the paths of men,
With scarcely time my love to tell,
Yet in our hearts we're not so far
As many, many others are
Who close beside each other dwell.

II.
And we who have such friendship known
Can ne'er again be quite alone,
Its beauties those of wealth excel,
And e'en if our words are few
My day grows bright for seeing you,
For friendly eyes can volumes tell.

III.
Though far apart our paths may be,
And though your face I seldom see,
Sweet Mem'ry stores her treasures well.
And in our hearts we're not so far
As many, many others are
Who close beside each other dwell.

Talking It Over.

(As Editor Townsend sees it.)

The Nugget has no dictators or bosses. Yet its editor tries to treat all alike.

If Mr. Bush does not hold up a while there will not be enough liquor left for unhealthy people to take when they are sick or use as a preventative.

While grinding corn Saturday night, the belt flew off, cutting a gash in Mr. Polk Rider's head, besides hurting his side and leg before he could get out of the way.

Friday morning we saw Prohibition Agent Bush as he was going to the postoffice and asked him if he had any business to attend to for the day, when he said yes. He had received a message from a party telling him to drive out to a certain place in the country, turn this way and that way where he would find a distillery and the informer would stand up on the hill and gladly see the concern go up in smoke. Upon seeing him the next day we asked if he and his posse found it. His reply was yes. A big steamer that would turn out about one hundred gallons a day.

I.
When you're feelin' sad and lonesome
And the world seems down and out;
When your every move's a blunder
And there's shadows all about,
Did you ever just try speakin'
In a pleasant sort of way,
Or try your hand at smilin'
And being kinder gay?

II.
Sometimes when you get worried
Do you tell it t the world?
Do you fret and kick and grumble
And get others in the whirl?
Or do you lift your shoulders
And display a great big smile
And try to help your brothers
Make their lives worth-while!

III.
Oh what a happy land we'd have
If every one would smile;
If they'd forget their troubles
For just a little while;
If they'd only see the bright side
Of these problems of our day
And just put on a great big front
And throw that grouch away!

The Insect Speaks.

This one, on "The Centipede," from the Tifton Gazette:

"A squirmy centipede am I—a wiggly little beggar; and people sometimes call me by the name of Thousand Legger.

"I like to scare 'em one and all, and this is how I do it: I run across the floor or wall—that's really all there's to it.

"My legs are many, long and fast, and I'm a speedy fellar; folks hate to see me running past in living room or cellar.

"I'm rather harmless, I suppose, because I seldom bite 'em; and yet as everybody knows, I dearly love to fright 'em.

"They do not like the way I sprawl, for I am long and wormy; and with my moving legs and all—to say the least I'm squirmy.

"I know they'd like to squash me, too, and end me in a minute; but I'll annoy them till they do, for all the fun that's in it."

History's Day Book

NOVEMBER 30.

The impending possibility of our having another rucus with Mexico recalls that it was 50 years ago today that General Porfirio Diaz, with an insurgent army, beat the government troops, entered Mexico City and proclaimed himself as president of the republic.

Diaz was a "blood and iron" man, ambitious, popular with the peon population and resolute for certain reforms that he believed for the welfare of his country. He made his conquest stick and with hands of steel put down all opposition. He ruled as a dictator of the semi-barbaric type for a long term of alternate peaceful and turbulent years.

Just when he captured the government of Mexico, we of the United States, were on the brink of a revolution of our own. On the seventh day of the same month we had held a presidential election and the results as between Tilden and Hayes was in suspense. The votes of South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana were contested. If all went to Hayes, which they eventually did, he would have one vote majority over Tilden. Both parties throughout the nation were in a state of angry ferment. Colonel Henry Watterson threatened to lead 100,000 Kentuckians to Washington and seat Tilden. But the trouble was peacefully settled by an electoral commission.

Consequent upon our having to worry over our own predicament we let Mexico worry with her own troubles, whatever might be the subsequent relations between the two governments.

The United States seemed fated to be bothered more or less with the doings of the factions in Mexico, because the two nations adjoin and seem unable to keep their interests unrelated.

In the present embroglio there are possibilities of irreconcilable ideas of international law and duty and these may lead to a rupture of diplomatic relations with actual war not a remote event.

Why the two governments cannot go back to the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo and submit the issues to arbitration, as it provides, is puzzling a number of our American publicists. An actual conflict of arms with Mexico would be deplorable from every point of view.

Chaos.

Fifteen octavo volumes are necessary to Arthur Heulhard to establish this colossally chaotic conception of the life of Jesus. He was crucified under Pilate after a life of brigandage and murder. He is identical with Barabbas and John the Baptist and eldest son of Juda de Gamala. His mother was Mary Magdalene, another name for Salome. Jesus was the eldest son. Simon was his younger brother. This Simon was the same, according to the ultra-modern critic, as the Simon, who "assassinated" Ananias and Sapphira. This Simon was given the name of Peter, that is Rock, because, forsooth, he lifted the tombstone of Jesus' grave and transported the corpse to Samaria. He was assisted in the sinister labor by Joseph of Arimathea, who is described as a "great thug." In short, the whole New Testament story is an account of brigands and thieves. To this length has gone contemporary higher criticism.

America-Mad.

Theodore Dreiser said upon his return to America that Europe was America-mad. This madness may be divided in two classes. There are in the first place millions of people who are mad with America and all things American. Like it was once said of Nazareth, nothing good can come from America, according to these critics. But instead of ignoring this irritating subject, the same people are constantly harping on it to the exclusion of anything else. Some of the Paris papers and revues would simply lose their raison d'etre if they lost the subject of America for their cartoons, editorials, fashion topics, eccentric occurrences, and sensations. The tone of every observation on America is of the smart-aleck wise-crack variety, with intent to arouse ridicule or envy. But then there are millions of others in Europe, who emulate and imitate Americans, even in dress, spectacles and general appearance. To them America is the ne plus ultra. And curiously enough the Germans and Russians predominate in this latter category.

A Russian Film.

A highly interesting new Russian-German film, first of a Tchekhow series, is "Superfluous People," produced in Berlin. There are no horrors save for the extremely delicate-minded, who might find in the fact of both hero and heroine losing their clothes a subject for complaint. The drunken contrabass player in a small town orchestra who finds his wife has run away, and behaves in what is apparently a Russian manner, sets his house on fire and plunges into the river. This results in his being left to dress in a macintosh only. The local mayor's daughter has also gone fishing and bathing. Her clothes also are stolen—an especially unfortunate thing as it is her wedding day. She creeps into the bassviol's leather cover, a garment which so upsets the bridegroom that he insists upon her dowry being increased. The German critics are full of praise.

Time and Tide

CHILDREN FEAR THE DARK.

Man, victim to a thousand fears, goes through life afraid of this and afraid of that; afraid that he may lose his money, his health, his youth; the very hairs on his head, he numbers them one by one, clings to them as long as he can.

All these material things, he is afraid to lose.

In the spiritual world, man, realizing that in the end he must die, invents a happy turn of thought to muffle the blow. He does not really die, he tells you; on the contrary, he is now at last only beginning the real life, which is to last forever. He is merely passing to the Valley of Eden, where he is to sojourn, world without end.

Very few mortals have been able to present to their minds a picture of this enchanted valley in such vivid language that the living would have done with life and pass Over Yonder by preference. Here, we all wish to stay as long as possible, though this world is filled with sorrow, trials and tears.

And it is well; for self-preservation is the first law of nature.

However, this does not show that to accept belief in immortal life ever harmed any human being. On the contrary, it has helped unnumbered millions to reposeful death.

Faith in the existence of other worlds than this ball of mud we call our home is a document of social psychology, a most important mystic document that withstands all disillusions which darken the mind of man, dawn his years of active life. No matter how many times, in his careless years, man may reject the doctrine, in the end he almost invariably returns to the faith of his fathers.

And for those who are denied the consolations the road is just that much harder. As the twilight gathers, how many of us are philosophers? For, man always fears the Unknown, and this regardless whether religiously inclined or otherwise. Even a child, afraid of the dark, calls to the mother, in turn men are but children of a larger growth. This explains why all men fear to die.

Everyday Questions

ANSWERED BY

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

New Haven, Conn.

Why cannot I have the inward life I desire so long as my outward life corresponds with the demands of civilized society?

Because what you dream today you do tomorrow. Your demand involves a chronic mutiny between your inner and outer life. The former constitutes three-fourths of your actual existence, the balance its superficial one-fourth. No delusion is more rife or mischievous than that which presumes imagination can run every course which vicious propensities dictate on life's inside while its exterior maintains a respectable appearance.

Reprobate conduct begins within you and ends in the open. It is born in the soul and there nursed and warmed till its octopus-like tentacles clutch outward behavior and make it subservient to the heart's secret desires.

Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" are the embodiments of this process. Treat your image-making power with the caution befitting a psychological mystery which can create for you heaven or hell and anything intermediate. Discipline it, feed it with facts, refuse it the glozing deceits of vanity and vice. If by God's help you can manage to do this during your formative stages memory will amply compensate your after days.

Will you kindly tell me the character of Mr. Strachey's novel, "The Madonna of the Barricades?" Also if the author is any relative to Mr. Lytton Strachey, who wrote "Queen Victoria?"

Mr. J. St. Loe Strachey, the author of the novel you name, is related to Mr. Lytton Strachey as a cousin, I believe, or a second cousin.

"The Madonna of the Barricades" is an excellent story, cast in the form of the Memoirs of Lord George Chertsey, who gives the reader an account of three exceedingly adventurous years of his flaming youth. As the son of a nobleman of high rank he introduces the reader on nearly every page to the statesmen, diplomatists, novelists and celebrities in general of the British Empire.

The heroine of the story, Carlotta, is a fascinating Italian girl of noble birth, torn between her love for Lord George on the one hand and for a united Italy on the other. The romance has its darker side relating to the Carbonari, that secret society which inspired fear in the princes of Latin Europe and of Austria.

Vivid sketches of Italian scenery, life in London, and the bloody barricades of Paris during the uprising of 1848 lend verisimilitude to the work. It is crowded with capital portraits or with material from which these can be drawn. The spirit and aims of British conservatism, French reactionism and Italian patriotism are ably depicted. Mr. Strachey's long continued editorship of the "Spectator" guarantees the style, the historic backgrounds and the lasting merit of this his first novel.

What is the story of Jan of Leyden whose name is connected with the siege of Munster?

Was he a martyr to his beliefs or merely a blind fanatic?

He belonged to the sixteenth century, an age in which men by their credulity or else their inability to separate the genuine from the spurious were all too ready to become the prey of tyrants and imposters. It was also a persecuting age, when Moors and Jews, witches and wizards, heretics and unbelievers were tortured and put to death for the greater glory of God.

Jan Bockelson was a native of Leyden, who began as a pure enthusiast and roamed through various European lands before he met Melchoir Hofmann the Anabaptist. This itinerating prophet filled him with the light of a new kingdom of the saints on earth. Jan Mathys, another of its advocates, afterward taught Bockelson that the kingdom should be set up for the redemption of the oppressed, the extermination of tyrants, the community of goods and the rule of justice and fraternity.

It was the noble ideal of Jewish prophecy and Gospel freedom in behalf of which Bockelson set out for the German city of Munster to join the saints there. Under his leadership, however, their worship degenerated into the wildest excess of fanaticism, lust and mock royalty.

The bishop of Munster besieged the city, which after terrible sufferings surrendered to his forces. Bockelson, better known as Jan of Leyden, was barbarously tortured and afterward executed.

The whole story is a lurid comment on the chaotic conditions which then prevailed. These demonstrated a declension in morals and religion that reflected far more discredit on the leaders of church and state than upon Bockelson and his followers. The latter were severely punished for their wrongdoings. The former, who execrated Jan and all his works and ways, as a rule escaped the penalties due to their infamies.

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

AMUSEMENTS.

There is no more accurate interpretation of the daily life and thinking of a man than is found in the way he seeks his amusements.

List to me the amusements of a man and I will tell you what manner of man he is.

Sooner or later the hollowness of a false and mimic life stares us in the face with the expression of an awful unreality. And we see nothing but the story of wasted years, vain scramblings for power, selfish pleasure, and vain display.

Noon arrives, but into the heart no nectar of love or unselfish service has been stored. The afternoon wanes. Dusk hovers. But to the thoughtless waster there is no glow in the Sunset, no Invisible Watcher during the silent hours when dreams creep in.

When the man trots the boy in him all along through the years, he is a pretty safe companion. He can be trusted. Because the man will whisper things to the boy that the boy doesn't know about, and the boy in turn will keep giving of his heart so that age becomes only relative and youth an enveloping spirit clear to the other edge of life itself.

The leaves of a plant are like so many tiny laboratories that look after the forming of the sugar that sweetens the roots of things we eat, or the grapes that hang in gorgeous clusters waiting for the touch of our hands.

And so do the amusements of a person form the sweet or the bitter which comes out in the heart, or flowers into character.

There are those who seek to deaden the monotony of their lives through exciting amusements, in crowds of jollity that are pungent with insincerity, jealousy, and cynicism. But when it is all over, even the aimless life goes to its bed sick at heart and hungry for that which alone can bring warmth and glow, peace and sweetness to the soul.

Loneliness is a terrible thing, but if you carry the beauty of life and live in your heart, it will compensate richly for all the spoils of a tinseled gaiety.

That Self Lubricating Hub

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

DOWN BY THE LINIMENT WORKS.

Liniment, salve, ointment, embrocation, oil, rubbing mixture or whatever fancy name a merchant brigand may coin for it, may act for good or harm in any of three possible ways. First, through the effect of the rubbing or massage with which the medicament is applied. Second, through the effect of a counterirritation. Third, through the effect of absorption of medicinal substances in the liniment or other preparation so applied. I am not ignoring the influence of the odor or appearance of the liniment, nor the influence of the pictures or stories of the ads. These influences vary inversely with the enlightenment of the customer and if the customer will give me his attention for a few minutes I hope he will be enlightened. Certainly I haven't forgotten the impressive odor of Mrs. Lengler's limbering ointment, one whiff of which would cure an ordinary sprain.

Certain fundamental principles of treatment "contraindicate" the use of liniment or any other medicament of this class, a boil on a man's shoulder contraindicates slapping him on the back. In the presence of acute, sharp or severe inflammation a strict let alone policy is advisable. No local medicament can exert sufficient sedative or soothing effect to compensate for the disturbance caused by applying it.

When you "rub it in" you may be doing good or harm in two ways, by surface friction, which amounts to counterirritation, or by kneading which is massage. Kneading skin, muscles, fascia, tendons and tendon sheathes, blood vessels, is comparable with wringing out a soiled chamois in a vessel of water. Kneading, rolling and slow, firm heavy strokes in the direction of the venous return circulation, are of distinct value in chronic arthritis and other obstinate conditions popularly called rheumatic.

Counterirritation is a well recognized physiological reaction, a familiar instance being the relief a mustard plaster on the skin gives to pain from internal congestion or inflammation. Ammonia, chloroform, turpentine, croton oil, iodin, capsium (red pepper), mustard, peppermint, wintergreen and other aromatic oils, menthol, and other derivatives of the aromatic oils. Every one of these substances may not only irritate the skin surface and induce more or less reddening or burning, if not actual blistering, but may be absorbed and exert systemic effects when applied in the form of liniment. All of the ingredients mentioned, and some other medicaments which are used in liniments, are volatilized by the warmth of the body, and inhaled more or less by the patient, or by anyone who may be in the atmosphere staturated with the vapor. This is the only way in which liniments can produce any systemic medicinal effect, unless the skin is blistered or broken, for absolutely nothing is or can be absorbed through the normal skin, no matter how "penetrating" the stuff purports to be nor how well it is "rubbed in."

Linimentous nostrums of high and low degree generally do purport to "penetrate," the uninformed or misinformed customer complacently assuming his hide absorbs the mysterious virtues of the stuff—hasn't he seen pictures of people absorbing liniment that way?

If space permitted I should append to this article a few recipes or formulas, but space does not permit, and so we'll save our household liniment for another day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Flaxseed.

Kindly state if flaxseed is the same as agar agar, and how it should be taken. (S. T. M.)

Answer—A spoonful or two of whole flaxseeds (or the crushed or ground linseed) may be taken daily, either mixed with cereal or washed down with water, instead of the comparatively expensive agar agar (a sea weed). The flaxseed absorbs moisture and swells into a glutinous mass in the intestine. It serves the same purpose as agar—provides a bulky mass to stimulate peristalsis. The only practical difference is that flaxseed doesn't come in a fancy package, and some folks dote on packages. Many victims of the constipation habit have found a daily dose of flaxseed the means of overcoming the habit.

Some Developments of Southern Transport and of Unfair Taxation.

It was through the indefatigable efforts of Senator Harris that the United States shipping board sent its first Diesel engine operated steamship, the "Tampa," to Savannah for its trial cargo trip across the Atlantic ocean. It sailed from the Georgia port on the 22d with a cargo of near 22,000 bales of cotton to be discharged at Bremen. Thus are associated the world-event of the inauguration of transatlantic steamshipping in 1819, by the "Savannah," from Savannah to Liverpool, the initial ship also carrying a cotton cargo, and this first vessel, operated by the newest type of engine, and making the first voyage with such equipment from an American to a European port.

The event should constitute a red-letter day in oceanic navigation and carry with it distinguished credit to our able Georgia senator.

In this connection should be noted the inauguration this week of a new express freight service between Philadelphia and Charleston, South Carolina, by the Interocean Steamship company. The "Oritani" sailed with cargo from Philadelphia in the afternoon of Friday, 26th, for Charleston. The merchants and shippers of both ports are warmly interested in the new line which gives to each of them the advantages of an ocean service denied to them for many years.

From as far west as Chicago shippers are giving promises of support to this new Penn-Piedmont line and the Charleston office has made a thorough canvass of the southeastern territory and received enthusiastic cooperation. There is no doubt felt by the promoters that the line will be a success.

The "Oritani" is a speedy vessel and will maintain a 52-hour schedule between ports. She will sail again from Philadelphia on December 3 after which the "Ormes," a sister ship, will join her and they will carry on a semi-weekly service.

Railways Full Steam Ahead.

The present indications in the railway world are that our southern companies in particular are to make extensive improvements in 1927, exceeding in volume and cost any made in recent years. Although some of them have been buying largely in the rails market the more extensive purchases will be in other lines of equipment. The prospects for increased passenger and freight traffic are increasingly bright. They encouraged betterments and equipmage far beyond ordinary. The prosperities of the southern lines are in sharp contrast with the subnormal conditions affecting roads in other sections.

A feature of the railway situation in the southeast that is attracting comment is the resolution of such great companies as the Southern and the Atlantic Coast Line to do their immediate financing by the sale of stock instead of the sale of bonds.

The policy indicates a purpose to avoid a larger accumulation of fixed charges over a long term of years and enlisting the cooperation of investors willing to depend upon the dividends from current annual earnings. The policy has the approval of sound economists and will probably be adopted by other companies in a prosperous condition.

A Problem of Public Interest.

A railway problem of increasing public concern is that of state taxation. This year the railroads of the nation will pay to the states $420,000,000 in taxes. That is 6.1 per cent of their gross earnings and is 10 per cent above the tax payments taken from them in 1925. And it is more than the average of dividends paid to the stockholders who own and operate the railways. The growing question is how long can the industry bear this burden and the increases that impend in almost every state when legislators are finding public money elsewhere than from the common run of taxpayers.

These legislators may know the truth, but conceal it from the people, that these heavy taxes must come actually out of the pockets of the patrons of the roads. They must be collected from those who use the roads for travel and for freight transport. Yet the people are always complaining of excessive fares and oppressive or prohibitive freight rates. And yet, again, the people are their own oppressors in these matters. To expect the railroads to carry them and their goods for less than operating and fair dividend costs is to demand the impossible. Why not realize that excessive railroad taxation is self-taxation by the users of the roads?

YOUTH'S COMPANION.

(Note: Youth's Companion is now 100 years old.)

A hundred years! and yet you seem
As youthful as the fairy dream
That skittered in the cloud-flecked sky
On a summer day of Long Gone-By.

I'd like, some day, to thrill again
In ecstacy as happened when
Your hopes took me by the hand
Into an undiscovered land—

A land where boys are lords and kings
And chivalry its favor flings
Upon the proud knights-errant who
Do worthy deeds—and know it, too!

How can one be (it's so, I'm told)
Forever young and yet be old?
De Leon sought the Fount of Youth
And here it is in living truth.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

No auction bridge topic has caused more discussion or created more misunderstandings between partners, than the question of whether and when the partner of a no trump bidder should take-out by bidding two of a suit. There is no blanket rule to cover this vitally important subject. To say "always take-out your partner's no trump with a five-card suit," or—what is even worse — "always take-out your partner's no trump with your longest suit," would be as ridiculous as to say, "never overcall your partner's no trump." Such broad advice is apt to work badly more often than it works well; the bidder thould follow a system which will produce winning results in the long run. No system will prove a winner in every case, but long experience has shown that the system that I advocate will produce more satisfactory results than any other.

All take-out theories are, or should be, premised upon the assumption that the first and paramount object of the bridge player is winning the game. Of course partial scores are not to be scorued when game is impossible, and it is important to minimize loss when a loss has to be faced; but the accomplishment of these things does not compare in importance with making the game whenever game is possible.

Suppose south bids no trump, west passes and north holds:

Sp.: ace-queen-x-x-x. Ht.: king-x-x. dia.: ace-x-x. cl.: x-x; or sp.: ace-king-jack-x-x. ht.: x-x-x-x. dia.: x-x-x. cl.: x-x.

There is no way for north to tell whether the combined hands will work better at no trump or at spades. It may be that game can be made with either, or with one and not with the other. Reliable statistics prove that under such conditions there are as many cases of no trump games as of spade games; and some have, therefore, contended that there is no benefit in taking-out. The answer to this is that a player with a strong hand, sitting opposite a no trump, should not be satisfied with fifty per cent success; he should make game practically every time by bidding the major and giving the partner the option between that and no trump. The take-out guarantees help for the no trump either in the major, or on the side or both; and the no trumper can rebid the no trump if he does not like the major.

The pointer for today is:

A major take-out of your partner's no trump should be made with length and strength.

The consideration of major take-outs will be continued tomorrow; and whether one should be made with either or both of the following hands will then be discussed:

1.Sp.: queen-jack-x-x-x. Ht.: x-x-x. Di.: x-x-x. Cl.: x-x.

2. Sp.: queen-jack -x-x-x. Hit.: king x-x. Di.: ace-x-x. Cl.: queen-x.

Minor take-outs (a different subject) will be considered later.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are no setting the styles by darkening thei gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."—(adv.)

U. S. COUNSEL WIN OIL TRIAL VICTORY

nate, and recreated the scene in imagination.

The jury was not among these, and the 12 men who will decide the fate of the former interior secretary sat quietly through the reading by Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, government counsel, and showed no signs of being greatly excited by what they heard.

Roberts read slowly and incisively, with a touch of the professional elocutionist in his voice as he jumped from the questions of Walsh and other members of the senate committee to the answers of Doheny. After he had read well into the afternoon, Pomerene took up the task and read at a slightly faster pace.

Senate Testimony Admitted.

The personal element reentered the trial again briefly before the court adjourned, when Ernest Hill, clerk of the investigating committee, presented the note for the $100,000 loan with the signature torn off, and Graham Young, treasurer of Blair & Co., of New York city, took the stand and told how Doheny's son had cashed a check for $100,000, which later was delivered to Fall here in the "little black bag." Details of this transaction got to the jury today through the senate testimony.

The jury was excluded from the room when Justice Hoehling read his opinion admitting the senate committee testimony. The decision covered 22 pages. It sets a precedent in a point of law never before decided.

Hoehling held there was no foundation in "reason or in law" for any of the numerous objections raised by the defense and overruled them all.

"There is no suggestion that either of these defendants should be beneficiaries of the immunity sometimes granted witnesses before congressional committees," he said.

Fall's Letter Read.

The letter Fall wrote to the senate committee saying he had received the loan of $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, local publisher, was first read to the jury, who heard later the statement Doheny made to the committee in which he said he had advanced the loan and told in detail how he had sent it to Fall here by his son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., in a little black bag.

The prosecution wanted to get these conflicting statements before the court as an important part of the case to substantiate their contention that intrigue and falsification existed among principals in the case. The jury heard the charge of Walsh that both Fall and Doheny were trying to "deceive" the senate committee.

The jury heard Doheny's story to the committee, in which he said he had advanced the money merely to help an old friend of his prospecting days, adding "a $100,000 loan was nothing more to me than a loan of $25 in ordinary circumstances."

Doheny's Explanation.

"I guess I am just an impulsive, improvident, old-fashioned sort of a prospector," Doheny said in another place. "I will admit that the circumstances of the loan are such that it might have induced Fall to favor me, but I insist he could not have favored me if he wanted to, in connection with the leases, because the negotiations were carried on by someone else."

The defense has insisted that former Secretary of the Navy Denby was responsible for the leases, and not Fall. The jury heard portions of Denby's testimony today in which he answered question after question from Walsh concerning the lease with "I don't know," and said he would have to consult the navy department records.

Doheny's explanation of the torn note also was read to the jury, in which he said that he had taken half and his wife half so that if one were killed in a train wreck crossing the continent, the other would have evidence of the note, and if both were killed their son could protect Fall from executors of the estate who might press him for collection.

Insists on Testimony.

After Roberts had read testimony showing that Doheny had employed former Secretary of the Interior Lane, after he had left the Wilson cabinet, as well as former Attorney General Gregory, he turned to Judge Hoehling and said he did not think the rest of the testimony was relevant, whereupon Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the defense, jumped to his feet and demanded that he go ahead.

A few minutes later the jury heard how Doheny also had employed William G. McAdoo, after he had left his post as secretary of the treasury, the oil magnate testifying that he had paid the candidate for the presidential nomination $250,000 for representing him in his Mexican interests.

Hogan objected several times to reading of outside testimony which had been inserted in the senate committee's record, but was overruled by the judge. He served notice that he would take exception later. He also noted exceptions to the ruling on admission of the senate testimony, preparing the way for appeals later in case of conviction.

U. S. DESTROYERS RUSH TO HANKOW

from the London Times declaring the China problem is the most urgent question demanding immediate action and the empire's position is endangered owing to the activities of the empire's worst enemies.

LONDON OFFICIALS CONCERNED OVER CHINA.

London, November 29.—(AP)—"The gravest crisis since the boxer rebellion," is how British correspondents in China describe the present situation there and their concern is fully reflected here in official quarters.

The government, however, maintains its wary attitude which has prevailed throughout the prolonged Chinese troubles, and still declines to be hurried into any precipitate action based on what possibly may turn out to be inadequate information.

Former Premier J. Ramsey MacDonald, making his first appearance in the house of commons today since a holiday for his health, asked Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain to give the house information on affairs in China.

Sir Austen outlined the serious developments which have occured in Hankow during the past week growing out of a threatened general anti-foreign strike and boycott there.

He then asked Mr. MacDonald to repeat his question on Wednesday when he thought he would be able to give further information.

Replying to further questions, the foreign secretary said that he had received a communication from the British community of Hankow expressing fear of untoward incidents involving bloodshed and stating that the protection afforded by the British naval forces there were considered inadequate. The admiralty and ministry are giving this their attention.

GOVERNMENT AT PEKIN WITHOUT CABINET OR HEAD.

Pekin, November 29.—(AP)—With its enemies organizing for a concerted attack upon it, the Pekin government once more is without a cabinet or recognized head. In telegrams sent today to the war lords who appointed them and dictated their acts, the cabinet members declared their determination to quit the responsibilties of office.

Daily reports have come to Pekin of the successes of the armies of the Cantonese government, of one province after another going over to the southerners. In addition, the ruomin-chum (national army) of the Pekin government, deposed last April, is said to be preparing to march from Kansu province to join the Cantonese troops coming north.

The cabinet quit as a body and requested the war lords to assume responsibilities. The war lords are: Chang Tso-Lin, dictator of Manchuria, and dominant militarist of northern China; Chang Tsung-Chang, one of his chief commanders; Wu Pei-Fu, from whom the Cantonese wrested China's central provinces; Sun Chuan-Fang, and Yen Hsi-Shan.

SIMPSON TO ASK HALL-MILLS MISTRIAL

For two hours and five minutes today the patrician widow matched her amazing self-control against the prosecutor's vicious verbal jabs.

When she stepped again to the witness stand this morning she was again the proud aristocrat fighting to preserve her illusions about a husband that the world knows wronged her cruelly. Before the ordeal was over, the widow, after four years of stubborn denial, had admitted grudgingly to the jury that perhaps her husband had concealed something from her.

Hammers at Witness.

Simpson hammered hard at her before he drew forth this concession:

"You never had your suspicions aroused enough to believe that there might be any kind of attachment between your husband and Mrs. Mills until the time of the murder when these letters were found?"

"I had absolutely no such thought."

"Didn't you say in this interview I have read to you that you did not even believe it then, after the letters were found?"

"I am not sure of it now."

"You don't believe it now?"

"I am not sure of it."

"That is your opinion, is it not? You say it now, after having heard these letters read? There is nothing wrong, there was nothing wrong between your husband and Mrs. Mills, after hearing all this evidence?"

"After hearing all this evidence there must have been something going on I knew nothing of."

Plans To Elope.

She had heard dozens of the slain woman's friends tell the jury that the choir singer and the pastor planned to elope, that they were madly in love for two years, that the rector would rather die than see anything happen to Eleanor.

She had heard her husband's repudiation of her, in his own words, in his own handwriting—when his fiery letters to Mrs. Mills were read in court. So possibly all this evidence meant something, after all, the widow conceded at last.

But it didn't mean much. It was still merely an incident, she insisted.

Her attorney, Robert H. McCarter, asked whether her views toward her husband changed after she read the incriminating letters just before the start of the trial.

"You mean in his regard for me?" asked Mrs. Hall in her clear, melodious voice. "Or do you mean about anything that had gone on in his life."

"Did you believe he had changed?"

"Not in regard to his affection for me," she replied with a confidence that enraged Simpson.

"But did he change in regard to his relations with Mrs. Mills?"

"Yes," was the answer.

Mrs. Hall again spurned to play to the jury's sympathy, repeating the stoical role she played Saturday when she suffered through the first part of her ordeal of examination. She wore the same conservative, almost stern, attire.

Once, early in the day, spectators thought the widow's iron reserve had been broken. For a moment the defiance in her striking blue-gray eyes was veiled by a mist of tears.

The prosecutor attacked her on what might be expected to prove the most vulnerable point in a woman of Mrs. Hall's orderly, dutiful soul. She had not brought him home in death—this husband that she loved tenderly, this man whose love was the greatest thing in life to her. And she hadn't even gone to the morgue where his body lay. Over and over Simpson struck at her—atraigning her, holding her up to scorn as a wife who had neglected a last tenderness to the man she loved.

Before Senator Simpson finished with his sardonic attack, women spectators were weeping. Hearers flinched for Mrs. Hall, as she sat there motionless under the pitiless attack.

She did not even remember the details of his funeral, she admitted. And finally, there was a note of despair in the widow's replies. The strange mask slipped for a moment.

"I was under great emotional stress," she cried, with a catch in her voice. "I can't remember whether there were any pallbearers."

At first the astonished court room thought the tears would flow. But the fixed resolve—that she would not make a spectacle of herself for the delectation of a morbid crowd—took possession of her again, and the strong will came to her rescue.

Simpson kept on with his charges of neglect and indifference. Somewhere in his long reiteration Mrs. Hall got hold of herself again, and soon she was replying once more in cold monosyllables.

Mr. Hubbard, the undertaker, had advised her not to take the body home.

"My family also advised me," she protested.

Simpson, exhausted, stopped momentarily to search his ingenuity for new schemes of attack.

In that moment, Mrs. Hall removed her gaze from Simpson, his cold, challenging eyes, and looked toward the little group that sat in the prisoners' dock. There were her friends—her family.

Mrs. Edwin Carpender smiled bravely Willie Stevens continued his child-like trustful gaze.

Mrs. Hall's eyes then smiled as if a signal had passed between them. And after that Simpson might as well have quit for all the impression he made on her armor of self-assurance.

A handwriting expert, August Hartkorn, of New York, followed Mrs. Hall on the stand. Called by the state, he attacked Henry Stevens' blue fish affair. He asserted the bluefishing entry in Stevens' diary showed traces of having been inserted at a later date than the day of the murder.

PASTOR AND FAMILY IN AUTO ACCIDENT

The Rev. W. S. Pruitt, pastor of the Martha Brown Memorial Baptist church, his wife and baby were cut about the head and face and narrowly escaped serious injury when an automobile in which they were riding turned over Monday afternoon on the Howell Mill road near the Seaboard Air Line railroad bridge. They were given first-aid treatment at a nearby residence and later removed to their home.

The accident was caused when a tire blew out, causing the driver to lose control of the car, it was stated.

VARIED CROPS PLAN OF WINDER FARMERS

Winder, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—With one of the best general crops this year that has been made in this section in several years, harvesting is later than usual, owing to the unfavorable weather that has prevailed during the last five or six weeks and a shortness of labor in some sections.

The spring drouth caused cotton to get a late start, but with the favorable seasons that came later a bigger yield is being made than was expected. The cotton crop is late, lots of it being caught in the first freezes, which will prevent it opening.

The best grain crop ever made in this section was harvested in the spring and one of the best corn crops ever made is being gathered now. Sowing grain this fall is late, the ground being too wet to plow. Some oats, wheat and rye have been planted and with an open season of a few days, one of the largest grain crops ever planted in this section will be put in.

The low price of cotton will cause a general diversification of crops that will insure a better system of farming and instead of making cotton the main crop will give other crops precedence with cotton somewhat of a surplus crop.

TAX-FREE INDUSTRIES VOTED IN BARROW

Winder, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—At an election held in Barrow county and in Winder last Saturday new industries were exempted from taxation for a period of five years. Only two votes were cast in Winder and in the county against the proposal.

GREEN COUNTY GIRL HAS LEG AMPUTATED

Greensboro, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—News has been received that the young daughter of Alfred Atkinson, Greene county farmer, who was accidentally shot by her brother on Thanksgiving day, has had her leg amputated at an Athens hospital, where she was carried Thursday.

JONES COUNTY MEN TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Gray, Ga., November 29.—(AP)—Judge J. B. Park this afternoon sentenced Wade Johnson and Jarrett Benford to hang on December 31, for a criminal attack on an 80-year-old Jones county woman two years ago.

The crime charged to the young men was committed during the time that death by hanging was legal in Georgia and for this reason they were sentenced to die in this manner. Both have been in jail in Macon since shortly after the crime was committed.

When first tried here they were given the death sentence. Their case was appealed to the supreme court and new trials were denied. The case was carried to the United States supreme court and this tribunal held that it had no jurisdiction in the case and struck it from the calendar. This threw the case back in the court here for the men to be resentenced.

A unique court procedure was carried out this afternoon in connection with the resentencing of Johnson and Benford.

The prisoners were turned over to a group of 12 citizens of Jones county under an order issued by Judge James B. Park, of the Ocmulgee circuit, who is now holding court here, and this group of men brought the prisoners from the jail at Macon here to be resentenced.

The impeachment trial of Sheriff J. C. Middlebrooks, now under way here, necessitated the court appointing the group of citizens to act as sheriff and guard for the two men. Coroner H. R. Bullington, who is acting sheriff of Jones county, is without power to delegate men for this kind of service and the court had to issue the order.

When the sentences were pronounced the youths were placed in an automobile and rushed back to Macon, to be confined in the Bibb county jail until they will be transferred to Gary to carry out the sentences.

'CORN KING' TITLE WON FIFTH TIME BY SAME FAMILY

Chicago, November 29.—(AP)—For the fifth time national corn growing honors have been awarded a member of the Lux family of Shelbyville, Ind. Twelve-years-old Thomas J. Lux was crowned junior corn king of America at the International Livestock exposition today, a title won previously by his two brothers, Frank and Maurice, and a cousin, Victor M. Lux. Thomas' Father Peter J. Lux, twice held the title of "corn king."

Canada regained its laurels when Herman Trelle Wembleybn, East River, Alberta, won the wheat sweepstakes and title of "wheat king of north America." Only twice in 16 years has Canade failed to capture the title. L. P. Yates, Fishtail, Mont., won last year.

Canada also repeated past victories in the seed classes, the University of Wisconsin being the only exhibitor to give the dominion a race.

For showing the most outstanding qualities of leadership in 4-H (hand, heart, head and health) club farm projects. Kenneth Hinshaw, Goldendale, Washington, was presented a silver cup.

Officers of Church Who Sang in Theater Resign on Request

Houston, Texas, November 29.—(AP) Three officers of the Central Baptist church resigned today on request because they sang at a Houston theater last week.

J. B. Moncrief, Sunday school superintendent, J. D. Moncrief, superintendent of the young peoples' department, and J. W. Boyd, member of the choir, sang as members of a quartet at a performance of "The Old Homestead."

The Rev. W. D. Lierle, pastor, said the three had been asked to resign their official positions because they had neglected their church duties to fill a vaudeville engagement. They are still members of the church.

TEN TAKE STAND AT LYNCHING TRIAL

Fort Myers, Fla., November 29.—(AP)—Ten witnesses were examined during the morning session today of the grand jury investigating the lynching of Henry Patterson, negro, at LaBelle, May 11. State's Attorney Guy N. Strayhorn announced important testimony was expected to be heard this afternoon and tomorrow.

Those testifying this morning were Sheriff Dan McLaughlin of Hendry county; J. E. Marshall, R. N. Miller, William Stallings, Solon B. Crews and wife, Frank McGill, Mrs. R. C. Taylor, Mrs. Harry Lou Wall and Raleigh Dyess.

FIFTH WARD WOMEN TO GET VOTERS' PRIZE

Joel Hunter, chairman of the voters prize committee, of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, will present Atlanta's voters' prize to Mrs. J. M. Waites, chairman of the Fifth Ward League of Women Voters, at a ceremony in council chambers, Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

The presentation marks the end of Atlanta's first "get-out-the-vote-campaign, sponsored by the League of Women Voters and aided by many civic organizations of the city in September.

As a result of the campaign the Atlanta league won the $1,000 silver vase and $200 in cash, which was offered by the Georgia league of Women Voters to the city in Georgia which entered and through its own efforts secured the highest increase in voters over a preceding election.

The Atlanta league's voters' prize committee in turn, suggested that the vase be kept by the league on exhibit for one year by the ward which secured the biggest increase in the city and that the $200 be awarded to this ward for the good work and that it be spent for a civic purpose.

Suggestions, indorsed by 10 voters from the fifth ward, or adopted by organizations in that ward, are now being received at the league headquarters to go on the ballot to be voted upon after the ceremony on Wednesday night. Suggestions can be received until 8 o'clock this morning.

The election will be held under auspices of the elections committee of the Atlanta league, but the counting of votes will be by a committee of fifth ward women, directed by Mrs. Guy L. Sink, executive secretary of the Atlanta league.

Mayor Walter A. Sims has been invited to address the meeting, as has I. N. Ragsdale, mayor-elect. Alderman J. Allen Couch also is expected to be on hand. Mrs. A. W. Waldman, will act as timekeeper.

Air Travel Held No Extra Hazard By Insurance Co.

Hartford, Conn., November 29.—(AP)—Hazards of regularly established and licensed commercial aviation and little greater than those which beset pedestrians or the occupants of automobiles, surveys made by the Travelers' Insurance company have demonstrated. Basing its action on these surveys, the company announced today its decision to liberalize the flying prohibition upon holders of all but a few of the restricted class accident policies.

Effective December 1, the basic insurance will be paid, without additional premium costs, on approximately 80 per cent of the company's accident policies for any loss caused by any hazard of aviation, while the insured is riding as a passenger in a licensed airplane or dirigible operated by a licensed pilot upon a regular passenger route between definitely established airports.

The actuarial surveys, Vice President B. A. Page said, were instituted primarily because of inquiries from policy holders who intended to visit Europe and travel there on the regularly established lines.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO HELP FARMERS

Washington, November 29.—(AP)—Announcing a democratic program of action for the short congressional session, Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the minority leader, declared today that particular attention would be given farm relief, tax reduction and legislation to prevent corrupt practices in senatorial primaries.

The democrats, he said, stand ready to cooperate in the establishment of a liberal policy for the relief of agriculture, and it is "unfair" for the administration leaders to attempt to "shift responsibility for the prospective failure" to enact adequate farm relief to democrat members from the south.

Farmers Must Control.

"From my standpoint, any machinery authorized by national legislation for dealing with surplus agricultural products," he added, "should be set up and maintained by the farmers themselves, for through their cooperative and voluntary action alone can limitation of production essential to the maintenance of just prices over a long period be accomplished."

The democratic leader declared the administration's tax credit proposal would violate fundamental principles of government and would constitute an undeserved gratituity of many large taxpayers.

"The democratic theory of taxation is that the taxing power must be employed only to the extent required for necessary revenues," he said. "It follows that since the present laws produce an excess of revenues these laws as a matter of right and justice should be reformed to as to eliminate irksome, vexatious and unnecessary tax charges. A mere refund is not only unjust, but it is to be condemned because it does not safeguard the future against unnecessary tax charges."

Tariff Reduction.

Tariff reduction, in Senator Robinson's opinion, should be included, as it would reduce the cost of living, stimulate foreign commerce of friendliness.

"Fraudulent practices with respect to the recent election of senators in certain states transcends any mere question of political expediency," he said, "and demands decisive action for the protection of the senate against the impeachment of its honor and the impairment of its influence."

PRESBYTERIAN HEADS WILL CONVENE TODAY

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., November 29.—More liberal attitude toward marriage and divorce will be the topic uppermost for discussion when the Presbyterian general council, made up of the national leaders of the church assemble here tomorrow.

Dr. William O. Thompson, of Columbus, Ohio, moderator of the general assembly will submit an exhaustive report compiled by a special committee. This committee was appointed at the Baltimore assembly last May, and instructed to make a thorough study of the subject with the view to amending the confession of faith concerning divorce. The confession of faith, which has been handed down from stricter days, anathemizes marriages between "Professors of the true reformed religion," and "infidels papists, or other idolators," or with heretics and unbelievers.

Willful desertion and statutory grounds alone are recognized as sufficient cause for dissolving the bonds of matrimony. The book of discipline also provides stern measures for a minister who becomes party to a divorce.

The status of women in the church as a cause of unrest will be the subject of a report to be presented by Mrs. Fred S. Bennett, of New York and Mrs. Margaret E. Hodge, of Philadelphia. A $15,000,000 budget for benevolent work will also come up for consideration.

MONEY APPEARED IN LOCKER, COAST GUARDSMAN SAYS

Boston, November 29.—(AP)—Testimony concerning the unexplained appearance of sums of money in a coast guardsman's locker and a mysterious "Mr. Wilson," who apparently knew something about one of these sums was given by the guardsman at court martial proceedings at the coast guard base here today.

The witness was James A. Kempton, motor machinist mate testifying in connection with charges that Chief Boatswain's Mate John H. McEnroe, on trial, had trafficked with rum runners.

Kempton, who was attached to the boat CG 190, denied on the stand that he had ever seen McEnroe bring liquor aboard. He denied receiving any money from McEnroe, but on two different occasions had found $50 in his locker.

Indication that Wilson knew something about one of the sums came when Kempton described asking a loan of $5 from "Wilson." Wilson expressed surprise that he should be short so soon, Kempton said and asked if he had looked in his locker recently. When he did, he found $50, the coast guardsman said.

DRYS TO OPPOSE POST IN CABINET FOR WADSWORTH

Wadsworth has been indicated as a possible successor to Assistant Secretary Winston, of the treasury, in the event he resigns.

Chinese Business Continues Despite Strife, Watson Says

That business in China is going on in spite of political difficulties and almost constant warfare, was the opinion expressed by Osborn S. Watson, American trade commissioner at Pekin, speaking before the Atlanta Foreign Trade club at a luncheon given in his honor Monday noon at the chamber of commerce, H. O. Williamson, president of the club, presided.

"Chinese business men and traders appear to possess an ability to do business under any conditions," declared Mr. Watson. "As evidence of this, the foreign trade of China has not been, in total volume, impaired to any appreciable extent during the past two years of country-wide political upheaval and strife. Through the introduction of foreign manufactured goods and through touch with the western world, China has developed into a steady market for many varieties of American manufactures. Chinese buyers are good traders and there is a growing tendency amongst them, as their knowledge of foreign trade increases, to secure their needs through the least expensive channels. China is perhaps one of the most competitive markets in the world, being situated as it is about equidistant from the large manufacturing centers of Europe and America. The present unsettled conditions in China have tended to alter to some extent distribution of imports and exports in that country."

Mr. Watson has spent the past five years in China representing the United States government at Pekin, Tientsin, Shanghai and Canton and has seen considerable fighting between the warring factions.

He is a native Georgian, born in Decatur, and received his college training at Georgia Tech, afterwards taking post-graduate work at Georgetown university school of foreign commerce in Washington. During the world war he served as a lieutenant of field artillery from August 1917 through February 1919, following which he joined the United States shipping board and traveled through Europe, Asia and South America in the American merchant marine service until his appointment with the department of commerce in 1922.

Mr. Watson will remain in Atlanta until noon today and may be reached at the district office of the department of commerce in the federal building by Atlantans desiring to confer with him about China. He is going from here to his home in Blackshear, Ga., where he will spend several weeks' vacation hunting and fishing in Okefenokee swamp.

SAFECRACKERS ROB TATE MARBLE WORKS

Work of expert safecrackers marked the robbery of the Georgia Marble company office at Tate, Ga., Sunday night, when yeggs blew open the office safe with nitroglycerine and made away with $90 in cash and $500 in checks, according to long distance telephone report to Atlanta police Monday morning. The opinion was expressed that the safecrackers were working their way to Atlanta, and officers were requested to be on the lookout for them.

C. M. & ST. PAUL OPEN DISTRICT OFFICES

With the selection of Atlanta as district headquarters of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, another strong bond linking the fast-growing south and west was revealed when J. H. Skillen, assistant freight traffic manager, and G. C. Hiltel, newly-appointed general agent for the Atlanta district, arrived here Monday.

Offices in the Healey building are being completely equipped by officials, who began work immediately upon arrival. The office will handle the business of the district, which embraces North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Georgia. Mr. Hiltel's appointment as general agent is effective Wednesday.

Mr. Skillen visited Atlanta in October on an inspection tour to arrange for location of the district headquarters.

"The reason our company chose Atlanta for its branch office," Mr. Skillen stated, "is the same that has determined the many other large concerns of America on locating here. The south is progressing with tremendous strides and Atlanta is the strategic commercial center of the south."

Mr. Hiltel, who has been connected with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway for 16 years, and prior to this promotion to the Atlanta headquarters, was traveling agent out of Milwaukee. In addition to himself local offices will have two traveling agents and a chief clerk. "As the office takes on new duties and increased business, of which we are confident, its facilities will be expanded," he said.

"The business of this section formerly were managed by a traveling agent out of the Cincinnati office until increased volume and future prospects necessitated the opening of the Atlanta office. Our company operates 12,000 miles of railroad track, of which 650 is electrified. It draws from all freight and passenger traffic between all points west of Chicago," Mr. Hiltel said.

Records and Furniture Of Prohibition Office Are Sent to Savannah

Charlotte, N. C., November 29.—(AP)—Work of transferring furniture and records from the district prohibition office here to new offices in Savannah, Ga., and Richmond, Va., began in earnest today. A truck load of records and furniture left for Savannah and another load will be sent to Richmond in a day or two.

The local office was abolished when the Georgia-South Carolina-North Carolina district was ordered divided with South Carolina and Georgia in a district with Florida and North Carolina in a district with Virginia. The new offices will start operations December 1.

The call was issued by Dr. A. A. Shaw, acting president of the committee which was formed here last May. Ten directors will be selected at the December meeting, it was announced, and plans made for definite steps looking to influencing the state legislature when it meets in Raleigh in January to pass laws regulating the courses of study in the public schools.

WORLD'S GREATEST TRAVEL SYSTEM

Two-Piano Recital Offers Atlantans Rare Opportunity

One of the most intrigueing occasions in local entertainment circles is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock tonight at Wesley Memorial auditorium. It is the two-piano recital to be given by Hugh Hodgson and Rosita Renard, assisted by Kate Hodgson, soprano. All three outstanding artists of international fame who make their homes in Atlanta, it is only too infrequently that Atlantans are offered the opportunity to hear them.

The concert carries added interest by reason of its purpose. It is being given by the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind with the object, as they succinctly phrase it, of "taking the blind beggar with his cup off the streets." No more desirable goal could well be imagined. Officials of the association point out that when a blind person is, by circumstance, forced to go upon the streets to beg a sustenance, it is a matter of shame to the individual and all other blind, and a matter of shame to the public which permits conditions which force it. For the blind are fully capable of becoming self-supporting, valuable citizens, if but given the opportunity. This opportunity is given by the association through a training school where blind people are taught occupations whereby they may make their living. It is to provide needed finances for this school, to enable it to reach every blind person and train him that the concert is given tonight.

Atlanta is too familiar with the genius of Hugh Hodgson to need further information. His power of tone, his mastery of technique and his sympathetic interpretation, have won him a reputation as a pianist of the highest rank not only in American but in European countries as well. Senorita Renard, a Chilean, is almost as well known and it is a matter of great interest to music lovers to hear tonight the extent of their rapprochement playing together. Their ensemble work should be magnificent, inasmuch as they have been professionally associated for years and, in their playing, display many points of temperamental similarity.

Kate Hodgson, who is Mrs. Hugh Hodgson in private life, possesses a soprano voice of sweetest tone and perfect training. She has appeared here in recital before and has always been received with acclaim.

The demand for seats has been large, it is reported, but, because of the unusual formation of Wesley memorial, which practically eliminates all seats at any distance from the platform, there are still plenty of good ones available.

PALACE THEATER—Clara Bow in "Mantrap."

The Rialto.

Not in many weeks has there been presented to local picture lovers a more adequate, colorful, appropriately pictorial and generally satisfying entertainment than Marshall Neilan's comedy-drama, "Everybody's Acting," which had its initial showing yesterday at the Rialto theater.

This picturization of a story which Neilan personally wrote and directed is a vivid mixture of those human elements to be found in every-day life—humor, pathos, romance, bits of tragedy and a real clutch at the heart-strings.

Moreover, the characters have been shrewdly drawn and are very competently portrayed. Betty Bronson plays the principal role. Ford Sterling, Raymond Hitchcock, Henry Walthall, Stuart Holmes and Edward Martindel are in the supporting cast.

It is accompanied by an Educational's comedy, "Kiss Papa."

Palace Theater.

The picturization of Upton Sinclair's story of the conditions of modern society, "Mantrap" is billed for showings the last times today at the Palace theater. Clara Bow, scintillating star of the screen, who has appeared so often to advantage in reels portraying modern youth, is starred in "Mantrap" as the golddigger who marries a trapper and woodsman from the great north woods, and she returns with him to his home. The advent of a handsome stranger in the home of the woodsman and his flapper wife causes an upheaval from which emerges a satisfactory close.

Alamo No. 1.

The Alamo No. 1 Monday and Tuesday offers Harry Carey in "Satan Town," a story of remarkable power. It is the year of 1898 in Seattle. Bill Scott is lucky possessor of a ticket to Alaska, to Nome, the center of the world's yellow madness. He had won it in a gamble with a man who tried to cheat—and then he auctioned it off for a thousand dollars, and worked his way to the land of fortunes in the stoke-hole. He sold his ticket to finance a poor girl in a boarding school. After twelve years had passed, and Bill Scott came back a millionaire and eager to see the girl for whose education and support he had contributed much money during the years. But he found that Jerome had used it to capitalize his pet scheme, a city for the promotion and exploitation of sin.

With a well oiled gun and two hard fists he started out to clean out the most wicked city on earth.

We offer Bill Baily Wednesday and Thursday in "The Fightin' Jack."

Friday and Saturday Art Acord in "The Terror." Cattle rustler or cattle ranger? Which role did he play?

Fairfax Theater.

(East Point)

Playing its last times today at the Fairfax theater in East Point, is the screen characterization of the famous Peter B. Kyne novel, "Never the Twain Shall Meet." Anita Stewart, popular star of the cinema, is featured in "Never the Twain Shall Meet." The locale of the film is in the South Sea Isles. It is a story that does justice to the ability of a master-novelist.

Tenth Street Theater.

"Kiki," one of Norma Talmadge's most popular films, was voted the best-liked photoplay of any seen recently at the Tenth Street theater by first-day houses. "Kiki" is closing a two-day run today. Miss Talmadge, in the delightful role of the street waif of Paris, is captivating in her portrayal of the role that was made famous on the stage by Lenore Ulric. And her characterization is every bit as distinguished as any performance ever given by the popular stage star. "Kiki" is the story of a girl who adopts rather unusual methods to insure her success on the stage. A portion of her extraordinary plan is appointing herself to the position of "sweetie" with the theater manager, and establishing herself in his apartment, much to the poor manager's consternation. His many attempts to eject her from his apartment and of the complications which arise when the man's real "sweetie" appears on the scene are productive of the richest type of light comedy.

Tudor Theater.

In this latest action picture, "Mulhall's Great Catch," the star portrays the role of a daredevil fireman, figthing against a policeman for the hand of a girl, promised to the one who performs the most daring feat.

On the same program with "Mulhall's Great Catch," are International News and a splendid comedy.

West End Theater.

Richard Dix is featured as a rather incredulous individual in his latest comedy riot, "Say It Again," which opened a two-day run at the West End theater yesterday. It was pronounced by the patrons of the popular community playhouse to be thoroughly delightful in its comedy and story from start to finish. It is doubtful if a more popular film has played at the West End theater than this vehicle of the popular Richard Dix. It is slated for final showings today.

The Metropolitan.

Not only does Miss Mackaill portray to perfection the life of the average New York girl, but Jack Mulhall contributes a lot to the picture and makes many feminine hearts flutter with his odd way of looking at his sweetheart.

Add to that the pretty, pensive face of Peggy Shaw, a few fashion shows, scenes from New York's subway, some dazzling scenes with members of the "Silver Slipper" night club revue and it totals an evening of entertainment. Of course the pretty and chic Sally doesn't really marry a subway guard, because that wouldn't be according to the ethics of that kind of a picture, but it keeps the onlooker all keyed up to the belief that she will.

Dorothy Mackaill in her latest picture presents not a new type to the cinema but presents a type in a new way. Her conversation with a subway guard in monosylables is fine. In fact the lines form one of the best parts of the picture, for they are well placed and it doesn't take up half the time reading them.

The orchestra offered as the overture, "Sidewalks of New York," by Charles B. Lawler and James Blake. The love theme for the picture is, "Sometime, Somewhere, Somehow," by Mildred White Wallace, brilliant southern ballad composer.

Other offerings on the screen included "He Done His Best," a whirlwind comedy starring Charles Bowers, and Metropolitan News and Views reel.

J. RUFUS HARDY.

The Howard.

The Howard theater received a magnificent start Monday night on its way to smashing the house record with Gilda Gray in person and on the screen in "Aloma of the South Seas." The eager boys practically fought for admission at both night performances.

Miss Gray appears on the stage in "A South Sea Idyl" and the Publix management has evidently considered the quality sufficient to overshadow the lack of quantity in this production. It clocked a trifle less than ten minutes last night with the majority of that time consumed by the Royal Samoans, who, I believe, have made a previous appearance on the Howard stage, and expressions were heard over the house as to the shortness of the offering.

Miss Gray in her dance is as delightful as she could be, and she also sings a portion of "Aloma" preceding her dance. The chorus, "Six South Sea Dancers," also offer a Hawaiian number.

"Aloma of the South Seas," Miss Gray's screen opus, contains some marvelous shots of the sea-breaking and dashing into a mass of foam against the rocks. The story is very similar to other stories of the South sea type.

Miss Gray, as the native dancer, is quite pleasing with her type of beauty. Of all the performances, however, William Powell's is perhaps the outstanding one. As the dissolute husband who is finally consumed by the sharks, he equals his role in "The Great Gatsby." The first stage number on this week's program is Mortensen, who performs on two pianos at the same time, maintaining a different tempo on each. "Familiar Melodies" is the overture.

$1,000,000 for this way to end Colds

One of the world's largest laboratories perfected a way to end colds. It combined a number of modern discoveries. That way proved itself so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

That way is called HILL'S. It checks a cold in 24 hours. It ends the fever, stops the headache. It opens the bowels, tones the entire system. And without any ill effects. As a result, one usually feels better than before the cold began.

Millions now employ it. When they learn its results they keep it ever on hand. Then a cold rarely gets started.

Here is all-in-all for colds—the best modern science knows. Things will change tomorrow if you take it now. Go start it without delay.

BRILLIANT HUMOR IN "NEW BROOMS" NOW AT FORSYTH

"New Brooms," scintillating with humor, adroitly woven around a most wholesome theme, opened last night for a week at the Forsyth theater with a full first night crowd that punctuated the run at frequent intervals with vociferous voice.

James Coots, Forsyth Players' leading man, and Gus Forbes, take command in the first few moments of the interesting three-act comedy and their grip increases as the play runs on with the last few minutes before the final curtain finding the two locked in a conversation that leaves a most refreshing thought.

Jean Devereaux, in the role of housekeeper; Rhea Diveley, Theodosia Shaler, Alan Devitt, Lawrence Keating, Thomas Eggenton, Eugenia Dubois and others of the excellent cast, while contributing invaluably to the production, were entirely overshadowed by the work of Mr. Coots and Mr. Forbes.

Miss Devereaux, leading woman, is cast in a role that, while important, is not difficult and affords a let-up from the arduous and heavy roles of recent shows. Her work, however, is of that fine, absorbing richness which has endeared her to Atlantans.

Jimmy Coots stands out in his best contribution to Atlanta's stock season. "New Brooms" is the clean, really funny sort of a show in which Coots plays a very natural part.

And Gus Forbes, good old Gus, never played a more convincing role as that grouchy, turbulent father. But at the end of it all comes around, thanks to the fine playwriting of Frank Craven.

SPANISH DANCER, MARIMBA BAND, AT LOEW'S GRAND

With Amalia Molena, famous Spanish dancer, and her La Chopina Marimba band, as headline attraction and with a stupendous picture, "Three Bad Men" as the feature production, the program for this week at Loew's Grand is of unusual excellence and scored a big hit at the opening performances Monday. The dances are gracefully executed, several pretty Spanish songs are sung and the Marimba band plays with fine finish a medley of late songs in the headline act.

Alice Thornton and Gil Squires present a comedy skit with a novel opening, a clever finish and with attractive songs and dances in between. Tillyou and Rogers, in acrobatic dances, were well received, and the work of one of the men, who is more than 70 years old, was marvelous. Kaufman and Lillian provide much comedy and Kaufman sings one particularly effective ballad number.

The feature picture, "Three Bad Men," surpasses in many respects "The Iron Horse," its predecessor from the Fox studios. It is a romantic drama of the land rush in 1876 with blood stirring and nerve tingling situations aplenty. There is an all-star cast and some amazing spectacles introduced during the action.

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh or chronic colds. It often produces chronic headaches and deafness, affecting the eyes and voice, and frequently weakening the lungs. Get rid of catarrh by a simple, safe, pleasant, home remedy, discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, berries and flowers, which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette. The smoke vapor is inhaled into the air passages of the nose, head, throat and lungs, and carries medicine where sprays, douches and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing, and as it contains no tobacco or cubebs is perfectly harmless, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

If you suffer with catarrh, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or if subject to frequent colds, get from your drug store a pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes. Prove for yourself their pleasant and beneficial effects.—(adv.)

Curiosity Leads To Valuable Discovery

Away back in 1676—exactly two hundred and fifty years ago—an English physician's curiosity led to a discovery which should be of particular interest to every human being.

His attention was drawn to the wonderful effect and results produced by drinking the water of a certain spring in that country, the properties and action of which he traced to the presence of a mineral salt known as sulphate of magnesia, which it was observed possessed remarkable powers of attraction for water; in so far that, when enclosed in a bladder and submerged, water passed through the membrane into the bladder.

In the human system its action was found to be identical. Water and superfluous fluids are drawn from the organism into the intestines thereby increasing their peculiar worm-like action enough to induce a prompt elimination of all the stagnant waste matter which frequently accumulates (even though the bowels move regularly), and whose presence invariably causes a heavy, sluggish, nervous feeling and lack of energy.

It can be seen from the above that sulphate of magnesia is more physical in its action than chemical and is therefore not absorbed to any extent. For this reason alone it is regarded by physicians as the most valuable of all internal cleansing agents.

This substance, in complexed molecular form, constitutes the principal active ingredient of "Magnex," a safe, prompt and efficient preparation for eliminating body wastes and the relief of constipation without unpleasant after-effects, embarrassment or interference with daily business and social activities.

KEITH'S GEORGIA OFFERS SPLENDID FEATURE PICTURE

At Keith's Georgia theater, this week, there is one of the most entertaining feature pictures seen in Atlanta for several months. It is the second full-starring vehicle for Harry Langdon, the plaintive comedian, and is entitled "The Strong Man." It cannot be praised too highly. Funny, of course, for Langdon is always funny. But touched with pathos that made many tears spring from the audience Monday—and with a human sympathy that grips the cockles of your heart and stirs the enthusiasm over the Central railroad to Punta Gorda, where funeral services and interment will be held Wednesday.

Mr. Blunt is survived by his widow and two brothers, Dr. B. B. Blount and F. R. Blount, both of Punta Gorda. Barclay and Brandon company in charge.

Jews Celebrate Feast of Lights, 'Canukah,' Today

At sundown Tuesday, 15,000,000 Jews throughout the world will light eight candles, signifying the commencement of Canukah, or Feast of Lights, which lasts for eight days.

The Feast of Lights commemorates the victory of the Jews under Judas Maccabeus, when the forces of Antiochus Epiphenes were defeated, Jerusalem reconquered, and the temple cleansed of the heathen images with which the sanctuary had been profaned by the Greek invader.

According to tradition, when Judas Maccabeus entered the temple, a cruse of oil, sufficient only for one day was found there, but miraculously it sufficed for eight days.

At 7:30 tonight services will be held in Atlanta synagogues followed by a morning service every day for eight days in celebration of the Canukah. After the services tonight Atlanta Jews will light one candle in their homes. As each day of the feast of lights passes an additional candle will be lighted. This also will be done in the synagogues beginning tonight.

On Sunday, which is the day Jews throughout the world will hold their real celebration of the feast, morning and evening services will be held in all the synagogues. Jewish Bible classes will meet Sunday morning and sermons on the significance of the holiday will be preached by Atlanta rabbis at night.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

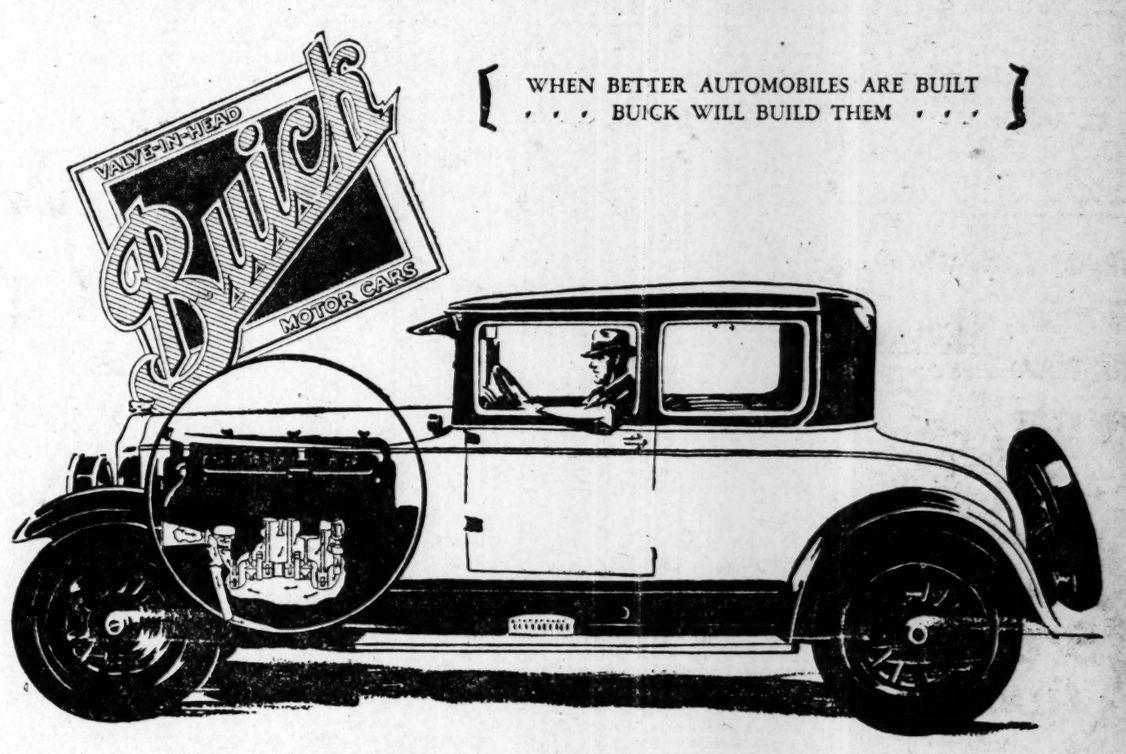

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

No Engine Fumes in Buick closed cars

This vital new Buick improvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

Close the windows tight, drive the car at any speed, and prove to yourself that the Buick engine never contaminates the air you breathe.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. With it, crankcase vapors have no opportunity to condense and dilute the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.

For luxury, and for economy, own a Buick. Come in today and see what we mean when we say: "The Greatest Buick Ever Built."

Tech High, Boys' High End Season at Spiller's Today

Teams Are Primed For Annual Battle; Old Stars Are Back

Bardwell Returns to Smithie Lineup After Long Absence and Will Perform This Afternoon—Teams Are Evenly Matched and Great Battle Looms.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Tech High will meet Boys' High this afternoon at Spiller's at 2 o'clock in the seventeenth annual grid clash between the two schools.

Today's game comes as the climax of the 1926 prep grid season, and a Boys' High-Tech High game is always one of the outstanding features of the local prep schedule. Last year when the two teams met, Boys' High had a poor team, and Tech High was doing very well. However, the purple jersied lads, aided by the toe of the late Pete Ford, rode to a 3-to-0 victory over the Smithies.

This season, both teams have lost several games, and are rated as being about evenly matched. A great battle is expected when the two teams meet this afternoon.

Bardwell Is Back.

Charlie Bardwell, the Smithy flash, who suffered a broken collar bone early in the season, has been practicing with the team for the past two weeks, and will be ready for action today. Bardwell performed well in the first games of the season, and they say out at Tech High, that he will be right today, and that Boys' High will have trouble in stopping him. He is a powerful runner, and has plenty of speed, performing in the dashes on the track team, and will probably be heard from this afternoon.

Armin Waugh, Tech High quarter back, who has already broken the prep record for ground gained from scrimmage, will be in action, and he and Bardwell will give the fans plenty of excitement.

Boys' High has developed a very good passing attack during the season, and will in all probability try the aerial route quite frequently. The Purple, however, has Breezy Winn to ram the line, and if the Smithy linemen don't keep their eyes open, Sam Colvin, quarter, is liable to get away at any time, as he has done this year.

T. H. S. Has Heavier Line.

Of the two teams, Tech High has the heavier line, but the Boys' High line is playing its second year together, and has given a creditable performance in all the games this season.

Officials of the two schools report that there has been a large advance sale of student tickets, and a large crowd is expected this afternoon. W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, announced Monday that tickets had been placed on sale at Chess' place at Five Points, and will be on sale today up until the time of the game.

Eleanora Sears Again Breaks Her Walking Record

Boston, November 29.—(AP)—Miss Eleanora Sears, society woman who is also a tennis player and horsewoman, again has demonstrated her athletic ability by clipping 43 minutes from her previous time in walking from Providence to Boston. Tonight she was giving a celebration and dance at her home after a few hours rest.

Last December she held her honors against men pacemakers who hiked the distance with her. Today she shared them with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, international known tennis player, who finished abreast of Miss Sears.

The start was made from Providence at 12:55 this morning. Five men who rode in the accompanying automobiles served alternately as pace makers. Miss Sears and Miss Ryan wore walking shoes and heavy stockings. They halted for a moment in Wrentham for a cup of cocoa, 20 minutes in Dedham for breakfast, and a little later paused for a drink of coffee. They reached Miss Sears' home here at 10:50 o'clock, an elapsed time of nine hours and 53 minutes.

Although the distance generally is reckoned at 44 miles, Miss Sears declared that it is actually 47. She said that Miss Ryan had trained with her for six weeks in preparation for the hike. She declared it was not a race, except that she hoped they would better the time she made last year.

Although Clifton Church, 73-year-old veteran, gallantly handed to Miss Sears the crown he had worn since 1875, when he said he completed the distance in 10 hours flat, another claimant for the record on the now popular course has appeared. Friends of Jean Bassis, employed in an Attleboro factory, asserted that on September 11, she covered the distance in nine hours, 26 minutes.

In her hike of a year ago, by which she startled society and started a series of competitions by others, Miss Sears was said to have won a wager of $1,000 from Howard L. Sturges, of Providence.

Bicycle Racing Prelim Planned

New York, November 29.—Those patient six-day bicycles race fans will have an opportunity to see two great riders perform before the curtain is raised on the long grind next Saturday night.

NASHVILLE CLUB SIGNS GIL REESE

Memphis, Tenn., November 29.—(Special.)—Gil Reese, former star athlete at Vanderbilt university and coach of the University of Tennessee Doctors' football team this season, today signed a contract with the Nashville ball club for next season. Reese was tendered a contract by Jack Whaley, president of the Nashville club, who attended the Southern league meeting here and Gil put his name on the dotted line. Reese is local representative of the Southern Lumberman, a trade journal of which his brother, Stanley Horn, is one of the owners. It is understood that Reese will retain his position with the publication throughout the year.

Gil Reese is a brother of Andy Reese, outfielder of the Memphis club last season and who has been sold to the Giants.

Reese, who was captain of both the football and baseball teams at Vanderbilt, played four years on the varsity baseball team where he was as much a star as on the grid.

A rather odd coincidence in Reese's college baseball career is that he played a different position each year on the baseball team. The first year he played second base, the next center field, the third shortstop and last season third base.

1,500,000 SAW WESTERN TEAMS PLAY

Chicago, November 29.—(AP)—Record-breaking crowds, setting a new attendance record of nearly 1,500,000 with receipts close to $2,500,000, and a tie between two teams which did not meet, Northwestern and Michigan, was the season's gridiron result in the western conference for the 1926 season.

As a result, the Wolverines and Northwestern shared the championship honors.

The Ohio State-Michigan battle drew 94,000, the largest paid attendance ever attracted to a football game in America, until the record-smashing game of 110,000 that witnessed the Army-Navy spectacle yesterday.

Ohio Pushes Leaders.

Close behind the twin leaders of the "Big Ten" came Ohio, crowded out of first place by a one-point defeat at the hands of Michigan, and next was Purdue, with its most successful season in many years.

Three conference teams found themselves tied for the cellar, without a conference victory, Iowa, Indiana and Chicago. To the latter, this was strange territory, for two years ago they copped the gold footballs of the champions.

Double-headers, between Indiana and Northwestern, and between Michigan and Minnesota, were an unusual feature of the 1926 "Big Ten" season. The two Michigan defeats, won by a one-point margin, were the only setbacks suffered by Minnesota in its conference season, and with only a few of the regulars to graduate next spring the Gophers are regarded as about the most dangerous contenders in the conference for the 1927 title.

Party of Hunters Arrive Brunswick

Brunswick, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—The first big hunting party of the season arrived at the Dover Hall club across Turtle river from Brunswick to spend several days hunting deer, duck, turkey and quail on extensive preserves owned by the club. Gamekeepers on all preserves around Brunswick report that the deer are unusually numerous this season and that the crops of turkey and bob whites surpass anything in recent years.

The party now at Dover Hall includes Wilbert Robinson, of the Brooklyn Nationals; Colonel T. T. Huston, of New York, former owner of the Yankees; W. H. Pipp, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, father of Wally Pipp; Fred A. Benz, Ernest Bessert, Thomas Schullmann, Harry Landon, J. W. Heintzman, C. T. Werk, Jr., Walter E. Kruckermeil and W. E. Hess, of Cincinnati; S. Weckleman, of Covington, Ky.; B. C. Oppenhein, Coldwater, Ohio; A. E. Guggenheim, Columbus, Ohio; Dr. J. T. Baker and C. F. Smith, Findlay, Ohio; Marshall Hunt, of Brooklyn, and Harry Perry, of New York.

Gamecocks Make One Grid Change

Columbia, S. C., November 29.—(AP) Absence of the Wofford college Terriers marks the only change in the University of South Carolina 1927 football schedule as announced here tonight. All other teams played this year will meet the Gamecocks next fall and no new matches have been booked.

Athletic officials in announcing that South Carolina today had declined an offer to play the University of Chicago next October 1, at Chicago, said that though it was not the policy of the school to play intersectional games, they would have been glad to accept Coach Stagg's offer except for a conflict of dates. The Gamecocks are slated to play Maryland at College Park on that day.

Other offers which Carolina has declined include those from Georgia, Auburn, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi A. & M., Mercer, Wake Forrest, Davidson and West Point.

The 1927 schedule follows:

September 24—Erskine at Columbia.

October 1—Maryland at College Park.

October 15—North Carolina at Columbia.

October 20—Clemson at State Fair, Columbia.

October 27—Citadel at Orangeburg, South Carolina.

November 5—V. P. I. at Richmond.

November 12—Furman at Greenville.

November 24—North Carolina State at Columbia.

Rouse Chicago Leader.

Chicago, November 29.—(AP)—Kenneth Rouse, center on the University of Chicago eleven for the last two years, today was elected captain of the 1927 team. He is a Chicagoan.

Hendrix, Vandy Full, Leads S. C. Scorers

Bill Hendrix, line-battering fullback of the Vanderbilt Commodores, crossed his opponents' goal line just sixteen times during the 1926 Southern conference season to roll up 96 points for the conference leadership in scoring, figures compiled by the Associated Press today show. Aside from the sixteen touchdowns Hendrix failed to register a point the past season, but he was 41 points ahead of his nearest competitors, Rauber, of Washington and Lee, and Peake, of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, who were tied for second place with 55 each.

Meeks, of Mississippi A. and M., and Barnes, of Alabama, shared third place with 49 points each, while Smith, of Kentucky, trailed them one point in fourth place. Fifth position in the standing was crowded with Thomas, of Maryland, Wimberly, of South Carolina, and Caldwell, of Alabama, each of whom claimed their berths with 42 points.

Caldwell's points after touchdowns gave him half of his points, 21 extra points being credited to him, to lead the conference in this branch of scoring. Mackall, of Virginia, had the most dependable toe for field goals and lead with four.

Alabama's leadership of the conference for the third consecutive year, and high scoring honors for the past season, can be attributed to the scoring ability of Barnes, Caldwell, Brown, Winslett and Taylor, who scored 176 of the Crimson's Tide's 251 points.

Although trailing the conference in no conference victories, Sewanee's Tigers gave the organization one of its leading scorers—Fullback Halvy, who placed sixth with 39 points.

Players, selected from the five highest on their respective teams, who have scored ten or more points in all games during the past season as shown by records of the Associated Press follow:

Upsets Feature Missouri Valley

Kansas City, November 29.—(AP)—The 1926 Missouri valley football will go down as one of upsets and contradictory performances. Only the Oklahoma Aggies, holders of the mythical title, and Nebraska were able to win with any consistency and Nebraska lost one game to Missouri.

Pre-game calculations of experts were upset many times. Nebraska had the edge on Missouri and lost, 14 to 7; Missouri was expected to defeat Oklahoma and lost, 10 to 7; and Iowa State was the underdog but won over the Kansas Aggies, 3 to 2.

This season was the first that the valley championship has gone to the Oklahoma Aggies, youngest member of the conference. They won three games and tied, one, the only team in the valley to emerge unbeaten.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial astham, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

TRIS SPEAKER RESIGNS POST WITH INDIANS

Cleveland, Ohio, November 29.—(AP) Post-season events which have brought about the passing of six big league baseball managers, today erased another illustrous name from the active list, when Tris Speaker, 38, manager of the Cleveland Indians, resigned the post he had held since mid-season, 1919.

Speaker announced that his long term in the major leagues was at an end and that he was going to join Ty Cobb and other managers in the inactive list.

Speaker's resignation has been rumored for several months.

"I considered quitting last year," the gray haired manager said, "but the Indians were in sixth place and I didn't want it said that I quit a rudderless ship. So I stuck it out another season.

"The Indians finished in second place in the American league last season and I can step out now without any question of my action."

The friends of "Spoke" added another reason for his resignation to his own. They said he is going into business, but the manager's hitting and fielding record was cited as a further reason for his retirement.

Tris dreaded the bench.

After marking up a career in baseball second only to that of Ty Cobb, Tris knew that his days of active service were almost numbered. Only last season he benched himself when he saw his fielding was poor.

He was acknowledged the "world's greatest outfielder." His "peg" was unerring and he covered a wide territory.

Therefore the veteran decided to step out while he was the Tris Speaker of old, his friends believe.

Tris began his baseball career in Hubbard City, Texas, where he was studying to be a bookkeeper. He was playing with the Cleburn team of the North Texas league when the Boston Americans tried him out in 1908 and again in 1909. Thereafter he remained in the American league.

OOSTERBAAN AND JOESTING WEST'S BEST

Chicago, November 29.—By the Associated Press.)—The two outstanding players of the western conference this year, in the opinion of football coaches who trained "Big Ten" teams, are Herb Joesting, the Minnesota fullback who led the conference in points scored, and Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan end. They were chosen unanimously by the coaches in the selection tonight for the Associated Press for first and second "All-Conference" teams.

Close behind these two, with but one or two votes lacking, were Bennie Friedman, who captained the Michigan team to a tie for the conference championship; "Moon" Baker, the triple threat of the Northwestern backfield; Nelson, of Iowa, practically the only line man on the Hawkeye team this year to hold his own with the opposition; Bernie Shiveley, of Illinois, who tied in votes with Ed Hess, Ohio State's all-American guard of last year, and Reitsch, one of the two outstanding centers of the conference this year.

Forty-eight players comprised the cream of the "Big Ten" this year, the coaches' selection indicated, and of these Michigan and Minnesota had eight each; Ohio State, seven, and Northwestern, which tied for the conference title, six.

Firmanent Big.

Six of the ten conference teams this year had backfield stars of more than ordinary brilliance, Friedman and Joesting towering over the others, while Baker and Karow had only slightly higher rating by the coaches than Kutsch and Wilcox. These last two, given the line behind which Baker and Karow performed, doubtless would have risen to greater heights.

Oosterbaan is regarded as one of the best receivers of forward passes in the country, though this year his play stood out not alone for that but for his defensive work.

Joesting this year, his second in conference competition, though a marked man in all games, averaged better than five yards on each play, and lacked but 55 yards of tying the yardage record of "Red" Grange.

Friedman, twice this season, brought victory to his squad by a single point The Michigan captain, who invariably kicked the points after touchdown, has not missed one anybody can remember.

Marty Karow, Ohio State captain, though a fullback throughout his conference career, was a high school halfback and was given votes by the "Big Ten" coaches for all the backfield places, in any of which he is at home.

Wheeler, Minnesota flankman, and Gary, beside him at tackle, were at their best in the final game of the season with Michigan.

The conference coaches' selections for first and second teams were as follows:

FIRST	Pos.	SECOND
Oosterbaan, Mich.	le.	Flora, Mich.
Nelson, Iowa	lt.	Bear, Mich.
Hess, Ohio S.	lg.	Lcevette, Mich.
Reitsch, Ill.	c.	Klein, O. State

Joe Stecher Agrees To Wrestle Winner Of Daviscourt Bout

World's Champion Will Come to Atlanta to Put an End to Daviscourt's Winning Spree Should He Defeat Vadalfi Monday Night.

Joe Stecher, the wiry Nebraskan with the punishing scissors hold with which he has defeated the world's best, from Strangler Lewis down to the rankest beginner, will be a principal in the show here that follows next Monday night's engagement between Dick Daviscourt and Oreste Vadalfi, according to Promoter Contos Monday night.

Stecher has given his word, Contos says, to come here to meet the winner. An added incentive to the wrestlers, as well as to the fans, for it has been the chief aim of Daviscourt all along, to force Stecher into a match with him and don, if possible, his championship accoutrements.

Vadalfi will be little less interested in the opportunity to pit his skill against that of the head of the profession.

A High-Class Bout.

The Daviscourt-Vadalfi match, announced Monday, brings together two high-class exponents of the art. Atlanta knows Daviscourt well enough by now since he has appeared on the last three or four cards without losing a match. In fact, he has yet to be beaten on an Atlanta mat and has about cleaned out all of the contenders, save Vadalfi, an Italian from St. Louis, who looms as a real stumbling block. However, Atlantans had an idea that Pete Sauer, the "Masked Marvel," could check the Californian in his match but Pete, like Jimmy Londos and a half dozen others, bowed to the prowess of the big westerner.

Now Vadalfi has his chance, and if he wishes to take the bull by the horns and slip quietly into a bout with the world's champion, then all he needs to do is to win a majority of the falls in the big two-hour main event next Monday evening in the auditorium.

VERNON SHARP LEADS VANDY'S 1927 GRIDDERS

Nashville, Tenn., November 29.—(Special.)—Vernon Sharp, Vanderbilt's bid for all-Southern center this year, was chosen captain of the 1927 eleven at the annual banquet and awarding of letters tonight.

Vernon supplanted his brother, Alfred at center for the Commodores in 1925 and has starred from the first game. He directed the Commodore defense with uncanny precision throughout the year and should be one of the greatest centers in the country in 1927. He is a native of Nashville and prepped at Peabody here.

Waycross Will Build Huge Sports Lodge

Waycross, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—A rendezvous for sportsmen and pleasure seekers will be made of the Guest mill pond, in Atkinson county, it is announced here, work to be started at once. A lodge will be built, it is announced, and the lake fitted out for boating and fishing, with hunting accommodations in the vicinity of the lake.

Diener To Fight Jimmy Maloney

New York, November 29.—Franz Diener, who held Paolino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper, to a draw in Berlin will have his first real test in this country against Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, next Thursday.

Maloney put himself up among the prominent heavyweights a few weeks ago when he flattened Arthur de Kuh.

Tech Cage Schedule Made; Season Begins January 5

A. A. C. Basketeers Are First Opponents; Ten S. I. C. Battles

Invasion of North B ing Planned and Will Be Announced Within Week—T ree Games With Georgia Bulldogs Are on Card of 1927 Activities.

BY CARTER BARRON.

The Golden Jacket basketeers will begin their annual preliminary grind today, with the first scheduled game of the season coming January 5, when the Atlanta Athletic club and the Tech quintets tangle, and with other games of the complete season's card following in order. The complete schedule for the Jacket cagemen was announced Monday night.

Of 16 scheduled games, the Golden Cage warriors will face conference foes ten times.

Twelve of the 16 games will be played on home soil this season. The Georgia basketeers will be met in three of these games, two being in Athens and the one in Atlanta. The Oglethorpe Petrels will have two games with the Yellow and Whites. One to be played on the Petrels' court and one on the Tech court.

The Jewish Progressive club, Auburn and the Atlanta Athletic club, all have two games each with the Tech cagers. Alabama will invade the flats for one game as will Kentucky Vanderbilt.

The Jacket cagers have three games scheduled away from home, one with Tulane in New Orleans, one with the Auburn Tigers and one with L. S. U. in Baton Rouge, along with the games in Athens with Georgia, the last game of the season being with the Bulldogs on their home court.

Hard Tilts.

Included in their schedule for this season, the Jackets have some of the hardest games booked of any team in the conference. The Crimson basketeers, as usual, will have a strong quintet. L. S. U. also is expected to put out a strong team this season and with the game being on their own court should give the Tech cagers plenty to worry about.

The J. P. C., to say nothing of the A. A. C., will also prove a strong opponent for the Yellow Jackets when they clash in their annual battle. Coach Bean, tutor of both the A. A. C. and the J. P. C., is one of the best coaches in the south and always turns out a real fighting team.

The Jackets will play one game with the Atlanta Athletic club on the A. A. C. court and the other on the Tech floor as will the Jewish Progressive club crew. The game with J. P. C. to be played at Tech will take place in the afternoon, the only afternoon game on the Jackets' schedule.

Northern Invasion.

The schedule for the northern invasion of the Jackets has not been completed as yet, but is expected to be arranged within the next two or three days, according to officials at Tech. Two of the games of the long trip of the Jackets have been arranged so far, one being with University of Cincinnati in Cincinnati, and one with the Y. M. C. A. of Cincinnati on the Y court. Other dates are pending with eastern colleges and should be closed within a couple of days.

The Jackets will take to the basketball court this afternoon for their first official practice under Coach Roy Mundorff, head coach of the Tech cagers. Mundorff is rated with the best basketball coaches in this part of the country and is expected to turn out one of the best teams Tech has boasted in several seasons.

Many lettermen from last season's team have returned to school and will come out for the practice this afternoon along with some 30 other men seeking berths on the Tech basketball squad. The Jacket coach has plenty of material to work with this season and is looking forward to a banner season at the flats.

Grid Star Shot.

Pittsburgh, November 29.—(AP)—Thomas R. Murdoch, 25, former member of the varsity football squad at the University of Pittsburgh, died today from wounds suffered last Monday when he was accidentally shot by a companion while hunting. Rules School Begins Tonight

The Y. W. C. A., will start its first lesson on girls rules tonight at 6:30 o'clock on the Wesley Memorial basketball court. It is planned to cover all of the rules in the next three days. The idea being to give all coaches, officials and players of girls rules the correct interpretation of the rules in order that they may start the game right, from the beginning.

Mrs. Reamer, physical director of the Y. W. C. A., will be in charge of the course and will be assisted by several other people competent to teach the rules.

All coaches, officials and players interested in girls rules are invited to attend the classes.

Dallas Is After Ball Convention

Dallas, Texas, November 29.—(AP)—A bid for the 1927 meeting of the National Association of Baseball clubs will be made by Dallas at the meeting of the association at Asheville, N. C., December 8, Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, and Walter Morris, secretary of the Dallas Baseball club, will carry the invitation to Asheville.

With Roberts and Morris will go Manager Snipe Conley, of the Dallas team, and Ike Sablosky, former Steer mogul.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE KILLS SPILLER'S 2-CLUB PROPOSAL

Tunney Fouls Law

New York, November 29.—Gene Tunney has run afoul of the boxing law.

The heavyweight champion today received a summons on a charge of violating that section of the boxing law which prohibits boxing before an unlicensed club. Tunney is appearing in vaudeville here.

Gene and his two sparring partners in the act, Frank Muskie and "Happy" Howard, must appear before Magistrate McQuade in the west side court Tuesday morning.

POWER CLUB IS EXPECTING RECORDCROWD

Arrangements are being made to accommodate a record crowd at the November boxing card of the Social and Athletic club of the Georgia Railway and Power company at the club's gymnasium, 79 Piedmont avenue, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Circus seats have been lined up on the floor of the gymnasium in anticipation of the record crowd.

Thirty rounds of boxing will feature the card, which, according to G. W. Tucker, president of the club, will be the best card ever offered.

Battling Moon and Happy Hunter, two of Auburn avenue's leading heavyweights, will attempt to settle a dispute of long standing in a 10-round encounter. Moon and Hunter have met once, Hunter being awarded the decision.

The club's heavyweight champion, J. C. Garrett, will meet Battling Attaway, of Gainesville, in an eight-round go.

Happy Smith, the snappy lightweight titleholder, will mill eight rounds with K. O. Petty, and a four-round overture has been arranged, the principals to be announced later.

SPECTACULAR FOOTBALL

VI. FOOLING VANDERBILT.
BY DR. M. S. BENNETT,
Pennsylvania, Head Coach, University of the South.

There is no question in my mind but that the most spectacular play of my entire experience on the gridiron came in the 1924 Thanksgiving game between Vanderbilt and the University of the South, or Sewanee, as the latter is more popularly known. It changed what looked like a defeat into a smashing victory.

In 1924 Red Grange and the Illinois team were making football history in the west and looked to be champions until they ran up against Minnesota. The latter team licked the Illinois crew 21 to 0, shocking the entire country by a reversal. A week later a greater shock was given the football fans when Vanderbilt, coached by Dan McGugin, went to Minneapolis and downed the conquerors of Illinois in a spectacular game by a score of 20 to 7. Vanderbilt showed a brilliant team, the like of which had seldom been seen in the middle west, and completely smothered Minnesota though outweighed many pounds to the man.

The Thursday following this defeat of Minnesota, Vanderbilt was called upon to go against Sewanee, which I coached. It was the climax of the season. The Sewanee Tigers had made a favorable record, but Vanderbilt was a decided favorite. This is one of those old-time rivalry contests where a spirit of "do or die" prevails. If Sewanee could win it meant a completely successful season and so the boys went into the fight with a rare spirit of determination.

Early in the game Sewanee scored a touchdown through its famous triple pass, a play about which much has been written. The goal was kicked and the score stood 7 to 0 in our favor. Vanderbilt was heavier than Sewanee and kept fighting like demons, pushing the lighter team back until in the third quarter it began to appear that she would win. Sewanee, holding the lead well into the fourth quarter, played a defensive game by kicking on first or second down.

Finally, in the fourth quarter, Vanderbilt was forced to kick. Ryan punted over the goal line and the ball was Sewanee's on her 20-yard line. Sewanee lined up in punt formation, but this time Barker, the quarterback, crossed Vanderbilt with a thrust at the line. It did not do much. On the second down Barker received the ball from the center and apparently passed it to Harris, a halfback, for a smash off tackle. McKibbon, the Vanderbilt tackle, saw Harris coming and made a beautiful tackle. But Harris did not have the ball.

Instead of passing it to the back Barker held it and when McKibbon jumped forward to tackle Harris he shot through the hole left by McKibbon, dodged the secondary support and started down the field for a touchdown. Every Sewanee player got into the play, doing just what he had been coached to do, with the result that every Vanderbilt defender was put out of commission and two interferers were left to aid Barker. It looked like a sure touchdown and should have been.

But McKibbon, when he realized he had been fooled, jumped to his feet and with a great burst of speed caught Barker, tackling him from behind when he had gained 45 yards. McKibbon simply flew on this run and his tackle was as spectacular as was the play which fooled him. The run of Barker had taken the ball out of Sewanee territory into that of Vanderbilt and made possible another attack which netted another touchdown, which with a goal from field, gave the game to Sewanee.

Logically Sound But Practically Impossible.

President Little, of the University of Michigan, has spoken in support of a plan of procedure in football schedules which gives much food for thought.

Briefly, the plan is to have two varsity teams in the major schools and to schedule two games on the same day between the teams, one in each of the home cities of the universities.

At first glance this plan would appear to be theoretically sound and would hold promise of added income for each college as well as giving the fans in each city a chance to see the "varsity" play without making a long trip with the team.

All this is theory, but what would actually happen? It appears to us that it would be exceedingly difficult to select two teams from any school which would be exactly equal in strength and always there would be a "varsity" playing in one game and a "second team" playing in the other, which would detract from the interest of the "second team" game.

We have examples of this in the southern conference. Imagine, for instance, Coach Wade selecting two teams of equal ability. The outfit which was given the services of Winslett would have a cog in their machine which could not be duplicated on the other team. The Winslett team would be the varsity any way you figure it. Spears, of Vanderbilt, might offer the same comparison.

No—such a plan is fine theory but the question of its workability gives rise to much doubt.

The Rise of Grid Machines.

We have always praised the football team that is a winner without some great individual star about whom nearly all the plays are built. The all-American selections we have seen so far are proof of a kind that the two leading teams of the nation this year are such teams.

In six all-American selections that we have seen, Leland Stanford has had one man on the first team and one on the second team of two of the selections and no man on the first two teams of the others. Alabama has had one man on the first team of one of the selections and a man on the second team of four of the groups. And yet these two teams will play for the title of the nation at the Bowl of Roses in Pasadena on New Year's day. It is a great tribute to the efficiency of the balanced machine as opposed to the cart-wheel sort of team which revolves around one hub.

Another Grudge Battle.

Word comes from Promoter John Contos that promises great things at the auditorium Monday night when Oresti Vadalfi and Dick Daviscourt meet to settle a grudge. The word is that Joe Stecher has promised to meet the winner of this match in a championship bout here the week after the match on the 6th.

With this in view the two arch enemies will be even more anxious to score a victory. The enmity between the two men dates back more than a year when Vadalfi threw Daviscourt as the latter was on the high road to a championship match.

Now the two grapplers have to be kept apart when out of the ring because they are bound to carry their differences to blows whenever they meet. On the face of the thing, it looks like Vadalfi might have a good chance to halt the roughouse specialist again Monday. Daviscourt's main forte is a headlock, but Vadalfi's shortness of neck and tremendous strength of shoulder muscles makes him as impervious to a successful headlock as the pudgy Zbyszko.

It will be a battle of the ages which will not be made more gentle by the personal enmity of the two wrestlers.

Another Sweetser

Asheville, N. C., November 29.—(AP)—Miss Betty Sweetser made her bow to the golfing world today. She weighs seven pounds and mother and daughter are reported doing well.

Jess Sweetser, British amateur champion and second ranking amateur golfer in America, came here from New York with his family about six months ago when physicians ordered him to take a long rest following his strenuous campaign in Great Britain with the American Walker cup team.

INFANTRY FIVE AND PEP CLASS MEET TONIGHT

The 22d Infantry basketball team meets the Pep Class cagers Tuesday at 8 o'clock on the Fort basketball court in a return game. The previous meeting resulted in a victory for the soldiers in an extra period game, the final score being 28-26. Since that time both teams have played additional games and have improved in each of their games and a real game is looked forward to.

The Fort team also meets the Insurance Company of North America team in a preliminary before the Pep class game. Nothing is known about insurance aggregation but they are expected to put up a strong fight against the soldiers.

The 22d infantry has secured two new players in Loughran and Saffarrans, a forward and guard respectively. Saffarrans is one of the best guards in this section and ought to help the team immensely. He has played on the team for the past three years and has not played this year owing to the fact that the football schedule interfered.

The first game will start at 7:15 o'clock.

'Y' Church Loop Cage Year Opens Tuesday

At the meeting of the Y.-Church Athletic association held at the central Y. M. C. A. auditorium Monday night, attended by 30 representatives of the various churches, it was decided to pry open the basket ball lid on Tuesday, December 7, at 6:30 o'clock.

Two 8-team leagues were closed last night named the Dixie and Sewanee leagues. Teams making up the Dixie league are: The Pep class, College Park, Wesley Memorial, Anchor class, Gideon class (Gordon St. Baptist), Western Heights, Epworth Workers, and the Patillo Memorial. The Sewanee league is made up of: Anchor Feds, F. E. F., Oakhurst Baptist, All Saints, Boethians (Druid Hill Baptists), Third Baptist, First Methodist, West End Presbyterian. The Dixie league will play every Tuesday night and the Sewanee league will play every Thursday night.

Anchor Class vs. Western Heights, 6:30 p. m.

Pep Class vs. Gideons, 6:50 p. m.

Patillo Memorial vs. College Park, 7:50 p. m.

Wesley Memorial vs. Epworth Workers, 8:10 p. m.

The halves will be sandwiched in both leagues.

The schedule for the opening games of the Sewanee league on Thursday, December 9, is as follows:

First Methodist vs. West End Presbyterian, 6:30 p. m.

Boethians vs. F. E. F., 6:50 p. m.

Third Baptist vs. Anchor Feds, 7:50 p. m.

All Saints vs. Oakhurst Baptist, 8:10 p. m.

All games will be played on the Central Y. M. C. A. courts.

The schedule committee, composed of Trammel Scott, chairman; Theodore Abbey and John Gaulding, will meet this week and draw up a schedule for the first round of play. The chairman of the officials committee, Frank Kopf, will assign the officials for the two leagues. The league representatives expect to have the officiating on a very high plane and have agreed to use approved referees, which will be chosen by Mr. Kopf.

The plan whereby the teams share in the proceeds of the tickets sold by them has proven very popular with the teams, as it enables the Sunday school classes to help finance their basketball team.

The representatives of the Y-Church Athletic association gave the Y. M. C. A. a vote of thanks for their interest in cooperating by assisting in the organization and providing facilities for playing basketball. The Y. M. C. A. in turn expressed their desire to cooperate and assist in the promotion of clean sports under clean management.

The following team colors were selected: Pep Class, green and white; Anchor Feds, red; College Park, black and white; F. E. F., black and gold; Wesley Memorial, orange and blue; Anchor Class, scarlet; All Saints, maroon and white; Gideons, blue and white; Boethians, purple and white; Western Heights, green and gold; Third Baptist, gold and white; Epworth Workers, blue; First Methodist, khaki and black.

The meeting last night was so enthusiastic that it was decided to sponsor a basketball league for the youngsters to play on Saturday afternoon. The league is open to any class of boys, 14 years of age and under. The Y. M. C. A. will stand the incidental expenses for running such a league and the only fee outside of the special membership fee will be a $1 franchise fee, which will be returned at the end of the season. The special membership rate granted to the Church league by the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. is as follows: Boys, 12 to 14 years of age, inclusive:

Regular rate, $5 per year per boy.

Group Sunday school basis, $3 per year, per boy.

This may be paid individually or as a group. Any group of boys of 10 or more from a Sunday school is invited to put a team in this new league.

TIGERS PLAY A. UNIVERSITY FOR CROWN

BY J. C. CHUNN.

With only four days left before the colored football championship of the south will be decided Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Spiller field between the Crimson Hurricane of the Atlanta university and the Tigers of Tuskegee institute, Coach Aikens of Atlanta university, began the final week Monday afternoon with a light scrimmage which will be followed by a heavier one this afternoon and the hardest of the season Wednesday afternoon.

Spirit on the Atlanta university campus Monday was running rampant and indications point to the largest crowd of the season to be present Saturday afternoon. Several pep meetings will be held during the week.

Not only are the colored football fans of the city talking of the scrap for the southern title Saturday afternoon, but hundreds of white patrons have already made plans to witness the titantic struggle, and hundreds of others are rapidly falling into line.

Tuskegee has one of the strongest football teams in the country and has swept through all opposition, including the famous Lincoln team of Philadelphia, but not without putting up an exceptionally good battle in two of the games. Reports from the Alabama institution state that harder preparations are being made for this game than any other this season.

Atlanta university has not only played superb football, but has been picked by noted sport critics as having one of the best backfields in the country and boasts of three 10-second men in the quartet of ball-carriers, representing the Crimson Hurricane.

Tricks Aplenty.

Coach Aikens is spending more time this week on developing the line than any other part of his eleven, as he has realized that a great forward wall will be needed to stop the famous Stevenson, Bailey, Smith and Wooten of the Tigers. The line has played good football but during the past few games has shown a trifle weakness that will have to be mended before Saturday afternoon.

Trick plays are a specialty with the Tigers and indications point to Coach Abbott unloading a bag of football tricks on Spiller field Saturday against the locals.

Not only has Coach Abbott a bag of tricks but Coach Aikens at Atlanta university has also packed a bag full of football plays that will be pleasant to witness. He plans to open up everything possible in the way of football, something he has not done in the past few games, on account of numerous scouts from the Tigers being in the stands.

Tuskegee will invade Atlanta's football environment sometime Friday morning, with a 75-piece band under the leadership of Captain Dry.

Many Supporters.

More than 1,000 rooters and supporters of the Tigers will be present at Spiller's Saturday and a special section of the grand stand has been reserved for the Alabama delegation.

Several sections have been reserved for white patrons, who annually witness the final classic of the colored season in Atlanta.

Loop Salary Limit Remains Unchanged Under Prescription

Directors Set Record For Hasty Session — Taylor and Hendrick Split Valuable Player Award—Radio-Casting Vetoed—Year Begins April 12.

BY HERBERT CALDWELL,
Commercial-Appeal Sports Editor.

Memphis, Tenn., November 29.—With the disposition of all routine business matters and the enactment of no new legislation that would bring about material changes in the conduct of the league, the Southern league directors met in annual session here today, completed all business and departed for their homes tonight. The disposition of all business in one day established a record for annual meetings of the league. It was the twenty-sixth annual meeting.

Probably of most interest to the fans was the award of the most valuable player prize and it was shared by Tommy Taylor, outfielder and Handy-Andy of Memphis, and Harvey "Gink" Hendrick, first baseman of the New Orleans champions. It provided for an award of $500 to the most valuable player of the league to his club to be decided by votes of the eight official scorers of the league.

Taylor and Hendrick each received three votes. Everett "Yam" Yaryan, catcher of Birmingham, and Rod Murphy, utility man of Atlanta, received one vote each. The directors decided to split the purse between Taylor and Hendrick, awarded each $250 and in addition giving to each player a trophy or emblem valued at $100 each. No action was taken as to whether the player award could be continued next season.

Spiller Rejected.

Atlanta fans must be content with Southern league baseball. The request of R. J. Spiller, president of the Atlanta club, that a South Atlantic league franchise be installed in Atlanta, and the city have continuous baseball met with quick and flat refusal. The vote against Spiller's proposition was unanimous and the subject quickly disposed of. Whether Mr. Spiller asked for increase in the salary limit or an abolition of the limit, as was stated he would before the meeting, was not announced, but the player limit, salary limit and waiver price remain unchanged. The salary limit is $6,500, the maximum prescribed by the National Association for Class A leagues. The waiver price is $1,000.

It was voted that the clubs be allowed to carry 18 players the first 30 days of the playing season and 19 players the last 31 days of the season. The limit the remainder of the season will be 16 players. It was stipulated that three additional players the last month of the season must come from leagues of lower classification than the Southern—Class A. This will allow the clubs to purchase youngsters in time to look them over before the next playing season.

No Radio-Casting.

Radio broadcasting of Southern league games while they are being played will not be allowed. It was resolved that no club in the league allow reports of the game to be sent out by radio during the playing of the games. This does not affect the displaying of games on score boards.

The 1927 season will open on Tuesday, April 12, and the schedule will be 154 games, the same as in past seasons. The schedule committee will meet at New Orleans, the home of the pennant winners, Monday, February 14, when the playing dates will be adopted. The schedule committee named was A. J. Heinemann of New Orleans, Tom Watkins of Memphis, and Strang Nicklin of Chattanooga.

Three new club presidents were taken into the fold of the officials of the Southern league family. They are R. J. Spiller of Atlanta, who succeeds Dan Michalove; J. C. Wilkins of Mobile, who succeeds Bob Weinacker, and Jack Whaley of Nashville, who replaces J. A. G. Sloan. The other presidents and directors are Tom Watkins, Memphis; Strang Nicklin, Chattanooga; Bob Allen, Little Rock; W. B. Smith, Birmingham, and A. J. Heinemann, of New Orleans.

To meet a constitutional requirement that three-fourths votes be necessary for the election of a director John D. Martin, president of the league, cast six votes as provided for in the league constitution.

Carnegie Tech's Jurist-Mentor May Quit Post

Chicago, November 29.—(AP)—Walter M. Steffen, coach of the Carnegie Tech football eleven that surprised the gridiron world by walloping the previously undefeated Notre Dame team, returned to his role as judge of the superior court here today.

The happiness of Steffen's victory was tinged with regret because he indicated that the Notre Dame prize might be the end of his football career. The pressure of judical duties may force him to give up coaching, Judge Steffen indicated.

"I have been coaching Carnegie Tech for ten years and know that I must eventually give it up," the captain of the 1908 University of Chicago team said. "I have not decided whether I shall return as coach next year."

Steffen worked with the team for three weeks in September, and afterward journeyed to Pittsburgh for week-ends.

The 19-to-0 victory surprised everybody but the Carnegie team, Steffen said.

"We felt we were greatly underestimated."

"We did not do any advance bragging, but we were laying for Notre Dame."

Slams and Salaams

By Louise Dooly

I SAW two women yesterday who had finished their Christmas shopping.

They admitted they felt like the joy of the morning.

The tribute would have meant more under different circumstances.

He was a dentist, and I was in his chair, and when he said "raise your tongue," I did.

Tongues, by the way, are one of the few things people are still modest about. They just hate to show them.

THE most wasteful thinking we do is thinking how foolish we were to have done things we would not have done if we had done our thinking first.

One kindly correspondent writes that she was interested in what this department had to say recently on the question of wives being paid a salary by their husbands. "But," she adds naively, "I couldn't make out which side of the argument you are on?"

So one aspect—at least—of my discourse was a success.

"I'VE just washed my hair, and I can't do a thing with it." Sounds familiar? doesn't it, coming out of the past. And it's coming.

The hair dressers' trade journals admit that the bobbed head is passing out so rapidly that it makes them dizzy to think of it. Also, there were practically no bobbed heads to be seen on that fashion-making occasion, the opening night of the season at the Metropolitan opera house. So it must be true.

Those "Don't tease the animals" signs which they tell me the barbers had hung up of late can go into the ash-can now that "Next" will be restored to its former disciplinary force.

SOME people were wondering why there are no great singers today like those of the golden periods of Patti and Jenny Lind, Melba and Senbrich, Calve, the de Reszkes, Plancon and all the rest; singers whose greatness lay both in voice and art.

"Students are not content," one of the group suggested as a reason, "to give the long years of apprenticeship essential to mastership of anything worth mastering."

"Temperaments are not what they used to be," offered another. "The art of singing takes infinite self-control, and the achievement of the spirit of repose. The real test of the singer is not spurts of eloquence, but sustained perfection. And who can live in this age of unrest and maintain his evenness, his placidity?"

"May it not be a matter of ideals?" volunteered a third in the discussion, and she put the climax on the arguments which had gone before. "Perhaps we have no great singers because the goal of the present generation is to be, not a great artist, but a 'successful' artist."

"I DON'T pretend to be a musician and a critic," a dissenting speaker complained "but why do you highbrows say there are no great singers like those of yesteryear, when tenors and primadonnas command larger salaries and attract larger audiences now than ever before?"

"Larger salaries"—it was a man who answered—"are a mere matter of changing economic standards, and larger audiences, of the extension of the number of educated people. But the education is often only superficial, and its demands, therefore, superficial. In the place of the great singers of the past, those who combined voice and art, we have now to be satisfied with singing actors or singing interpreters who head the list, with mediocrity next in great numbers, and then the rising tide of the press-agented famous."

"But if most people don't know the difference?"

"There, as somebody said a while ago, is where the matter of ideals comes in. Or doesn't. And those of us who can't shake ideals off, are out of luck."

"WELL, if you ask me, I think ideals can be run into the ground," argued the dissenter. "I know a painter who has literally been starving, although he has opportunity to do commercial work which would tide him over until his really creditable art work gets recognition and a sale. His excuse is that the commercial work would destroy the delicacy of his perceptions, or words to that effect, and so lower his capacity for art work. Now it seems to me that common sense would tell that man it's better to be a live painter than a dead artist."

"He may not think so. That's one answer. Another is that 'uncommon' sense is what it takes to make a genius. And then you must remember that nobody ever becomes great who is not willing to make sacrifices (he may not have to, but he's got to be willing) even to the point of hunger, for the sake of ideals."

Speaking of the fine arts—"I think I am getting somewhere with my first short story; or maybe it will be a novel." I heard a woman say. "I like the title I have chosen for it," and she rolled it on her tongue.

I shall not reveal her secret, but the title to me was a bit cryptic.

"What's it going to be about, may I ask?"

"O, I haven't decided yet. But don't you like the title? and it will sound so striking in the movies if I decide to make it a scenario instead of a book."

Now that, if anybody asks me, must be what is meant by inspirational writing.

FROM EARLY COLONIAL DAYS, AMERICAN MEN OF LETTERS HAD BEEN NOTED FOR THE GRACE OF THEIR WRITINGS. OUR GREAT STATE PAPERS, THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE AND THE CONSTITUTION, WERE EXCEPTIONALLY WELL WRITTEN AND SHOULD BE READ BY EVERY AMERICAN.

ONE OF THE FIRST AMERICAN AUTHORS TO ACHIEVE WORLD FAME WAS WASHINGTON IRVING OF NEW YORK (1783-1859). HIS MOST POPULAR WORK WAS THE "SKETCH-BOOK", PUBLISHED IN 1819, CONTAINING "RIP VAN WINKLE" AND "THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW."

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE (1804-1864) WAS ANOTHER FAMOUS AMERICAN NOVELIST, WHILE EDGAR ALLAN POE (1809-1849) WON RENOWN FOR HIS VERSES AND SHORT STORIES. HIS CELEBRATED POEM, "THE RAVEN", WAS WRITTEN IN 1845.

Camp Fire Girls Feature Atlanta Woman's Club Program

The program given at the meeting of the child welfare committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, Wednesday afternoon, featured the Atlanta Camp Fire Girls, with over 100 girls in uniform taking part under the leadership of Miss Mary Louise Hollands executive.

Girls who have not already purchased dolls from Camp Fire headquarters to dress for the poor children of Fulton and DeKalb counties, are urged to do so this week. To every group who dresses dolls 100 per cent, a leather honor for ceremonial gowns will be given each girl. Honor bead in handcraft number 1105 will be due any girl who dresses a doll.

Many Camp Fire groups have done special work for Thanksgiving. Among those reported are: Okeewapo, the girls made bonbon boxes and filled them with candy and carried them to the children at the Home for Incurables; Shuinala, girls sent fruit and candy in handmade boxes, decorated with turkeys, to the children's ward of Battle Hill sanitarium; Fair street, girls took fruit and candy to Grady hospital; Girls High, made candy and carried it out to the Battle Hill sanitarium. Many other offerings were sent that were not reported to headquarters.

Three groups in Atlanta, the Girls' High, Hoke Smith and Emory groups are dressing friendship dolls to be sent to Japan for the Doll Festival. It is hoped that through their doll messengers the children of Japan will make friends with the Atlanta Camp Fire Girls.

New Officers Elected.

The following new officers have been elected at the North Avenue Presbyterian school group of Camp Fire under the leadership of Miss Wylene Reynolds; Murial Pierce, president; St. Julienne Pringle, vice president; Dorothy Brumby, treasurer; Julia Ragin, secretary; Sarah Dobbs, scribe; Mary Ragin, girls' council representative, and Emily Winship, song leader.

Officers have been elected for the Samuel Inman group under the leadership of Miss Margaret Killian: Churchill Houston, president; Martha Rogers, vice president; Norma Houston, secretary; Helen Hardwick, treasurer; Gladys Lewis, girls' council representative; Gertrude Phillips, scribe, and Dorothy Aikens, song leader. This group entertained the P.-T. A. meeting with Camp Fire songs after their meeting and also gave the Camp Fire law.

The girls of the Fair Street school group gave a very interesting program before the P.-T. A. meeting last week when they explained to the mothers exactly what they did in Camp Fire and the many things they had learned. After the meeting on Wednesday, 14 girls and guardian attended the meeting at the Atlanta Woman's club.

Girl Reserves' Activities Report.

The Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserves all over the city have been carrying on interesting and varied activities during the past week, including the preparation of Thanksgiving baskets which were distributed.

Hoke Smith Junior High Girl Reserves held a candy pulling event Wednesday, at the school.

At O'Keefe, the Girl Reserves held their recognition service at their Friday meeting. The white candle of spirit was lighted by the candle of service, the red candle of health, and the blue candle of knowledge, in a beautiful ceremony.

A newly organized group of Girl Reserves is the one at the Decatur High school. Saturday afternoon the girls enjoyed a hike and outdoor picnic.

A banquet was held Monday by the Decatur High group in the dining room of the Decatur Baptist church. The Hi Y. boys acted as waiters, and helped make the affair a success. A special program was presented, including instrumental and vocal numbers, readings, and an address by the Rev. R. Z. Tyler. Others on the program were Miss Augusta Roberts, Miss Frances Collins, president, and Miss Sarah Ezell, Girl Reserve secretary, who presented the Girl Reserve rings.

Rings were presented to Mary Gregory, Raemond Wilson, Elizabeth Simpson, Betty De Sassure, Augusta Roberts and Helen Respec.

Another recognition service was held at the Decatur orphanage, Monday afternoon. The girls have already begun making scrapbooks for the little children at the Battle Hill sanita.' m.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

Fernando Cortez

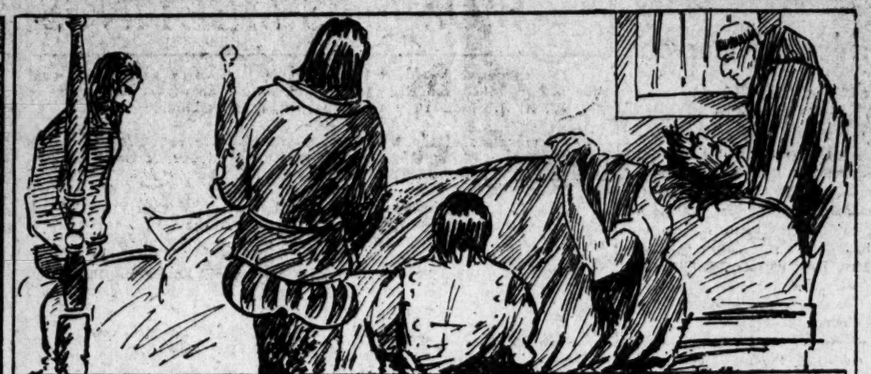

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING, NOTED HISTORIAN

SOME TIME PASSED IN THIS WAY, AND CORTEZ AGAIN DECIDED TO RETURN TO SPAIN TO PUT HIS CASE BEFORE THE EMPEROR. THE KING RECEIVED HIM VERY COLDLY, AND CORTEZ REALIZED THE TRUTH OF THE OLD MAXIM "PUT NOT YOUR FAITH IN PRINCES." AT THE TIME SPAIN WAS ALL AFLAME OVER THE BRILLIANT ACHIEVEMENTS OF PIZARRO IN PERU. WHILE THE FAMILIAR EXPLOITS IN MEXICO HAD GROWN STALE. THE INGRATITUDE OF MONARCHS IS NOTORIOUS. CORTEZ WAS SNUBBED REPEATEDLY.

TO GET ANOTHER INTERVIEW WITH THE SOVEREIGN, CORTEZ WAS OBLIGED TO STEP FORWARD IN THE STREET WHEN THE ROYAL CARRIAGE CHANCED TO PASS. THE KING COLDLY SAID TO HIM, "AND WHO ARE YOU?" CORTEZ IS SAID TO HAVE REPLIED PROUDLY, "SIRE, I AM THE MAN WHO HAS GIVEN YOUR MAJESTY MORE PROVINCES THAN YOU POSSESSED CITIES." IF THIS UNVERIFIED STORY WERE TRUE IT WOULD ELOQUENTLY PORTRAY THE DEPTHS TO WHICH THE GREATEST CAPTAIN OF HIS AGE HAD FALLEN, IN BEING THUS FORCED TO WAYLAY HIS SOVEREIGN IN HIS CARRIAGE LIKE THE POOREST BEGGAR.

CORTEZ WAS NOW BROKEN IN HEALTH AND FAILING RAPIDLY. THE INSULTS AND DEGRADATION WHICH HAD BEEN THE REWARD OF HIS TREMENDOUS ACHIEVEMENTS DOUBTLESS GALLED HIS PROUD SPIRIT. HE FELT HIS END WAS APPROACHING, AND WITHDREW TO A SMALL TOWN NEAR SEVILLE. THERE HE DIED IN THE HOUSE OF A MAGISTRATE, JUAN RODRIDUEZ, DECEMBER 2, 1547, IN THE SIXTY-THIRD YEAR OF HIS AGE, ATTENDED BY HIS SON, DON MARTIN. IN HIS WILL CORTEZ HAD PROVIDED THAT WHEREVER HE DIED, HIS BODY SHOULD BE BURIED FOR A PERIOD OF TEN YEARS, AND AT THE END OF THAT TIME REMOVED TO MEXICO, THERE TO BE ENTOMBED IN THE MONASTERY HE HAD ESTABLISHED AT COYOHUACAN. AND SO HIS REMAINS WERE FIRST LAID TO REST WITH SUITABLE CEREMONIES IN THE CHURCH OF SAN ISIDRO AT SEVILLE IN SPAIN.

Report Issued By Grady Auxiliary.

The November meeting was held in the nurses' parlor last Tuesday morning with the president, Mrs. C. C. Shipley, presiding. Devotional was led by Mrs. R. Taylor Connally, with twenty members responding to roll call.

The treasurer, Mrs. Benjamin Z. Phillips, reported $412.79 balance on hand. Mrs. C. W. McClure, corresponding secretary pro-tem, reported letters of thanks and appreciation having been written to those contributing to the card party of recent date, also reading very encouraging letters from numerous business men of the city in response to the circular letters sent out by the president, Mrs. C. C. Shipley, in which they most heartily indorse the work being carried on by the auxiliary and promising cooperation in every way possible. One gentleman having been present at last month's meeting to solicit a contribution for another cause, after hearing what magnanimous things are being done by this organization, withheld his request, and made a liberal contribution to the Grady Auxiliary. Told of the work being done by the ladies, another visitor remarked, "You are making a place for yourselves in heaven also." This goes to show there is a general awakening to the many, many needs that the city hospital within itself cannot supply.

Chairmen are appointed with their committees for each ward, who are constantly on the alert as to the little friendly attentions most needed in the way of flowers, fruit and magazines, and these little things count with the sick and helpless. But the auxiliary does not confine itself to these alone, but special nurses have been provided in critical cases. A young lady is being educated at Martha Berry school; nearly $100 worth of poppies were sold on "poppy day;" 1,200 dressings were made during the month of November; the outstanding feature of the month being 400 glasses of home-made jellies and preserves given to the patients for Thanksgiving dinner.

Miss Wilkinson Weds I. Worth Tarburton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alfred Wilkinson of Dawson, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter Catherine to I. Worth Tarburton of Dover, Del., on November 25.

Janet Geister Elected To High Office.

Announcement of the appointment of Janet Geister, R. N., assistant secretary of the Associated Out-Patient clinics of New York city and executive secretary of the Association of Tuberculosis clinics, as director of the American Nurses' association to succeed Agnes G. Deans comes from organization headquarters, 370 Seventh avenue, New York, N. Y., and she will assume her position January 1.

In 1925, Miss Geister was a member of a committee which made a study of private duty nursing in New York state. She is the writer of "Hearsay and Fact in Private Duty," which announced the results of the survey.

Her career as a nurse began in 1912 in Chicago, Ill., where she did private duty and public health nursing. Later she became an assistant in the prevention of infant mortality under the United States children's bureau when she conducted investigations and acted as an advisor in child welfare work. From 1919 to 1921, she was identified with the National Organization for Public Health nursing as assistant executive secretary and secretary to the committee on education, and during this period, did survey work for the Cleveland Hospital and Health survey under Dr. Haven Emerson and the committee on nursing education under Dr. C. E. A. Winslow.

Known as the largest women's professional organization in the world, the American Nurses' association has a membership of 54,000 members from all of the United States. Among its accomplishments in the past 25 years are legislative work in 48 states which now have registration laws for nurses and the establishment of the nurses' relief fund, now totaling $123,000 which is used for the relief of nurses who are ill and without funds. The American Nurses' association is one of the seven organizations sponsoring the committee on grading of nursing schools, 370 Seventh avenue, New York, in a five-year program costing $150,000 for the grading of 1,800 schools of nursing in the United States.

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. RIESSINGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

C. R. HARVEY CASE IS NOL-PROSSED

Decatur, Ga., November 29.—(Special.)—The trial of C. R. Harvey, former president of the Bank of Campbell county, of Fairburn, on a charge of embezzlement in connection with the closing of the bank in 1924, came to a sudden end here this afternoon by the case being nol-prossed after the jury had been selected.

Harvey was convicted here several months ago on a charge of fraud in connection with the closing of the bank and was fined $1,000. His attorneys today filed a plea in which it was contended that the charges brought against Harvey were contained in the indictment on which he was convicted before and pleaded former jeopardy for their client.

After the plea was overruled and following a conference between Solicitor J. R. Hutcheson and M. D. Collins, prosecutor, the solicitor moved that the case be nol-prossed.

The trial opened with Judge W. W. Stark, of Commerce, presiding. Harvey was represented by Branch & Howard, Hooper & Hooper.

BUILDING AND LOAN HEARING TODAY AT STATE CAPITOL

Witnesses from all sections of the state will appear at the public hearing of building and loan associations before the state securities commission in the state senate chamber at 10 o'clock this morning.

Men prominent in public and business affairs summoned to testify included Milton W. Bell, cashier of the federal reserve bank; Haynes McFadden, secretary of the Georgia Bankers' association; Ivan E. Allen, chairman of the Forward Allen advertising commission; George W. West president of the Georgia Building and Loan league; John M. Graham, president; L. N. Shahan, Jr., vice president, of the National City Bank of Rome; Joseph S Calhoun, president of the First National Bank of Cartersville, and many others.

Business men from Cartersville, Dalton, Rome, Athens and Macon to attend the hearing which the commission is conducting before acting on the request of the Georgia Building and Loan league to have the commission officially indorse the state-wide campaign launched at the league's state convention November 18. The campaign will come to a climax during "Georgia Building and Loan week," December 13-18.

The building and loan campaign was started to move Georgia up from the low position it holds as compared with other states of the union. In amount of money invested Georgia ranks 47th, or next to the lowest. With a national investment of more than $6,000,000,000, Georgia has only $1,250,000, divided among 16 building and loan associations.

Since the beginning of the movement plans have been formulated for the organization of new associations in seven Georgia cities—Newnan, LaGrange, Somerville, Vidalia, Rossville, Cordele and Bainbridge.

CLEAR AND COOLER WEATHER TODAY FOR THIS SECTION

Clear and moderately colder weather by noon today is the forecast for Atlanta and vicinity from the local weather station, by C. F. Von Herrmann, meteorologist.

The return of colder weather will be of short duration, the weather man stated. "There is no possibility of freezing temperatures and milder conditions will probably return by Wednesday," he predicted. The expected range of temperatures for today was set as 40 to 50 degrees. No rain is forecast, unless very early in the morning as a carry-over from Monday's precipitation.

The theremometer Monday registered a low of 44 degrees and a maximum temperature for the day of 60 degrees. Mr. von Herrmann stated.

SEVEN ARE INJURED IN TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Seven persons were injured in a series of accidents Monday afternoon and night, according to police reports. Only one, Celest Anderson, 10, of 1699 Boulevard DeKalb, was seriously injured, doctors stated.

The Anderson girl was knocked down by an automobile driven by K. T. Holley, of Glenwood avenue, East Lake, on Boulevard DeKalb, near the South Decatur car line late Monday afternoon, according to police reports.

Mr. Holley stopped his car, took the injured child to its home, summoned a private physician and later had the child removed to the Piedmont hospital in the private ambulance of A. S. Turner, Decatur undertaker. The child was unconscious when taken into the hospital, and doctors stated that she was suffering from a probable fracture of the skull.

No Case Made.

After the child was admitted to the hospital, Mr. Holley went to police station and reported the accident to Charles H. Grant, night clerk in Chief Beavers' office. At the request of the child's mother no case was made. In the car with Mr. Holley at the time of the accident was J. J. Taylor of the same address as that given by Mr. Holley.

Clarice Capouno, 6, and her 4-year-old brother, Albert, of 306 Central avenue, narrowly escaped death late Monday afternoon when knocked down by an automobile on Central avenue near Alice street, according to hospital records. The young boy and girl were taken in the private ambulance of H. M. Patterson & Son to Grady hospital where doctors stated their injuries were not serious.

The name of the driver of the car was not learned, but hospital attaches stated that he remained at the scene of the accident until the ambulance arrived and rendered every assistance possible to the injured children.

Hit By Street Car.

J. B. Leonard, 35, of 212 Luckie street, was treated at Grady hospital late Monday afternoon for injuries received when knocked down by a Marietta car at Walton and Fairlee streets, according to hospital records.

At the hospital Mr. Leonard stated that as he was crossing the street in an attempt to avoid being struck by an oncoming automobile he was knocked down by the street car. He was taken to the hospital in the private ambulance of Greenberg and Bond company, where doctors stated that his condition was not serious.

Three others were treated at Grady hospital for injuries received in automobile accidents earlier in the day. None of the injuries were serious. Doctors were not told where the accidents happened and police have no record of them.

Those injured were L. H. Swords, 64, of 41 Jefferson street; John Ridgeway, 43, of Ridgeway avenue, and J. J. Gilstrap, 23, of 307 Waterman avenue.

Maryland Preacher In Sermon Series At Lutheran Church

"A Man's Hand and His Religion," was the subject of a sermon delivered at the Luthern Church of the Redeemer on Monday evening by Rev. Oscar F. Blackwelder, of Baltimore, Md., who is conducting services at the church each evening this week at 7:45 o'clock.

"The hope of religion in the world today is in organized Christianity," declared Dr. Blackwelder. "In the church, as in business, the little minds are interested in the extraordinary, while the great minds are interested in the commonplace. Cooperation is the test of one's faith and Christianity is the one world-wide fraternity."

Dr. Blackwelder is pastor of Christ Lutheran church, of Baltimore, a congregation of about 3,000 and an outstanding figure among the younger Lutheran clergymen of the United Luthern church in America.

Special congregational singing of gospel hymns precedes the sermon each evening.

Christmas Club Savings Increase Hundred Million

New York, November 29.—America will enjoy its biggest and richest Christmas this year with a hundred million dollars more to spend than ever before.

With practically the only exceptions occurring in Iowa and the Dakotas—the farm areas—fatter and more Christmas club checks will be received within the next few days throughout the country, H. F. Rawll, national chairman of the Christmas clubs, told the United News.

The figure, to be exact, is $398,268,000. Last year it was approximately $300,000,000. The average check of each depositor this year is $51.32. In 1925 it was $44.80, and even that figure was higher than in 1924, when the average was $40.60.

Americans Learn Thrift.

"Certainly, it's because of the country's prosperity," Rawll said. "But then we Americans are learning more about thrift and our Christmas clubs are expanding."

The New England states are not as thrifty as popularly supposed, Rawll said, for they will get but $54,014,370 in checks. The east, north central states—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin will receive $82,238,600. Last year the New Englanders saved $42,060,980, the east north central states $67,500,940.

Despite the agricultural depression in Iowa and the Dakotas, the midwest—Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas—saved $17,090,070 as against $14,064,400 last year. The deposits in Iowa this year were $2,600,000; in the Dakotas $444,000, while in 1295 they were—for Iowa—$2,860,800 and for the Dakotas—$546,000.

Range $12.50 to $1,000.

The checks this year will range from $12.50 to $1,000. An interesting phase of the growth of thrift in the country, Rawll pointed out, was the fact that 98 per cent of the club members this year made complete payment of the amount they indicated they wished to attain when they started January 15, 1926.

The following table shows how much was saved in the principal cities this year:

New York	$45,000,000
Philadelphia	18,000,000
Cleveland	10,800,000
New Orleans	4,350,000

Three Generations Meet To Observe Three Birthdays

Three generations gathered Monday night at the home of Mrs. W. H. Kiser, on Pace's Ferry road, to celebrate a unique birthday party. Birthdays celebrated were those of Colonel William Lawson Peel, Mrs. Stephen H. Watts, of Charlottesville, Va., a daughter of Colonel Peel and sister of Mrs. Kiser and Phinizy Calhoun, Jr., grandson of Colonel Peel.

Mrs. Watts arrived in Atlanta Monday to join the party in which members of the family participated. The party is unique in birthday circles for it is rare when three generation celebrate on the same day.

Colonel Peel is a prominent philanthropist and art patron, being presiden of the Music Festival association, which promotes grand opera in Atlanta. His grandson, Phinizy Calhoun, Jr., is the son of Colonel Peel's youngest daughter, who was Miss Marion Peel before her marriage to Dr. Phinizy Calhoun, well-known Atlanta specialist.

FRENCH PIANIST TO OPEN SERIES INTIME SATURDAY

E. Robert Schmitz, celebrated French pianist, known as "the great modernist," will open the series intime of concerts of the Atlanta Music club on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Schmitz, who is the founder of the Franco-American Musical society, is known as one of the most outstanding exponents of the music of today. Commenting on present-day music, he says: "In the first place, the term 'modern music' doesn't mean anything concrete to anybody. Anything written recently and beyond their comprehension will be called 'modern.'

"To discriminate between the good and the mediocre in contemporary music, it takes a musician who has absolutely steeped himself in it and is just as familiar with the music of the present as he is with that of Bach and Beethoven.

"There are those who cling steadfastly to traditions—who frown more or less over new ideas, those who do not listen to music, but to something that should be as they want it. Although the ears of convention are long they fail to hear their treasured ghosts of the past among the neurotic cadences of the present."

Artist Appears On Music Club Program Dec. 4

E. Robert Schmitz, the renowned French pianist and founder of the Franco-American society, will be the distinguished artist which has been selected by the Atlanta Music club to open the series intime, a group of three concerts which will be given at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium December 4.

The celebrated American tenor, Richard Crooks, will appear January 22, and the reappearance in Atlanta of the Flonzaley quartet January 29.

Schmitz is known in the pianistic world as the great modernist and his background is richly romantic. Probably no one of the present-day pianists has achieved such a brilliant record and become more notable in American musical life than Schmitz. He was born in Paris and, in spite of musical influences, did not think of music as a career when very young, although he played the violin and piano at the age of 10. However, his musical prgress was so amazing that at the age of 14 he was playing both instruments in public concerts. At 18 he graduated from the French Conservatoire, winning first prize, and began a concert tour of Europe.

During the world war he served as officer in charge of anti-aircraft batteries. Later he came to America, where his success was immediate and outstanding. His activities in founding the Franco-American Musical society have given him a unique place among artists.

Miss Wheeler Attends Unveiling in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., November 29.—Miss Annie Early Wheeler, of Alabama, is a distinguished guest in Augusta and will be among the prominent guests attending the unveiling of the boulder marking the birthplace of her illustrious father, General Joseph Wheeler. Miss Wheeler has gracefully borne two sobriquets for service. In the trying times of Spanish-American war she was known as the "Angel of the Camps" and during her splendid service in France during the world war, she was known to the boys in the wards as "Miss Sunshine."

Another service rendered was that of searcher for the missing in the maelstrom of the recent struggle, having been commissioned by General Pershing to do this work. She received the very highest commendations from the highest officials in the Red Cross and military.

Hugh Caldwell, registrar at Georgia School of Technology, left Monday for Jackson, Miss., where he will attend the Southern Association of Colleges.

Mrs. Brine Is Official Hostess At C.-J.-DuB. Department Store

By Bessie S. Stafford.

The modern department store, imbued with the spirit of progressiveness, understands the necessity of having an official hostess to meet the requirements of an ever-increasing public.

That's the reason Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company selected Mrs. Florence Werner Brine, who possesses remarkable qualifications, to take care of customers in the store in the same manner with which a hostess would receive her guests at her own home.

Mrs. Brine, who has traveled over the United States, England and continental Europe, is a woman of discrimination and diplomacy, and social contact with her will be one of the pleasantest features connected with this large emporium. Customers desiring information upon matters pertaining to the store, or regarding Atlanta, can approach Mrs. Brine with the feeling that she will extend them every courtesy. She has chosen as her office the book shop, located in the rear of the first floor, at the right of the elevator.

It is here Mrs. Brine will talk over with the customer appropriate articles for a trousseau, home furnishings and gifts. A ring on the telephone will command her judgment in sending out an advertised article appearing in The Constitution. A letter addressed to the personal shopper reaches Mrs. Brine's desk, written by an out-of-town purchaser, who will in turn receive the most attentive consideration in the buying of the designated item.

Mrs. Brine will give information upon every department of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company, in which she is well posted. She will simplify the shopping problems of the customer, pulling wires to accomplish the smoothest method. Having been reared in this city, she is familiar with development and interesting points and Mrs. Brine will impart her knowledge and service gratis upon request.

Black Butterflies

By Elizabeth Jordan

INSTALLMENT LXII.

A NATURAL ASPIRATION.

David checked a childish impulse to telephone Warren and drag him back. No, he had lost Warren for that night, and he must dine at his lonely table with the spectre of his anxiety seated opposite him. Annie, deeply moved by the drama of recent events, might take it upon herself to cheer him by a few bits of local gossip as she came and went, but this prospect held no lure. She would talk about the Butterflies. When the Butterflies had made their frequent calls Annie had always appeared to be unable to distinguish them from book agents, but she now referred to them as a world wanderer mentions the loved circle waiting at home. It was beginning to look as if Annie would never get over the bereavement of Miss Perkins' death, and David had no wish to hear her pangs described anew. He would dress. Everything had been very much upset for days but now that life was moving on again he owed it to Dorinda to keep up the social standards at Maxwell house. He gloomily fitted studs into a shirt, and made the usual annoying discovery that it was not a soothing task for a nervous and one handed man.

While he was breathing a few low comments on his lack of speed a light knock sounded on the connecting door. His heart leaped, then pounded furiously. She had asked for him! He paused for no reflection on the phenomena of his own emotions but went quickly to the door and opened it. The immaculate Miss Allen, looking as snowy as the outer world, stood on the threshold, her brow puckered.

"Dortor Warren wanted Mrs. Goddard to be perfectly quiet tonight," she began in the low voice suited to the sick room, "but—no, no, there's nothing wrong," she hastened to explain as she saw his quick change of expression. "Only she's very restless, and she insists that she is lonesome. Anyway, she can't get to sleep. So she wants you to eat your dinner in her room, if you don't mind. It can be sent up on the dumb waiter, you know, and I'll serve it."

"That will be simply great!" David's heart leaped again and his smile flashed out. "If you're sure it won't hurt her—"

"No; I suppose it would hurt her more if she didn't have her own way," Miss Allen drily commented. "But she has promised to follow the rules. No talking. You can tell her you're glad to be there, and that's all. Then you must eat your dinner in complete silence; but I suppose it will be a comfort to her to feel that you are in the room," the nurse ended, relaxing under his evident pleasure.

"How soon may I come?"

"Mercy, don't rush me," Miss Allen laughed. "As soon as dinner is ready. That will be—"she looked at her wrist watch—"twenty minutes more. Now I'll run downstairs and explain to Annie."

David finished his toilet with the rush Miss Allen deplored. To be lifted from the loneliness of a formal dinner downstairs to this! His heart sang. The fire whispered its congratulations and the studs for his shirt slid into place as if they had been made for that great moment. He whistled under his breath while he dressed as formally as if he were going to the opera. He was ready and waiting when the next tap came.

"Dinner is served," Miss Allen reported with a smile, "but I warn you that my part of it will be done very casually. I'm no butler-maid like Annie."

David wondered how a mind could concern itself with trivial details at such a moment. He hurried into Dorinda's room and up to the bedside, remembering even in his elation a few things he had learned during his recent siege. He took her hand.

"Awfully good of you to let me come," he told her with soft radiance, and finding no other words for the big occasion he added earnestly, "I was getting ready for a stiff attack of the pip!"

She smiled.

"How nice you look! It's almost a shame to waste you on me. But there's still a lack. Hand me one of the roses in that bowl on the mantel—a nice little fat rose. Bring me a pin, too, from the cushion on the dressing case."

He selected the nice little fat rose without difficulty. There was one in the bowl that fitted the description as if it had bloomed for the occasion. Evidently it was to be one of those evenings when everything was right. Even the pin met its cut by standing stiffly erect where she could not miss it. He carried rose and pin to Dorinda through the softly lighted room and she raised herself a trifle to put the flower in his button hole. He bent over her, so close that her fluffy bobbed hair touched his chin, and his breath caught. She dropped back on her pillow, looking upon her work with satisfaction.

"Now, you're perfect," she complacently announced. "Go and sit where I can see you and watch your table manners. And if you let the rose fall into the soup I'll never forgive you."

After that silence and dinner, and the quick, efficient movements of Miss Allen, who mentioned that her service was really good if he didn't mind admitting it, and the crackle of the fire in the next room, and the voice of the rising wind outside—and Dorinda's eyes watching him. Not for a moment could he forget those eyes. Not for a moment did he want to. But they gave him an amazing sensation—made him a trifle dizzy . . .

He hurried into the security of mild commonplaces with Miss Allen, who, however, frowned on the effort. It became clear that the rule of a silent dinner was to hold—a silent dinner through which memories mingled with the tumult of his emotions and he seemed to hear again the strains of Kitty's music after his first meal at Dorinda's table. He did not dare to look at Dorinda more than once or twice, but those swift glances kept her before him as steadily as he was before her. She lay on her side with the bed clothes drawn up to her chest, the rolling collar of a Chinese bed jacket falling away from her throat, and her arms, in wide mandarin sleeves of peacock blue and gold, resting quietly on the silk spread. He would have thought her asleep but for the gray-green eyes that watched him so steadily. At the end of the meal he could not have recalled a single dish he had eaten. The dinner might have been nectar and ambrosia and nightingales' tongues, but probably it was merely squabs and a good salad and his favorite dessert. He had a vague remembrance of something familiar about it, but that was all.

He repudiated the suggestion of a smoke in his sitting room with such passionate emphasis that Miss Allen laughed again.

"I can smoke as much as I like later on," he then explained more sedately. "But I want to stay here as long as I can."

Miss Allen admitted that the aspiration was natural.

"Just the same," she predicted, "you'll have to go in a few minutes. Mrs. Goddard promised to let you leave right after dinner and she must keep her word."

"I know," the patient admitted, "but can't we speak alone first? There's something I want to say to my husband."

Again David's heart indulged in that queer little eccentric jump it had made so often in the last few days. But when Miss Allen had reluctantly left them alone with a final injunction she vainly tried to make stern, Dorinda's manner changed.

"Bring your chair here," she directed in her old tone of command. And when he had obeyed she added in the same tone, "Put it close and sit down."

New York, November 29.—(AP)—The cotton market was quiet today with prices a shade easier under a little southern and local selling, or commission house liquidation. January contracts eased off from 12.41 to 12.36 and closed at 12.37, the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 1 point, most months being lower in response to relatively easy late cables from Liverpool. Offerings were comparatively light and were well enough taken around the initial prices to steady the market, December selling up from 12.54 to 12.62, and March from 12.61 to 12.64.

This slight rally seemed to meet a little more southern or local selling, however, and the market eased off again, reaching the lowest prices of the day in later trading, when December sold at 12.52 and March at 12.59. Buying orders from the trade for execution at the 13-cent level for July, to check the late decline, steadied the market slightly in late trading.

A private crop report issued early estimated the final ginnings at 18,017,000 bales of 500 pounds, and while this figure was below recent estimates of the season's growth, it appeared to make a more bearish impression on sentiment than otherwise. The main factor on the decline, however, was supposed to be reiterated reports that the spot basis was a shade easier in some of the southern markets, and that there was some selling of hedges against low grade cotton in the later months.

Private cables said hedge selling had neutralized end-month trade calling in the Liverpool market, and that demand for cotton cloths and yarns was quiet.

Exports today 49,389, making 3,936,932 so far this season. Port receipts 84,731. U. S. port stocks 2,885,054.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, November 29.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady unchanged. Sales 7,192; low middling 10.24; middling 12.49; good middling 13.24; receipts 14,974; stock 639,136.

TRADING RESTRICTED AT NEW ORLEANS MARKET.

New Orleans, November 29.—(AP)—The cotton market was narrow today, with the volume of trade restricted and price fluctuations small. The continued favorable weather in the belt exerted a slightly bearish influence, but the lack of support was based mainly on executions of increased crop estimate on December 8. After easing off 4 to 6 points in the early trading, the market rallied on a little trade buying gaining 5 to 6 points from the early lows before noon. During the afternoon prices drifted aimlessly within the earlier range. A private crop estimate of 18,017,000 bales was issued during the day. The market rallied slightly in the late trading on shorts covering, but did not reach the earlier highs, and finally closed steady showing prices unchanged for the day to 3 points decline.

Liverpool came in about 2 penny points lower than due, and first trades here show losses of 2 to 5 points. After rallying 1 to 2 points right after the opening the market eased off again, December trading down to 12.41, January 12.43 and March 12.54, or 4 to 6 points below the previous close.

Later in the morning prices rallied a little on some trade buying, and near noon December traded up to 12.47, January to 12.48 and March to 12.60, or 5 to 6 points above the lows and net unchanged to one point above Saturday's close.

The market drifted during the afternoon within the earlier range, but nearer the lows. Near the end, however, the market rallied a few points on a little covering.

Exports, 49,389 bales.

Three Courts Will Decide Peaches' Suits

White Plains, N. Y., November 29. (United News.)—The "Peaches" Heenan-Edward W. Browning divorce case is going to be a three ring circus for the spectators despite what it may mean to the leading lady and her millionaire husband.

Supreme Court Justice Morchauser has decided that the intimiate details of this blasted romance between the little Cinderella girl of the Bronx and her gray haired husband shall be aired in three different courts in three different communities.

Browning's case against "Peaches" will be heard here. This promises to reveal something of their romance and how it ended, but the more vivid aspects of the case will come up Carmel when Justice Morchauser hears "Peaches'" charges against her husband. These include an elaborate set of allegations designed to show that Browning made it impossible for the little Bronx girl to live under the same roof with him.

Then, if there is to be any rebuttal, it will be heard in a third place, probably Poughkeepsie.

FARM LABOR DIVISION HIRES 392,750 IN YEAR

Washington, November 29.—(AP)—Through one office of the United States employment service, the farm labor division, work was found for 392,750 persons during the last year, Secretary of Labor Davis announced today in the course of his annual report. The great demand was for cotton pickers, and to help gather the crop of 1925 the service provided places for 227,000 workers, while the grain harvest of the same fall drew 99,950 hands.

The need of these agricultural operations for drawing men for short periods from a large territory has been specially met by the federal service, the secretary added.

"Such interchanging and transferring of labor can be accomplished," he said, "only through and by federal supervision."

MUSCLE SHOALS' FATE THIS SESSION LIES WITH SENATE

Washington, November 29.—(AP)—Possibility of Muscle Shoals' legislation at the approaching session of congress is expected to depend largely upon the attitude adopted by the senate.

Both houses have on their legislative calendars the report of the special congressional commission recommending acceptance of the bid of the Alabama and associated power companies, but again it appears unlikely that house leaders will press for action on the report before it comes up in the senate.

Chairman Snell, of the house rules committee, said today he believed house leaders would take the position assumed last year in waiting for senate action first. He said this was his own view and also he believed the view of other leaders.

Irregular Movements Feature Market, With Leaders Strong But Running Into Soft Spots Frequently.

New York, November 29.—Leading stocks had an irregular price movement today, being strong frequently but running into soft spots. Signs are increasing that the upward price movement in the stock market started around election time by Whelan and Durant at the expense of the short interest in the market is going stale.

While the clearing house bank here reporting a week-end surplus of only $18,000,000 against $39,000,000 a week ago and with the banks here now preparing for heavy month-end. December 15 and year-end money requirements, call money renewed at 5 per cent. The year-end dividend and interest requirements are estimated at $400,000,000. While easier money is expected after the turn of the year higher rates are expected between now and December 31. Money and the meeting of congress next Tuesday are likely to take a more prominent part in Wall street discussion.

Rails Sell Off.

New York Central, Atchison and some other seasoned dividend-paying rails sold off on rumors from Washington that the interstate commerce commission had decided to bring the pending rate investigation to an early close, and that some cuts in freight rates might follow on the theory that if the existing rate schedules were maintained 1927 railroad earnings would be so large that there would be unfriendly criticism, especially from farming sections. It is safe to ignore rumors of cuts in freight rates until the railroads of the country make more progress in regaining the confidence of investors.

General Motors succeeded Steel common as the market leader when word was received here from steel manufacturing districts that the week-end had disclosed further slowing down in the steel industry. Early in the day Bethlehem continued its advance on heavy trading on rumors that a $4 annual dividend would be declared in January unless the steel trade flattened out.

Phillips Petroleum was again active on rumors of a merger with Texas company. Today's reports had it that one share of Texas would be given for one share of Phillips.

It is understood here that the other three large manufacturers of artificial silks in this country will meet the cut of 20 cents a pound announced on rayon by DuPont, retroactive to November 15. The price named by Du Pont of $1.45 a pound compares with $1.65 last July, $185 the pre-war level, and $6 during the war and after-war boom in silk.

New Haven Surplus Up.

New Haven's surplus after fixed charges of $1,237,000 for October, compares with $911,000 a year ago, $505,000 two years ago, $354,000 three years ago. For the nine months, the company has a surplus over fixed charges of $7,232,000 against $5,821,000 for the same period of 1925; $1,875,000 for 1925, and a deficit of $3,737,000 for 1923. The higher percentage of rates allowed New Haven by the interstate commerce commission from connecting roads, together with a larger movement of traffic and increased operating efficiency, are all working to put New Haven back on its feet or where it was before the 1913 blow up.

Consolidated Gas jumped 5 points on the supreme court decision upholding the lower court that $1 gas was confiscatory. During all this litigation the company has been charging $1.15 and holding the 15 cents. This fund will now go to the stockholders, and the company will continue to charge $1.15 a thousand feet.

From now until the end of the year, which is only a month off, buying and selling of stocks for income tax purposes is going to be a factor in the stock market and one making for irregularity. Those who sell stock to establish a loss to be deducted from this year's income tax may under the law buy the same stock back by waiting 30 days or they may shift to another stock.

Daniels Hits Industries As Injurious to Farmers

Great industries of the nation were pictured Monday as being parasites and destructive to agriculture, particularly in the south and west, by Josephus Daniels, former secretary of navy, in a short statement on a stopover in Atlanta en route to Macon, where he will address students of Wesleyan college.

The solution to the problem as Mr. Daniels sees it, is for farmers of the south and west to make a common cause against present governmental policies and for the farmers of the south to further diversify crops. He also urged Georgia farmers to grow enough foodstuff to supply needs of the state and stay independent of imports.

"Agriculture is being penalized for the benefit of industry, particularly in the south," he said. "The federal government fails utterly to consider the farmer, because it is listening to industry. Such a policy will eventually kill the goose that lays the golden egg, for industry is being very shortsighted in demands it is making on the government; it seemingly has failed to realize that unless farming classes prosper they can not buy automobiles and other things industry provides.

"It is a serious problem when a section receives less actual money for a 12,000,000-bale cotton crop than it receives for an 8,000,000 crop; a problem that is worthy of the very best in statesmanship."

Mr. Daniels warmly congratulated Coffee county for imposing jail sentences on alleged participants in a recent lynching there. He declared that the south has lost millions of dollars through unfavorable publicity of lynchings and this will tend to show that the people of Georgia will not countenance such mob violence.

"Georgia has received more bad advertisement, some of it unjust, than any state in the union because of its lynchings. These convictions were worth $100,000,000 to the state in advertising, because they showed that the spirit of the state is opposed to such lawless outbreaks. Lynchings can not always be prevented, but the state that punishes them will benefit from the increased esteem of the nation," he said.

News From Wall Street and New York Editorial Comment

(By Fenner & Beane Leased Wire to The Constitution)

BROKERS' STOCK OPINIONS.

Hornblower & Weeks—Expect a high degree of irregularity this week and a tendency toward reaction before the end of this period.

J. S. Bache & Co.—Expect considerable irregularity.

H. Hentz & Co.—Think the market is due for a general reaction.

Clark, Childs & Co.—In fifteen years of following railroads with particular care, they have never at this season seen a more definitely promising railroad prospect.

Fenner & Beane—We think it a wise policy to insure some profits at this time.

CURB LETTER.

New York, November 29.—Shares of Swift International the Argentine subsidiary of Swift & Co., which controls the entire South American and Australian business of the Chicago parent company, were the chief features of a quiet day on the curb. The turnover was the largest in several weeks, and the price advanced to a new high for the year. The movement today was attributed to rumors that the company would be enabled to make a vastly better showing than last year in view of the arrangements made to bury the hatchet by Swift, Armour and an English meat packing company in the Argentine.

Among the oils Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania developed strength. General Baking was weaker. In the low-priced oil group Gibson was most active. South American oils were heavy.

WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Stocks failed to develop a definite trend in the opening session of the week, swinging up and down in bewildering fashion under the influence of conflicting factors in the economic situation. Rails were held back by the prospect of agitation for freight rate reductions in the coming session of congress, because of the hight rate of earnings enjoyed this year by many representative systems.

Another discouraging feature regarding this group was Washington advices that Senator Watson, to whom has been delegated the task of sponsoring the compulsory consolidation act, was only halfhearted in his advocacy of the measure.

In addition, the rails were confronted by widespread wage increases so that standard investment issues like New York Central and Atchison were depressed to new low ground on the current movement.

During the last hour, however, the principal industrials, particularly General Motors and Steel, were subjected to heavy selling, with the result that the early gains in this department were mostly effaced.

NEW YORK TELEGRAM.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol held strong during the early dealings and was linked with a report that directors of the company had left on a 10 days' inspection trip of the properties. New demand was stimulated by the increase in the tariff on wood alcohol. This fortifies the position of producers here.

The street insists that resumption of dividend payments on Bethlehem Steel common is nearer than admitted by officials of the corporation. Charles M. Schwab and his associates are very reticent on the subject, but earnings are now running at a rate ample for a return on the junior shares.

NEW YORK EVENING POST.

Rock Island, which had been in broad demand last week on the expectation dividends, would be inaugurated on common when directors meet Wednesday, appeared to be in plentiful supply at lower levels today. The head of the road declined to discuss the question but the street veered to the belief that dividends would probably have to wait until the year's results and an idea of the outlook for 1927 were available.

Impressive buying of Phillips Petroleum was resumed with the opening trading today, and as the session progressed the stock was lifted to new high levels for the year. Earnings for the first nine months and productions of what the full year will show admittedly provided basis for a more liberal dividend policy if directors so decide. Indications are that the present $3 rate will be covered more than three times for the year. But Wall street today was predicting interesting developments as likely when the small gap remaining between this stock and Texas company shares is closed.

NEW YORK SUN.

Stock market prices showed a tendency to slip backward during most of today's session. In some portions of the list there were unmistakable indications of an overbought condition and professionals sent some fairly effective drives against these spots, but individual issues of considerable importance continued to press forward almost as vigorously as they did last week. The rise in call money from the renewal figure of 5 to 5½ per cent had little apparent effect on speculative sentiment. A higher call rate was expected over the month-end, and its announcement was generally ignored.

The supreme court's decision overruling the law passed by the state of New York to force the sale of gas at $1 a thousand cubic feet, which was announced at the end of the morning, shot the shares of the Consolidated Gas company two points up, and buoyed up other gas shares. The effect of the decision on the rest of the market, however, was negligible.

A sudden flurry of selling in the last half hour sent most issues down from 1 to 3 points from their day's highs. U. S. Steel and General Motors, which had gone more than 2 points above their final prices on Saturday, were pushed back with the rest. Baldwin was rather hard hit in this late selling, dropping more than 5 points below the peak it reached in the morning.

DOW JONES REPORT.

Advancing tendencies in the general list were checked around noon today by selling of Atchison, N. Y. Central and other investment rails, started by Washington advices that the interstate commerce commission proposed to push general rate investigation started several months ago, to an early conclusion. One political observer declared several members of the commission were convinced that if present freight rates are maintained earnings next year will go up beyond the reasonable return contemplated by congress in the transportation act.

He expressed the belief that an aggregate reduction of freight rates is being considered, although passenger rates are not likely to be touched as passenger service as a whole is unprofitable even under the present rates.

"It has been the idea of the commission," this authority declares, "that the entire rate structure might be more equitably arranged and put upon a permanent basis without disturbing general relationship between rates. There is an inclination now to abandon the whole regrouping plan as too ambitious and time-consuming in view of the antagonism it has met. The upshot threatens to be that the commission will undertake the required reforms through an ordering of new rates to meet conditions as they arise. The situation well overshadows the related problems of consolidation and it is charged with immediate importance not only to the transportation units but to manufacturers and shippers throughout the country."

CURB IRREGULAR, TRADING NARROW

New York, November 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Early irregularity in today's curb market was followed by a period of heaviness, with the selling attributed to the marking up of call money rates to 5 1-2 per cent. Business was in reduced volume, and largely professional.

High grade oils received fairly good support, Gulf and South Pennsylvania (new) each advancing about a point. Gibson Oil was heavily traded in at advancing prices on rumors of a merger with some other company operating in the Panhandle and other Texas fields.

Heavy trading in Swift International, which touched a new high at 25 and then lost all its gain, was one of the outstanding developments in the industrial group. Universal Pictures advanced more than 2 points to within a point of the year's top, but Warner Pictures B dropped nearly 3 points to 33. New low prices for the year were registered by American Electric Products A, Goodyear Tire, McCall Corporation and Stregis Paper.

Public utilities moved within narrow and irregular limits.

Mellon declined to discuss details of the proposed legislation, but said they will be made public in his annual report.

The department of justice in recent months has investigated alleged irregularities in some of the farm loan banks in the west.

New York, November 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Stock prices broke sharply just before the close of today's market after having moved irregularly higher during the greater part of the session. Baldwin broke more than 5 points from its early high, scores of early gains of 1 to 3 points were materially reduced or wiped out, and closing quotations disclosed a large number of net declines of 1 to 4 points.

The reaction was attributed in many quarters to the marking up of the call money rate to 5 1-2 per cent, although this was generally regarded as temporary. The weekly federal reserve statement of brokers' loans, issued after the market closed, showed a reduction of $741,000 in the week ended last Wednesday. Banks reported a heavy withdrawal of funds by interior institutions in apparent anticipation of huge month-end demands.

Consolidated Gas Up.

Consolidated Gas was bid up 3 points on the announcement of the United States supreme court decision upholding the company's main contentions in the so-called "dollar gas case," but it lost all but a fraction of its gain. From a stock market standpoint, the other news developments of the day were rather colorless in character. Reports of a further reduction in steel mill operations in the Youngstown district were offset by rumors of an early dividend on Bethlehem Steel common, which closed fractionally higher at 47 after having touched 48 3-8.

Transactions in U. S. Steel common comprised nearly one-tenth of the day's entire volume of business, the stock dropping from 150 3-4 to 148 1-8 and then rallying to 148 3-4, off 1 1-2 net. General Motors reacted from 142 7-8 to 138 1-4, Hudson from 47 3-8 to 45, Mack Trucks from 100 3-4 to 97 1-8, Dupont from 169 1-4 to 166, Savage Arms from 76 1-2 to 68, a new low, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe from 221 to 214 1-4.

Score Hit New Peak.

More than a score issues had established new peak prices for the year early in the session, the list including American Railways Express, Congress Cigar, Columbia Gas (new), Eureka Vacuum Cleaner, Phillips Petroleum, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Orpheum Circuit.

Rails yielded with the industrials despite the publication of a series of favorable October earnings statements. Most of the losses were fractional, although declines of a point or more were recorded by a few issues such as Atchison, New York Central, Rock Island and Frisco common.

In the commodity markets, wheat, cotton and sugar prices showed little change. Coffee prices reacted 20 to 30 points.

A brisk demand for French francs, which carried them up 8 points to around 3.70 cents, again featured the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was slightly easier at $4.84 7-16 and Norwegian krone broke 18 points to 25.22 cents.

BURLEY TOBACCO SALE OPENED AT 18 CENTS

Lexington, Ky., November 29.—(AP)—An inferior grade of tobacco, light in weight and some house-burned, sold at an average of 18 cents a pound at the opening of the 1926-27 loose leaf market in Lexington today with approximately 725,000 pounds burley on the floors of five independent houses.

The price was regarded as fair, considering the quality. Opening day offerings cannot be regarded as the best tobacco of the season, veteran tobacco growers and warehousemen said this morning, predicting a better market.

A number of baskets sold for 26, 27 and 28 cents, with the low price hitting the five-cent mark.

PRICES ON BETTER GRADES LOWER AT OWENSBORO.

Owensboro, Ky., November 29.—(AP)—The Green river tobacco market opened in Owensboro today with bidding on the first offerings indicating that prices on the better grades will be considerably under those of last year, while "trash tobacco" will sell about the same as that of the 1925 crop. The first 13,160 pounds sold on the Birk floor averaged $7.62 before rejections were computed.

The opening day's average in 1925 was $11 on a crop of tobacco generally conceded to have been far inferior to that offered this year. The market closed last spring at an average of about $4.50, the season's average being slightly more than $7.

BOARD MAY DELAY SALE OF CAROLINA SPINNING CONCERN

Greenville, S. C., November 29.—(AP)—An early sale of the controlling interest of the American Spinning company may not result because of the opposition of D. D. Little, Arthur J. Cummock, John E. Page and John E. Sullivan, a majority of the board of directors, it became known today.

Circulars addressed to the stockholders of the American Spinning company by Cummnock, Little, Page and Sullivan have been received here. In these circulars stress is laid on the fact that both of the offers for the controlling interest of the mill recently made by the McKissick and Woodside interests, appear to be too low. The statement is made in the circular that the Woodside offer is too low by about $250,000.

The 5,250 shares of stock in the American Spinning company are held as follows, according to the statement in the circular, 3,100 shares in the north and 2,150 shares in the south.

Total bond sales (par value) $10,392,000.

New York, November 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—An unexpected stiffening of call money rates as loans were withdrawn to meet month-end requirements curbed buying enthusiasm in the bond market today after prices had headed upward at the opening. Popular industrial issues were purchased in large blocks but recent leaders among the foreign, United States government and railroad obligations were subjected to considerable profit taking.

International Mercantile Marine 6s were among the few outstanding features, rising a point to 95 in response to reports that the issue might be retired as a result of the White Star sale.

Early realizing sales caused a sharp reaction in Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s but they subsequently rebounded from 156 to above 161 on the news that the Dollar Gas law had been voided by the supreme court. Dominion Iron and Steel 5s, Federated Metals 7s and Franciscan Sugar 7 1-2s rallied 1 to 3 points.

Trading in railroad liens was quiet, although selective buying of Illinois Central 3s and Pennsylvania General 4 1-2s carried these issues to new top prices for the year.

In the foreign division, the new Belgian 7s commanded attention by climbing to a new peak above 99 but they later fell back again with French and German bonds.

As had been expected, the public had little opportunity to purchase the new 5 per cent debentures of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Applications from preferred stockholders were so heavy that the bankers announced oversubscription of the $120,000,000 issues coincident with a formal opening and closing of the books. The bonds sold as high as 102 on the New York curb market.

WHEAT DECLINES ON BIGGER SUPPLY

Chicago, November 29.—(AP)—Surprise over 386,000 bushels unexpected increase of the United States wheat visible supply total had a bearish effect on wheat values today. Chicago closing quotations for wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to 3-8c lower, with corn 7-8c to 1 1-4c off, oats 1-8@1-4c to 1-2c down and provisions varying from 7c decline to 30c advance.

Reports of favorable weather conditions for the Argentine harvest did much to turn wheat values downward here at the start, and so likewise did word of heavy offerings of Canadian wheat at Liverpool. Stubborn resistance to selling pressure, however, was met with, owing partly to an estimate from a Chicago crop expert cabling from Buenos Aires that Argentine wheat production would total about 208,000,000 bushels, an amount considerably under other recent figures.

Liquidating sales of December corn and oats were a weakening factor in the feed grain markets. December corn went to around 9 1-2c under May, the widest difference thus far this season.

Further rayon price revisions announced during the day were on a slightly lower basis in a few members. At the annual meeting of woolen and worsted manufacturers Wednesday it is expected the question will be brought up of an early opening of fall 1927 lines to meet the request of the clothing manufacturers. Burlaps were slightly firmer for nearby deliveries of heavyweights.

BROOKHART HITS PROSPERITY CRY

Des Moines, Iowa, November 29.—(AP)—Senator-elect Smith W. Brookhart, in a statement last night, said "America's much vaunted prosperity means sheriffs' sales for the farmer."

Commenting on the closing of 19 Iowa banks last week, the senator asserted "the agricultural situation has been produced by laws and can only be remedied by law. Wall street opposition by defeating the farm equalization bill has continued a situation which is bringing greater disaster for agriculture and banks in agricultural territory.

"The census value of Iowa lands in 1920 was $227 per acre. In 1925 this had declined to $149 an acre. During the same period nearly all stocks advanced very heavily on the Wall street market. Perhaps railroad stocks alone advanced as much as real estate values declined in Iowa.

"The situation means that the farmers of Iowa received over $300,000,000 a year less than they were justly entitled to receive for their products. The Wall street boom increased the prices the farmers had to pay for what they had to buy and decreased the prices they received for their products.

"This sent many farmers into bankruptcy and the failure of the farmer has caused the failure of the banks. The situation in agriculture everywhere is about the same as in Iowa, and during this and the preceding administration about 1,000,000 farmers in the United States have lost their homes."

Medicinal Liquor Meeting Called For Washington

Washington, November 29.—Leading distillers of the country will meet here next week to discuss with prohibition officials the plan for creation of a private corporation, supervised by the government, for manufacture of medicinal liquor to replenish the dwindling stocks in the government warehouses.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, outlined the plan for manufacture of medicinal liquor recently and announced he would ask congress for authority to create the private corporation.

Cooperation of distillers will be needed, and Andrews will go over the situation with them next week. Under the plan the private corporation, whose board of directors would be appointed by the government, would manufacture the liquor, while seven distilleries in various parts of the country would handle its distribution.

The Anti-Saloon league, which at first disapproved the idea, now has come around to favor it. Wayne B. Wheeler, of the league, has announced that the legislative committee of the organization will meet here this week to discuss the plan, but said that as far as he knows there will be no opposition. The drys are expected merely to insist that the manufacture is rigidly supervised by the government.

Personal Doctor Of Rockefeller Dies at Age of 87

Cleveland, Ohio, November 29.—(AP) Dr. John Fisk Biggar, personal physician of John D. Rockefeller, who expounded to the millionaire oil king his theory that "the less you eat the longer you'll live" died at his home here today at the age of 87.

And with his passing death intervened in the aspirations of two staunch old friends who had hoped to live to be 100 and who planned to celebrate their 100th birthday's in a game of golf.

For years the association of these two men were unique. When Rockefeller's health was undermined with an attack of acute dyspepsia it was Dr. Biggar who regulated his diet. When the oil magnate was threatened with a cold Dr. Biggar sent him to bed. And he otherwise looked after Rockefeller's health, taking his temperature and advising him daily.

YOUTH PLUNGES TO DEATH IN POOL OF NIAGARA FALLS

Buffalo, N. Y., November 29.—Brushing aside a man who tried to stop him, a youth believed to be Orlando Fiorito, a Syracuse university student, ended his life this afternoon by leaping 100 feet from a bridge into the falls whirlpool.

"Goodbye, dear wife," were his last words as he plunged to his death.

R. C. Farnum, who tried to stop him, was not strong enough to hold him back. No motive could be learned for the suicide.

Papers found in the pockets of the coat which the youth flung aside as he jumped gave the clue to his possible identity. At the Niagara Falls address written with the name it was said a young man named Orlando Fiorito had lived there, but had left a month ago for Syracuse university.

GENERAL MOTORS INSURES 100,000 OF ITS EMPLOYEES

New York, November 29.—(AP)—Group life insurance exceeding $100,000,000 has been taken out by General Motors corporation with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company for more than 100,000 employees who have been on the pay roll three months or longer, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, announced today. The policy covers each worker for $1,000 without medical examination. All new employees will become eligible after serving three months.

The plan is cooperative, both employees and corporation sharing the cost, but in order to get the plan installed promptly, Mr. Sloan stated, General Motors is paying the entire cost for the month of December.

STANDARD DEBENTURE ISSUE OVERSUBSCRIBED

New York, November 29.—(AP)—Oversubscription of the $120,000,000 issue of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey 5 per cent debentures was announced early today by J. P. Morgan & Co. The books for the formal offering were opened at 10 o'clock and immediately closed.

Safety Zones For Dollars

About four out of every ten persons in the United States are gainfully employed. The latest estimate sets the population of this country at about 113,500,000. Of this number about 35,000,000 are children under the age of 15 years. Another 35,000,000 are adults who are not working for pay. This group includes the housewives, persons living on their income, pensioners, adult dependents and the like. In the gainfully employed group approximately 33,500,000 are working for others, and about 9,600,000 are employed or are in business or professions on their own account. Thus, upon the earning power of the 38 per cent of the population in gainful employment is dependent, in a great measure, the welfare of the other 62 per cent.

What is theearning power of those who work with their hands and with their minds? Wages and salaries paid to individuals earning less than $2,000 per year account for more than half of our annual national income of approximately $60,000,000,000. Individuals who earn more than $2,000 are in the minority. In bad years there is idle about 20 per cent of our productive capacity, and this loss of billions of dollars fall heaviest, unfortunately, upon the inividual of least earning power. A common calculation is that 75 per cent of the average income is required to provide food and shelter. Out of the remainder the individual must provide for clothing, education, recreation, luxuries and savings. It is very evident that few men can become rich or even financially independent on their earning power alone.

It is only by working with his savings as well as with his hands or his head that the average man can hope to get ahead. Only by saving consistently and investing wisely and carefully can a man become independent of his wage or salary. Money will work. If but $25 is invested for a period of 25 years and the interest reinvested regularly, this small investment will provide an income of more than $2,000 annually at the end of that period. The earning power of savings at work is enormous. But to get the most in earning power from savings the individual must take care to see that his money is in the hands of men who will employ it honestly and efficiently.

SWIFT SHARES REACH NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

Chicago, November 29.—(AP)—Swift International shares today reached a new high price record for the year—24 1-2, but closed at 23 1-8, almost the lowest figure for the day. The temporary advance was accompanied by rumors that the packing trade difficulties in South America would be settled in a short time, if an agreement had not already been reached.

RADIO-ING The Air Waves.

BY WILL H. SMITH

Receptive conditions were much better last night than they were Sunday evening, with the result we had very little difficulty romping round the dials at will. We were not alone Sunday evening in registering poor reception. We talked with a number of radio fans during the day Monday, many of whom were operating the most modern receivers and every one of them, to a man, told us they, too, had experienced difficulty in bringing in stations.

One of the oddities of the evening Sunday was that there seemed to be no trouble in bringing in the western stations while every one had the greatest difficulty in landing stations in the north. While the Dial Twister was not out Sunday evening for distance he did find Fort Worth and some of the other westerns coming in with a fair degree of clarity. Most of the fans, however, with whom he talked Monday, reported KFI, at San Francisco, and a number of other Pacific coast stations in their log for the evening.

From the diminishing static Monday evening, the chances are that the weather will begin to clear up Tuesday, and by the middle of the week, receptive conditions will be back to normal. November, as a whole, has been pretty fair in so far as reception, though when conditions were at all bad, it was almost impossible to log any station without fading, interference of one sort or another, and static of the worst character.

Like Blanket.

Sunday night it seemed at times as if a blanket had been dropped down over Atlanta shutting off all carrier waves. Monday night this condition was gone entirely and we were able to spear stations in the north, east and west without difficulty. Stations to the south of us, however, were still hard to find though we managed to pick up one or two Florida programs.

One of the pleasant surprises of the evening came to us from WJZ, at New York, where Grant Kimball, Frank Johnson and George Schackley, the popular team known as the Fireside Boys, sang a number of selections including a new number, mighty attractive, labeled "Polyanna." Grant Kimball sang "Mah Rose," and Frank Johnson played a piano selection, "When I Was a Lad," that took the Dial Twister back to the good old days of his youth.

Organ Recital.

"Deep River," that negro spiritual arranged by Harry Burleigh, was featured by the A. & P. Gypsies from the WEAF studios at New York city and broadcast by the string. John Barnes Wells, who has gained considerable fame as a radio tenor, was the soloist of the evening. He sang "Sweet Genevieve," "Deep in the Heart of Me," "Lasted" and "Just Smiling." The last named being the most appreciated by the Dial Twister.

We had another treat earlier in the evening when this Stewardyne, our good friend Berry Cochran, of the Cochran Electric company, sent out for us to use, brought in a 15-minute organ recital from WPG, at Atlantic City. This came to us during a dinner hour concert and the tone quality was full and sweet.

SARA BOSWORTH SAYS MAGICIAN BOEHM, TRIO OF DANCERS, TO AMUSE CO-OPS

With Julian V. Boehm, former vice president of the Atlanta Society of Magicians, as the star performer, and three dance numbers led by Sara Bosworth, well-known local stepper, the members of the Atlanta Cooperative club will sit down to a noon luncheon Tuesday, in No Man's Land room at the Ansley hotel, that promises to be the best of the season, according to an announcement issued Monday by George O. Jones, secretary of the organization.

SARA BOSWORTH.

The Tuesday meeting, the third one arranged by Al. H. Bailey, vice president, under the new plan of giving members pure entertainment instead of cut and dried programs where speeches predominate, will begin promptly at 12:30, the announcement states.

Following the lunch, Julian Boehm will launch his famous line of ledgerdemain. Miss Bosworth, who is to be assisted by Miss Peggy Black and a dancing partner, will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Eunice Holmes. The dancing trio, according to the announcement issued for Mr. Bailey by Secretary Jones, are dancing this week at the new Georgia Keith theater.

The newly developed luncheon plan received added support Saturday evening at a "posum hunt" arranged by Mr. Bailey and staged at the country home of Dr. Eubanks. Members of the organization gathered there to add the finishing touches to the schedule of programs arranged by Mr. Bailey and which are to continue through the winter season.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO HEAR BELDRIDGE OIL SUIT

Washington, November 29.—(AP)—Review of the Belridge Oil company in which the government sought to challenge the validity of naval oil reserve leases made by the interior department was denied today by the supreme court.

Acting on another case, which also involves validity of such leases, the court ordered government counsel to file by December 9 their objections to the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair for a review of the circuit court of appeals decision cancelling his Teapot Dome contract.

The government had requested that the Sinclair proceedings be held in abeyance until the Doheny civil suit, involving the Elk Hills reserve lease, is decided by the court. In both the Doheny and Sinclair cases, the contracts were cancelled on the ground of fraud and in the Doheny case an appeal was granted by the supreme court.

FOREMAN OF GANG HELD IN MURDER OF AGED HERMIT

Greenwood, S. C., November 29.—(AP) Garfield Mathews, white, construction gang foreman, and his two negro helpers were arrested here today in connection with the death of "Frenchy," old hermit of this section, whose head was found floating in a creek here last Friday. Mathews is charged with murder and the negroes are held as material witnesses.

Police would not reveal the evidence against Mathews. Acquaintances of the hermit said that the slain man had sold fish to the gang whose camp was near his shack in the woods, and that there had been a quarrel over payment for a string of fish.

"Frenchy," an old recluse whose name is unknown, had lived here for some years and had made a living by fishing and doing odd jobs. After he had been missing several days, a search was made, and the old man's head was later found in the creek. The body has not been found.
